

Tour of Seeing America in Cars "Borrowed" En Route Ends Here

Four teen-age Philadelphia boys, Thomas Stackhouse, Raymond Woodruff, Theodore Moore and Arthur Woods, started to Florida, but they landed in the Moore county jail and when they leave there, they will be headed in the opposite direction from Florida. A fifth boy, Albrt Hayden, after a brief detention which followed an "on again, of again" trip down, was allowed to go on his way to New Orleans.

According to the testimony given in Recorder's Court at Carthage, the story goes like this:

The four boys started out from the Pennsylvania city in a car which belonged to the brother of one of the quartet. Out from Baltimore they picked up Hayden, who was thumbing his way to Louisiana.

All went well until they got down into Virginia, and there the car broke down. There was not enough cash among them to pay for repairs. Hayden shouldered his pack and started on by the thumb route and according to his testimony, he "caught several hops." The other boys decided to take a car in order to continue the trip.

Near Henderson, this state, in their "borrowed" car, the Philadelphia youths again caught up with Hayden and took him in. Luck was with them until they reached Raleigh, and there it was necessary to procure another car. The hiker declined to take any part in any unlawful measure, shouldered his pack and proceeded southward. Not to be outdone, the four abandoned their Virginia car for one which they took possession of in Raleigh.

Down the way a distance, they again caught up with Hayden and for the third time gave him a lift. When they reached Aberdeen, they ran out of gas. Two of the boys halted by the highway while two more scouted around for an automobile from which they planned to transfer the car to their car. Hayden walked on.

Police Officer Deaton was notified of the presence of the two boys who waited and he took them in charge. As he was going in with them, they met the Pontiac coupe of Lee Page which the other two boys had taken for its gas supply. When they saw that their buddies had been nabbed, they left the car and ran, but were soon taken. Hayden was arrested farther down the road.

In court, they were charged with the temporary larceny of a car, found guilty and sentenced to serve three months, at the expiration of which they are to be turned over to Raleigh authorities to answer the charge of stealing a car there. Hayden was allowed to go on his way, he being exonerated by the other boys of having any part in the series of thefts. The boys had never been in court before, they claimed.

Carolina Car Owners in Poll Vote For Highway Safety Measures

Carolians are voting in favor of increased safety measures by overwhelming majorities in the referendum being conducted by the Carolina Motor Club, according to an analysis of ballots received at the Charlotte headquarters.

The single exception is the proposal that governors be installed on all automobiles to limit the speed, which has carried by only 58 per cent of the vote.

Ten items are listed on the ballots which are being distributed through Carolina Motor Club representatives, branch offices, The Carolina Crusader, and newspapers throughout North Carolina and South Carolina. The ballot has been prepared as a survey to obtain public sentiment regarding regulation and legislation in the interest of curtailing traffic accidents.

The items and percentages of favorable and unfavorable votes follow:

1. Severe consistent penalties for violation of traffic laws which are known to cause accidents: Yes 97.3 per cent; no 2.7.
2. Jail sentences for conviction of driving under the influence of intoxicants (drunk driving): Yes, 96.6 per cent; no, 3.4.
3. Jail sentences for reckless driving endangering life: Yes, 92.7 per cent; no, 7.3.
4. Strict driver's tests and examination when driver's licenses are applied for or renewed: Yes, 96.2 per cent; no, 3.8.
5. Require pedestrians to obey traffic signals with fines for violations: Yes, 94.4 per cent; no, 5.6.
6. Compulsory mechanical inspection of all motor vehicles: Yes, 94.7 per cent; no, 5.3.
7. Uniform traffic laws and regulations in all cities: Yes, 98.3 per cent; no, 1.7.

8. Installation of governors mechanically limiting the speed of automobiles: Yes, 58.7; no, 41.3.

9. Uniform enforcement and consistent sentences for all traffic violations: Yes, 94.4 per cent; no, 5.6.

10. Establishment of local and State traffic violations bureaus with specific fines for certain minor violations—to prevent delay and crowding of courts and reduce the expense of handling guilty violators of minor laws: Yes, 92.9 per cent; no, 7.1.

Space is also provided for recording suggestions for increasing safety in the Carolinas. Results of the referendum will determine the club's 1937 legislative policy.

Legion and Auxiliary To Meet on Thursday

Sandhills Post Receives Citation From National Headquarters for Increased Membership

The December meeting of the Sandhills Post, American Legion, will be held jointly with the Ladies' Auxiliary on Thursday evening, December 10th, at 8:00 o'clock in the club house, Southern Pines. It is strongly rumored that the ladies are planning to serve refreshments. In that event, Sergeant-at-Arms Watson has promised to see to it that a "K. P. Detail" will be on hand to assist. A heater has been installed since the last meeting, assuring the company a comfortable evening. A cordial invitation is extended to all members of the Auxiliary and Legion and to all eligible service men to attend this get-together meeting.

The membership this year is far ahead of last year, winning for the post a citation from national headquarters. Comrade J. Vance Rowe is chairman of a committee to organize a squadron of "The Sons of the American Legion." Notice of the organization meeting will be announced later.

1883 Cornet proved tuberculosis is spread by expectoration of consumptives

1936 HOLIDAY GREETINGS

Six years after Koch had discovered that tuberculosis is caused by a germ, George Cornet contributed to our knowledge of the disease still further by showing that the germs are found in large numbers in the sputum of those who have tuberculosis. It promptly destroyed, best done by burning the sputum, the germs do no harm. When scattered about through spitting, coughing and sneezing, through using the same dishes or bedding, the careless consumptive is a constant menace.

MRS. EDWARD LANE DIES; FREQUENT VISITOR HERE

Mrs. Edward James of Kushequa, Pa., died in the Kane Hospital Sunday, November 22. Mrs. James leaves her husband, a son and four daughters and several grandchildren. A brother, James Hayes, and a sister Mrs. E. K. Kane of Kushequa also survive. Mrs. James made her first trip to Southern Pines 30 years ago. Since then she has been a winter visitor on several occasions as the guest of her sister, Mrs. Kane. Mrs. Howard Butler and Miss Virginia Kane of Greensboro, nieces of Mrs. James, left Monday morning for the North to attend the funeral of their aunt.
