

Rev. C. I. Calcote Installed at Vass

Charge to New Pastor Delivered by Dr. A. R. McQueen of Dunn

The installation service in the Vass Presbyterian Church on Sunday evening was well attended, with friends of all denominations represented in the community present to welcome the Rev. C. I. Calcote as pastor of the church.

The Rev. Malcolm of St. Paul preached a very impressive sermon, following which Dr. A. R. McQueen of Dunn, a brother of Moore County's own J. R. McQueen, delivered the charge to the pastor, the Rev. Charles A. Lawrence, former pastor of the Vass church, spoke in an intimate way to his friends here and asked that they cooperate with their new pastor in the fine way in which they cooperated with him during his stay here. Elders J. W. Graham and G. McG. Cameron were present as members of the commission.

MARRIAGE LICENSE

A marriage license has been issued from the office of the Register of Deeds of Moore county to Johnny Baldwin and Kathleen Myers, both of Glendon.

ROWLAND DIVORCE CASE VERDICT IS SET ASIDE

In Superior Court at Carthage this week, the case of Margaret S. Rowland versus Rosco A. Rowland in which the plaintiff was suing for divorce and in which the jury returned a verdict favorable to the plaintiff, the court set the verdict aside for the reason that it appeared at the time for answering had not expired, and ordered the cause continued with the right to the plaintiff to try the case at the next civil term of court. This case was listed in last week's paper with those in which divorces were granted.

In caveat proceedings in regard to the last will and testament of J. W. Ritter, deceased, it was ordered that the purported last will of said deceased and letters testamentary issued to Sandy Ritter as executor be stricken from the record.

HOSPITAL DIRECTORS MEET

Routine business was transacted by directors of the Moore County Hospital at their regular quarterly meeting held in the hospital building on Wednesday afternoon.

Foundation work for the new wing of the building is well along and the brick work under way. The addition is expected to be completed by late Fall.

North Carolina's Senior Senator

JOSIAH W. BAILEY

Senator Bailey Stands on Record
In Communication to The Pilot

Has Sought To Do Duty "With An Eye Single to Welfare of Our People"

Editor, The Pilot:

Detained in Washington by duties to which the people of North Carolina appointed me, I have often desired an appropriate opportunity to communicate with them. And now that it is certain that I shall have no other means prior to the Primary, I am taking this method of addressing them briefly through the press.

I have not been unaware of reports of numerous speeches by my opponents appearing daily. I have been astonished by the character of those reports. Purporting to inform the people of my record, they have invariably manifested a gross ignorance of it or a studied effort to misrepresent it. I have realized that one reply by me would call for another and another and so on every day; and it has seemed to me the better course patiently to await the whole process of detraction, and with one communication have an end of the wretched business.

Only today I read as coming from one of my opponents the bold statement that I have procured a list of the stock-holders in a large corporation and have been writing to them. This statement is false, and it is manifestly uttered in a heedless ignorance or a wilful attempt to discredit me. In the same speech it is declared that I introduced a certain amendment, and the public is challenged to deny it. I did not introduce that amendment. It was introduced by Senator Champ Clark. Right or wrong there was nothing bad about it—at worst it was a view upon a matter. Often it is reported that I have voted for only one of the Administration measures, The Tobacco Compact bill, which by the way was not put forward by the Administration. The fact is I have supported nearly every Administration measure, as the list hereto attached will show. Frequently it is solemnly asserted that I have supported no legislation for farmers or workers. The answer is to be found in the same list. Often my opponents affirm or insinuate that I have served one or another special interest. There is no truth in this. I have sought nothing more nor less than the general welfare resolved in terms of the point of view of the people of North Carolina. There is no excuse for misrepresentation in matters of this sort. The truth is quite as available as untruth.

A Question of Truth

I must ascribe this policy of misrepresentation and detraction either to ignorance or a craving for office that has no respect for the truth. I cannot be defended or explained on any ground consistent with fitness for office or trust of the people. If I were to frame an issue in this campaign, I would rest it upon the simple question—Who is telling the truth?

