Spelling Champ

Lewis Haynes of Southern Pines Wins Prize Contest at Winston-Salem

Lewis Haynes, eight-grade pupil of Southern Pines Schools, emerged as the winner over 39 other competitors in the third annual spelling bee of The Journal and Sentinel last week in Winston-Salem.

Haynes took top honors after Adele Baber of Mount Airy, who stayed until the last, misspelled "chattel" by spelling it "chattal."

As winner of the contest, Haynes was awarded a large unabridged dictionary and a free trip to Washington to represent this section in the national contest. The 40 participants were winners of city and county contests held during the past few weeks. Altogether there were 17 cities and 23 counties represented.

Burton Tells of Plans For Boys School Here

Headmaster-Elect Outlines Program; Says State in Need of Such a School

Such schools as the North Carolina Preparatory School for Boys, in project for the Sandhills, will fill an existing gap in the educational system of the state, Thomas Burton, headmaster-elect of the school, told members of the Sandhills Kiwanis Club Wednesday. It would be a misuse of the taxpayers money to raise the standards of our public schools to meet college requirements with such a small percentage of the pupils desirous of or able to attend college. But there is need in the state for independent schools for those who would fit themselves for higher education.

Mr. Burton told of plans for the school here, which would be operated under the tutorial system, with from eight to 12 boys assigned to one faculty member, each group living in its own house. The physical plans for the local institution include an academic building, a shop and studio building, a service center, an administrative center, an assembly hall, and the cottages or small dormitories for the boys and masters. In all, $600,000 will be needed to complete the plant, but a start will be made as soon as one-third of this amount is available, and this is hoped for this fall. Mr. Burton was presented to the club by A. L. Burney of Aberdeen.

Three Programs To Be Offered by Civic Club

Poetry Today, Music at Club-house Sunday and Mid-Pines Club Tuesday

Today, Friday, at the Civic Club at 3:00 o'clock, Miss Meade Seawell of Carthage will devote an hour to poetry.

On Tuesday afternoon of next week, April 16th at 3:00 o'clock, the Civic Club will present the heads of the Music departments of Flora MacDonald College in a splendid musical. Dean Eberly will come as pianist, Miss Estelle Cooney, instructor of voice, as soprano, Mrs. Robeson, head of the violin department, will play, and Mrs. Eberly, viola, will join with her husband and Mrs. Robeson in a Mozart trio.

This musical is made possible through the kindness of John J. Fitzgerald of the Mid-Pines Club, furnishing an ideal music room and an excellent Piano. There will be a charge of fifty cents for each guest, and the members of the club are pleased to open this meeting to the cottage colony and guests in hotels, and tickets will be on sale at the door.

As a special addition to the musical program, a group of young women will present the Highland Fling in costume, and other Scotch and solo dances.

There will be a program of spirituals at the Civic Club Sunday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock to which the public is invited. A group of well trained singers from West Southern Pines will present this hour of Southern music, the same group having delighted a similar audience here last spring. A silver collection will be taken, part of which will be given to the health clinic.

POLITICAL CAMPAIGN IN MOORE COUNTY WARMS

in the State Legislature, and it's anybody's guess. W. R. Clegg of Carthage is seeking to return to his seat but has a formidable opponent in his predecessor in office, J. Hawley Poole of West End. Poole is not making the mistake he did the last time he ran against Clegg, and is taking the campaign seriously, visiting all section of the county and getting acquainted with the voters. Malcolm J. McLean of Carthage is also in the race, and those who know Mr. McLean regard him as one who would make a capable representative. Whether his acquaintanceship is broad enough throughout the county to make him a figure in the campaign is a question. He is busy extending it, and will have quite a following before the primary.

Moore county will not have a candidate for State Senator this year, this district being made up of four counties which alternate candidates electing two. Ryan McBryde of Raeford, former State Senator, has announced for one of the seats.

The primaries will be on Saturday, May 25th. All eligible voters in the county must register prior to that date, regardless of whether they have been previously registered or not, the County Board of Elections having ordered a complete new registration. Details of this registration are contained in an advertisement in this issue of The Pilot.

A Sound Program of Progress For North Carolina

LOYALTY TO PARTY RECORD AND TRADITIONS: "In North Carolina the Democratic party has, by vote of the people, been vested with responsible leadership continuously for forty years. Under this leadership the State has made remarkable progress. Beginning with Governor Aycock, the successive administrations have justified the faith of the people; and this high record has in every respect been maintained under the great leadership of Governor Clyde R. Hoey. If nominated and elected as Governor, I shall strive earnestly to uphold the record and traditions of the Democratic party in North Carolina."

FINANCES: "In its financial structure the State is sound. The budget is balanced and the bonded indebtedness is being steadily and substantially reduced. This record should continue. I will oppose any measure or appropriation that will cause a deficit or in any wise impair the credit of the State."

TAXES: "Taxes in North Carolina are as high in my opinion as the people can stand. Adjustments may be needed and a constant and intelligent study of the whole tax question should be made. The effort should be towards reduction and not increase. The State has wisely adopted the policy of no State tax on land, and this policy should be maintained. In order to meet the obligations of the State the sales tax must be continued, but, in conformity with the pledges of the Democratic party, all food for home consumption should be exempted. Let us take the sales tax off the home table. The improvement in business as reflected in increased revenue under our present laws will now justify this action."

ROADS: Unqualified opposition to any diversion of highway funds. Adequate provision throughout the State for all-weather farm-to-market and home-to-school roads. Continued new construction with adequate maintenance and the elimination of narrow bridges.

SCHOOLS: (1) Adequate and immediate provision for teachers' retirement fund; (2) Provision for sick leave without loss or pay; (3) Improvement in compensation to teachers; (4) Reasonable assurance as to teaching tenure; (5) Continued emphasis on vocational guidance and training; (6) Encouragement of Federal aid without any Federal control.

HEALTH PROGRAM: "Our public health program, already ranking high among the states, will be carried forward with increasing usefulness. Every dollar spent for public health is a sound economic investment."

CONSERVATION AND DEVELOPMENT: Enlargement of this work; continued advertising of State's resources and resorts; no diversion of fish and game license receipts; fullest development of fish and oyster industry.

RETIREMENT FUNDS: All employees of the State, including teachers, should be put on a reasonable retirement plan, with contribution by the employees and by the State. Especial provision should be made for retirement as well as death or disability benefits for all law enforcement officers of the State, counties and municipalities, and all costs collected should go into this fund and not be diverted for other purposes.

PENSIONS: Provisions of the law for old age assistance should be continued and increased when revenues permit. The provisions of the Social Security law should be continued as a fixed policy.

AGRICULTURE: "North Carolina ranks near the top as an agricultural state. A substantial majority of all the people of the State are concerned with agricultural conditions. We are facing an agricultural crisis. Every agency of the State should cooperate in improving marketing facilities, road conditions and other conditions affecting the welfare of the farmer. The State should cooperate fully with the Federal government in getting benefits for the farmer."

LAW ENFORCEMENT: "A great majority of the citizens of this State are home-loving, church-going people. I share and respect this attitude. We will not countenance or tolerate any practice which tends to lower or degrade the public morals."

INDEPENDANCE: "In entering this campaign I do so upon my own initiative and responsibility and not as the candidate of any group or political faction. I have made no alliance with or any commitment to any group or individual. If nominated and elected, I will be under no obligation except to serve the people of North Carolina to the best of my ability."
