L. R. Harril Lauds Moore County at Meeting at Carthage

"There is no better place in life for the young men and women of Moore County than Moore County itself," said L. R. Harril, State 4-H Club Leader, to the Moore County Service Club at the club's annual banquet meeting held last Thursday evening in the Court House at Carthage. Mr. Harril emphasized the necessity of a program that included the county as well as individual interests. Two outstanding projects were recreation and beautification that the members could carry into their communities.

Mrs. Esther G. Willis, district agent, commended the members on their work and urged them to reach out into every section of the county. Both Mr. Harril and Mrs. Willis stressed the importance of economic independence. This could only be done by wise planning and careful observance of the plans regardless of the size of income.

Following the dinner, singing and games were directed by Mr. Harril. Edward Comer, president, presided. Thirty members were present.
