Seawell Asks Support For Increased Court

Urges Kiwanians to Vote For Constitutional Amendment to Add Two Judges

A plea for support for a State Constitutional amendment increasing the Supreme Court membership from five to seven was made to members of the Kiwanis Club of Aberdeen by Attorney Herbert F. Seawell, Jr., of Carthage, district chairman of the State group seeking the amendment.

"They are overworked. I have seen lights burning in their offices as late as midnight when I've been in Raleigh," he said. "They need more time to properly pass on the law of the land. I have only one objection to the amendment as proposed. It should call for four more judges, not two, with the State's 20 districts sending up cases for review."

Says Lobsters Undersized and Disappointed in Love, Which Bodes Ill for F. D. R. in Maine

By Ralph W. Page

As Maine goes, so goes the nation. By all means then, let's visit Maine and find out how it is going.

Disguised as a lobster fisherman we sail through the purple islands and interview those in the know.

And so we hail a yawl in a harbor and are rewarded by finding Jim Boyd, that famous historian, master of hounds and observer of events.

"Tell us, Jim, tell us what the composite down-east mind makes of Quoddy and what kind of vote will be cast along the Penobscot, and why."

"The lobsters," answered Jim, "are scarce and undersized and disappointed in love. Fickle soubrettes have turned to shrimps and rum cocktails, and the market is deplorable. This bodes ill for Roosevelt. On the other hand the fog hangs heavy over the bays, and this is attributed to Republican heat waves, and loses votes for Landon."

"All this, however, is superficial. Realistically speaking, the sensitive and hard-headed Yankees have long since fled the politicians and retired to the deep northern woods and set sail for the sunrise, to ride out the storm."

"Their idea of a political campaign is my idea of an earthquake or a monsoon. An interesting phenomenon, no doubt, but best observed from a safe and disinterested distance."

"The only interview on the political situation that has stood the test of time was given years ago by Bert Lester Taylor in the Chicago News or Tribune, I don't remember which. It is just as good for the current effort to save the nation as it has been for all previous efforts:

When quacks with pills political would dope us And politics consume the livelong day. I like to think about the star Canopus So far, so far away.

Greatest of visioned orbs 'mongst those who list 'em. To weigh it science ever must despair. (Please turn to page 4)
