ELECTRIC POWER wrote a Declaration of Independence, too!

Since its very beginning, Electricity has been writing a declaration of independence for people everywhere. Independence for the homemakers and their families from the discomforts and drudgery of old-time living... Independence for business and industry from the hampering effects of slow and costly methods of production. It is a declaration of independence that is still being written, amended and improved, as the benefits of electric services are extended and new uses discovered and developed. It is unending.

We are proud of the part we have played in the development of Urban,

Farm, Commercial, and Industrial Independence through Cheap Electricity in the territory served by our company.

Electricity is Cheap. HAVE You Changed?
