Theatre

Twentieth Century Fox, the Hollywood studio rapidly being recognized as the outstanding picture-making concern of the film industry, is pointing with pride to its forthcoming release, "To Mary—With Love," the attraction at the Southern Pines Theatre, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, August 24, 25, 26, with a Tuesday matinee, and hailed as the great modern love story.

Based on Richard Sherman's highly praised and widely discussed novel of the same title, "To Mary—With Love" is a graphic, vital drama of modern marriage.

Warner Baxter and Myrna Loy, the sweethearts of "Broadway Bill," and "Penthouse," are reunited, with Ian Hunter, Claire Trevor and Jean Dixon also featured.

Melting romantic love interest, comedy, drama and serio melodrama, the story has a modern savor. The locale is New York and other eastern spots, and the time covered is that of the flamboyant years of the 20's and the early months of the present decade of disillusionment and uncertainty. It concerns the adventures of a young Manhattan couple, and their close friends, as they adventure in love and life, during the period encompassed. For the role of the wife, a better choice than Miss Loy could not have been made. Her work is a pleasure to watch and Warner Baxter as the husband handles his role with fine feeling and understanding. The plot is intelligently constructed, the characters are everyday people drawn in a very attractive manner, and the language they speak is clever, yet real, and the things they do are regular.

The attraction for Thursday and Friday, Aug. 27, 28, with a Thursday matinee is the official picture of the Texas Centennial, under the title of "The Texas Rangers," featuring Fred MacMurray, Jack Oakie, Jean Parker, Lloyd Nolan and hosts of others.

It has all the sweep, the drive, and appeal of "The Lives of a Bangai Lancer" plus a powerful love story. It is the first picture ever to bring to the screen the thrilling history of that famous band of Americans—"The Texas Rangers;" the drama of three comrades whose unspoken bond of brotherhood leads one to make extreme sacrifices for the others. Told against the old glorious back-ground of the old West. (remember the appeal of "Cimarron").

An added attraction is the March of Time Magazine No. 17.

Greater love hath no man than that he lay down his life for a friend. And that's the kind of love that comes to the heart of an innocent little gangster in "I'd Give My Life," Paramount's new thriller, which comes to the Southern Pines Theatre, Saturday (one day only) Aug. 29th with a matinee at 3:00, with Sir Guy Standing, Tom Brown, Frances Drake and Janet Beecher heading a large cast of screen favorites. "I'd Give My Life" is adapted from one of the most successful, most vital legitimate plays of recent years, and its story is as poignant and thrilling as if it had been written from today's headlines of your favorite newspaper. It tells the story of an honest Governor, trying to clear his State of racketeers, with the racket chief holding the strongest weapon in the game—the threat of scandal against the Governor's beloved wife, Tom Brown, as the young gang member, as the innocent pawn in the game and when he discovers that he is about to be used to break a tortured woman's heart, he rebels, preferring to take his punishment with sealed lips rather than add to her sorrows, but Brown is hastily summoned to the Governor's office, and in a smashing surprise finish, four tormented lives are straightened out and innocent sufferers are brought to peace and happiness. It's a big picture, a strong picture, a picture that you will remember for a long time.
