William Nichol Hutt Passes At 65 in Ellenville, New York

Southern Pines Resident Was One of the Pioneers of the Sandhills Peach Industry

William Nichol Hutt, for many years a resident of the Sandhills, died on Thursday night, September 2, in Ellenville, N. Y., at the home of his wife, Anne Eliza Cox Hutt, where they were accustomed to spend the summer months together. Mr. Hutt's health had been failing for some time, but the end came quite suddenly.

William Nichol Hutt was born at Stamford, Welland county, Ontario, Canada, on the 26th of April, 1872, one seven children born to Frederick Augustus Hutt and his wife, Jeanette Downie Lawson Hutt. After completing his course of studies at the public schools, Mr. Hutt was graduated in high standing from the University of Toronto, Canada. Upon finishing his university work he engaged in teaching at colleges in Utah, Md., and the University of North Carolina, from which place he resigned his professorship to accept a position offered him as State Horticulturist of North Carolina. His work—writing and lecturing—brought him in contact with an enthusiastic group of the early peach growers in North Carolina with whom he identified himself and became interested personally and financially in some of the largest fruit-growing orchards in the state.

For the past 20 years Mr. Hutt has been actively identified with the development of North Carolina's possibilities in which he had great faith. After moving from his peach orchard in West End to Southern Pines, he gave freely of his time and services for the development of local interests, among them the Bird Club of which he later became president. He was associated with the late Rev. Alaric James Drew, former rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, in raising funds for the new church on Massachusetts avenue, and was treasurer of the Building Fund. He was also superintendent of the church School, and was always specially interested in the activities of young people, by many of whom he was affectionately called "Uncle Billy." Mr. Hutt also assisted on the committee in the early organization of the Moore County Hospital. He was at one time a member of the Kiwanis Club.

Quiet and reserved in manner, Mr. Hutt was a man of scholarly attainments and of a deeply religious nature, and was always interested in all lines of public improvement. His garden with its varieties of shrubs and flowers, including the "Van Hooten" specimen, so named from one of his ancestors, was the source of much pleasure to many groups of individuals who came this spring to see his fine bed of azaleas growing in such profusion and beauty. His many friends will greatly regret the loss of so fine a character.

Mr. Hutt is survived by his widow, Anne Eliza Cox Hutt, a brother, Professor Howard L. Hutt of Georgetown, Ontario, Canada, a nephew, Professor Frederick Hutt of Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., and three sisters: Mrs. Jenny Kennedy of Toronto, Miss Marjorie Hutt of Lethbridge, Canada and Miss Alice Hutt who is on her return trip from two years of European travel. There are also three nieces living in Canada, Miss Jean Hutt and the Misses Margaret and Jeanette Kennedy.

Funeral services were held in Ellenville, N. Y., on Sunday, September 5th.

CAMEL FINDS GOODMAN SWING MUSIC POPULAR

R. J. Reynold Tobacco Company is capitalizing on country-wide interest in swing music through its summer radio show featuring Benny Goodman, King of Swing, his swing orchestra, swing chorus and Hollywood guest stars. This already sensationally successful program is being broadcast every Tuesday evening over the Columbia coast-to-coast network.

In a recent nation-wide poll on the popularity of swing bands Goodman's group totaled two and a half times as many votes as those of his nearest competitor. In the same poll these swing artists more than doubled the runner-up votes for favorite band of 1937, Goodman's "School of Swing"—a painless education in synopated knowledge—provides about twenty minutes of swing music and about ten minutes devoted to representatives of the "Society for the Prevention of Swing." The latter never fails to provide a comic interlude for the show.

Theatre

A gay and magnificent musical that skims in shimmering delight along the silvery Alpine slopes, snow-drenched with dazzling spectacle and exciting beauty, heart-warming with riotous fun and young romance, brings Sonja Henie and Tyrone Power together, as you wanted them to be, thrilling as you knew they'd be, in "Thin Ice," the attraction at the Southern Pines Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 13, 14 and 15, at 8:20 p. m., with a Tuesday matinee at 3:00.

"Thin Ice" is the kind of picture theatre owners like to think they would make if they were producers and producers would make nothing else, if they could. It has what is commonly known as everything. There is the sparkling precedent of "One In A Million" and here is Sonja Henie, whose skating is, of course, the utterly perfect thing around which the picture is built. This time she has in three major production numbers the support of an ice ballet of possibly 150 almost as flawless on runners as the Music Hall Rockettes in shoe leather. These production spectacles backgrounding Miss Henie's incredible solos set a new high in screencraft and at no sacrifice of stellar glory.

Joan Davis stops the show and steals the picture with two comedy songs, "Ciga from the Volga," and "My Swiss Hillbilly," and Arthur Treacher, Raymond Walburn and Alan Hale do themselves proud in the humor department. If "Thin Ice" doesn't break all early season records at the Carolina Theatre, then the management will throw away statistics and get an ouija board.

Beginning with "Thin Ice," the regular Tuesday matinees will be reinstated and the 10c admission for children under twelve will be discontinued.

Another top-notch attraction, "The Big City," is coming to Southern Pines Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Sept. 16, 17 and 18, at 8:20 p. m., with a Saturday matinee at 3:00, with the stars of "The Good Earth," Luise Rainer, and of "Captains Courageous," Spencer Tracy, united in a picture presenting a cross section of American metropolitan life, with Tracy as a New York taxi driver who becomes involved in a war between rival taxicab companies, and Miss Sonnenberg, Bull Montana, Snowy Baker and Taski Hagio frame a riotous finish that has never been equalled on the screen.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to express our sincere thanks for the words of sympathy extended to us by our friends during our bereavement.
