WINTER SEASON OPENS; ANNUAL INVASION IS ON

Busy Program of Sports and Entertainment Arranged
For Old and Young

March. The course was sodded with Bermuda turf during the past summer and is in excellent condition for the meet this Spring.

James and Jackson Boyd maintain a private pack of foxhounds for their friends who hunt with them three times each week. Weekly gymkhanas will start the 4th of December and continue throughout the winter. The entries for the opening show will include some of the best jumpers training in this section. There are miles of bridle trails to invite those who enjoy horseback riding.

Quail hunting is another popular pastime in the Sandhills. The quail season opened this month and will remain open until February. Reports are that there is an abundance of birds this year. The deer season is now open and already more than fifty bucks have been killed this season.

In addition to a number of golf tournaments, of which the Women's Ninth Annual MidSouth Championship to be played at the Southern Pines Country Club is the most outstanding, there are also a number of tennis events on the calendar. The town maintains two very fine tennis courts in the municipal park and other courts are provided at the hotels and clubs.

Hotel Accommodations

Southern Pines offers the very best of hotel accommodations. There are places to meet the requirements of anyone. They are far enough away from the business section to avoid the noise down town, yet close enough to make the stores and shops on Broad street accessible.

There are hundreds of miles of sand-clay roads and trails in and around the resort. Southern Pines is within seventy miles of Raleigh, one hundred-five miles of Charlotte, two hundred twenty-five miles of Asheville, one hundred thirty-miles of Wilmington, one hundred-one of Winston-Salem and within seventy-five miles of Durham, the city in which Duke University is located. It is within sixty-five miles of Chapel Hill where the University of North Carolina is located, one of the oldest universities in the country. Southern Pines is within thirty-five miles of Fort Bragg, the largest artillery reservation in the country, and only a few miles from Fort Bragg is Fayetteville where an old slave market is located.

The town maintains a modern fire department. It has one of the latest designed water plants with a graduate chemist in charge. The impounding reservoir covers more than six hundred acres of land and is supplied by springs. The milk supply of the town is under the control of the North Carolina State Board of Health. The town has adopted the Standard Milk Ordinance recommended by the U. S. Department of Health in Washington. A very rigid inspection of dairies and equipment is made daily.

Real Estate Active Many New Residences

Richard P. Davidson of Cooperstown, N. Y., while Tom Baker is finishing a home on the Highway just beyond the town limits. Downtown, the new business home of the J. N. Powell company is nearing completion.

Three recent sales of attractive residences have been made. Preston T. Kelsey of Montclair, N. J., acquired the Tracy property on the corner of Country Club Drive and Massachusetts avenue; David G. Baird of New York City the Clara Pushee residence on Highland road, and Howard F. Burns the former Benson house on Massachusetts avenue. Other sales for home purposes have been the Lewis house on Bennett street to J. T. Overton, the Buckley house on the same street to W. L. Baker, the Henry Kelly house on Indiana avenue to Mrs. Nellie W. Mann, the Ames house on Ashe street to Walter Allison, the Silver house on Vermont avenue to J. D. Hasty, the Burgess bungalow on Ohio avenue to Vance McMillan and the Lashe house on Ashe street to Earl Merrill.

One of the most important rentals of the season was that of the Holt house, known as the Johnson house, to Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hilderman who are operating it as the Pine Cone Lodge.
