"He said: 'In this country the British Conservative of 1938 would be denounced as a dangerous Red.'

"Let's look at that. What, in this country, do we mean by a dangerous Red? We mean a man or woman who would like to destroy our way of life and is using what gitls and energy he may have to undermine our government instead of supnot mean opposing; in open opposition an action entitled as above has been brings to obscured issues. I do not er with penalty, interest and cost, nent as a dangerous Red. "Terrific Indictment"

America when the economic depres-tion struck us in 1929 with the full sion struck us in 1929 with the full force of an unexpected and violent tornado, there were men who yearned for dictatorship and, interestingly enough, those who were willing to enough, those who were willing to given to all persons claiming any in-accept a Fascist form of govern- terest in the subject matter of this ment, those who even went so far as to suggest one, were not the lowly of the land or even its average citizens. They were those who, pos-sessing wealth and economic power and social prestige, were willing to of sacrifice the liberties of America in order that they might cling just a little longer to their wealth and power.'

"Think over that last sentence. It is a terrific indictment of somebody. It calls somebody-and more than one person-a traitor to his country, a traitor to all ideals which made America and made her great tained in a certain Deed of Trust ex-and. God willing, will make her ecuted by Richard W. Lachine, unand, God willing, will make her dangerous and inflammatory statement without offering proof of any kind. He lays suspicion on every man and woman of wealth and eronomic power and social prestige, suspicion of being a traitor to America the powers of sale contained therein and to democracy.