I have said nothing against my detractors. They have undertaken to pitch their issue not upon their qualifications, not upon my record, but upon a long and unbroken series of misrepresentations about matters of public record and common knowledge. This is the best testimony to my record, that is that my opponents studiously conceal it. If they have records, they themselves have not seemed to consider them worthy to put before the people, but have chosen to run upon a policy of specious detraction. I am perfectly willing to stand upon my character, my qualifications and my record, provided that the truth be told. As to none of these do I make claim or give testimony, but leave them to the judgment of men and women who know the truth, who have no selfish ambition to serve and who seek to be guided by the truth.

I am not writing this address because I have fear for the outcome. If I may judge by thousands of letters and by the press, I shall have as great a vindication as one could desire. I am writing only because I do not think that I should appear to acquiesce in such misrepresentations or submit to a policy of detraction so long and so studiously practiced. I do not suspect that many have seen or will be deceived. The people are intelligent. I could hold my peace, but I do not think I should do so.

As a Senator from North Carolina I have sought to do my duty. I have not to make decisions, and to make them soundly has required earnest study and constant application. What motive could I have to neglect my duty or betray my trust? What satisfaction could a decent human being have in such a course? On the other hand, who could measure or resist the inducement worthily to justify the faith and serve the good of a great people? And what reward could one prefer to the satisfaction of faithful service in a great office in the most trying of times?

I claim nothing of perfection for my record; nothing of infallibility. Most of us in the dark days of the depression have had difficult decisions, and few indeed are they who have known precisely what to do. Even our President has publicly expressed his hope that "he might be right seventy-five per cent." None of us have been sure. I claim only to have sought to do my duty with an eye single to the welfare of our people; to have sought this duty with all diligence and unfaltering good faith. I ask no reward on this account. But I do ask that the truth be told, that falsehood be ignored, and that judgment be given upon the facts. Most respectfully.

JOSIAH W. BAILEY.

Here follows the list of measures to which I gave support:

Sixteen Farmers Acts as follows: The Seed Loan Acts of 1932, 1933, 1934, 1935-36, the Reciprocal Tariff Act, the Vocational Educational Appropriation, the Kerr-Smith Tobacco Act, the Potato Control Act, the Peanut Control Act, the Rural Resettlement legislation, the soil Conservation and Crop Control Act, the AAA Act of 1935, the Rural Electrification Act, the Tobacco Compact Act, and the devaluation of the dollar for the purpose of increasing the price of farm products, and the Bankhead Act.

Seven Labor Acts as follows: the first Railroad Pension Bill, the second Railroad Pension Bill, the Social Security Act, (including the pension provisions for the aged, assistance to children, and the retirement funds for workers), the Anti-Injunction and Collective Bargaining legislation offered by Senator Norris, the National Recovery Act, and each of the Public Works Acts to provide or unemployment.

Sixteen General Recovery and Reform Acts as follows: the Stock Exchange Reform Act, the Civilian Conservation Corps Camps Act, the Utilities Control Act, the Federal Housing Act, the Home Owners Loan Corporation Act, the Act expanding the powers of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the Act to guarantee bank deposits, the Currency Reform measure, the Reciprocal Tariff Act, the World Court Treaty proposed by the President, the Silver Purchase Act, the President's Revenue Act, the Municipal Bankruptcy Act, the Cold Reserve Act, the President's Economy Act (by instruction of the North Carolina Legislature), the Pure Food and Drug Act.

Each and all of these thirty-nine Acts were classified as Administration Acts.

CUB SCOUTS ENJOY HIKE AND PICNIC AT RAY HOME

Fifteen Cub Scouts of the Southern Pines troop, led by Scoutmaster Turner, enjoyed a hike to the residence of Dan S. Ray, two miles from town, last Friday, and were the guests of Danny Ray and his neighbors, the Ritchie boys, all Cubs themselves. Football and a tug-of-war, with E. F. Green as referee, were followed by a drill and exercises. A picnic supper, which included sandwiches and cocoa provided by Mrs. Ray, was enjoyed in the grove and the report has it that there wasn't enough left when they'd finished for Danny's dog to nibble on.

Similar hikes and outings are planned for regular intervals during the summer.
