Tobacco States Plan Compacts in Conference at Washington

Delegates Discuss Means to Curb Sale of Above-Quota Leaf in Other States

Proceeding along untrod paths, delegates from ten tobacco-producing states explored legal and other difficulties in Washington this week preparatory to drafting a model bill they will ask their legislatures to enact looking toward a tobacco-production-control compact.

Meeting with Agriculture Department experts, the conferees recommended State commissions be named by governors of cooperating states from a slate of nominees elected by producers.

Called together by Ben Kilgore of Louisville, secretary of the Farm Bureau Federation, the delegates also tentatively agreed to recommend that interstate agreements be left to a body composed of members of State commissions, with representation based upon the total production of each state.

James Bagwell, of the Agriculture Department's legal staff, told the delegates that under the Federal legislation authorizing State tobacco control production compacts, states probably would be powerless to invoke Federal aid to prevent sale without penalty of tobacco above a quota agreement by taking the product into a non-compact state.

There was some indication the conferees would seek aid of Congress next season in giving Federal protection to the compacts. Such a provision was not included in the Federal statute passed last session.

Three methods of enforcing State agreements with growers were put forward. One would be to levy a tax on all tobacco and exempt tobacco within given quotas. Another would be to levy a tax on all above the quota, and the third would be to set up a control agency within each state.

The delegates failed to agree upon a taxing plan, since it was held the courts might not construe such a tax to be for public purposes under the constitutions of the states involved.

Only Virginia now has a tobacco control act, but delegates said the legislatures of all other states represented would meet next year. The other states represented were Kentucky, Tennessee, West Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Connecticut, and Pennsylvania.

Effectiveness of the Virginia statute is contingent upon adoption of similar legislation by other states growing types of tobacco produced in Virginia.

Lucky 17
Ray Scarborough Aberdeen Pitcher, and Bob Feller Score Strike-Out Records

Seventeen was a lucky number for a couple of baseball pitchers last week-end.

In Aberdeen last Saturday, in a Peach Belt league game between Aberdeen and Biscoe, Ray Scarborough, young Aberdeen pitcher struck out 17 men. This was in the second contest of a double header, and Scarborough had pitched the first game also. He struck out but one man in the initial battle.

The following day Bob Feller, young Cleveland rookie, broke the American League record by striking out 17 in a game against Philadelphia.

Biscoe won the first game from Aberdeen, 2 to 1, Aberdeen taking the second behind Scarborough's brilliant achievement, 5 to 1.

Border Belt Prices Up But Quality is Off

Tobacco Growers of Seven N. C. Counties Receive Considerably Less Than Last Year

Though tobacco prices in the Border belt were higher during August of this year than last, returns to the farmers were less due to a much reduced crop.

The average of sales was $23.51 a hundred, as against $22.44 last year, but this year's sales only totalled 22,686,412 pounds as against 32,473,330 pounds last August. So that growers in the seven North Carolina markets of the Border belt received this year $4,776,713 as against $7,287,015 a year ago. Here are the figures by markets:

Town	Producers'
	Sales	Price
Chadburn	$ 822,786	$20.09
Clarkton	556,468	21.93
Fair Bluff	255,672	21.13

Fairmont	6,758,301	24.75
Lumberton	6,752,312	23.64
Tabor City	736,193	22.09
Whiteville	4,436,063	22.69

However, good weather in August, the Crop Reporting service reports, reflected itself in such marked improvement in conditions in North Carolina that outlook for tobacco, corn and other crop yields increased considerably during the month.

The indicated tobacco yield jumped to 463,812,000 pounds from 450,459,000 estimated on August 1 as conditions rose 6 per cent to 72 per cent of normal. Last year's yield was 577,435,000 pounds, but the 1928-32 average was only 469,135,000.
