

Now! School Again

Dear Julie:
I've made a discovery!
When you buy Sara de Saix dresses in TOTS' TOGGERY they give you a balloon. At least, they will as long as they last. So—you'd better hurry down here and do your shopping.
Of course, Sister can't wear these to college, but she says the "umph" the Gay Gibsons have more than makes up for the balloons.
And Jackie is certainly pleased with his new Kaysee suits.

Love,
Penny

Next Thursday will see the streaking of children of Southern Pines back to their desks in the primary, elementary and high school grades of the local schools. Everything is reported in readiness for the start of the Fall term. Superintendent of Schools Harold J. Weaver has announced his complete faculty, listed on Page 1 of this issue of The Pilot.

PHILIP J. WEAVER
Superintendent of Schools

On opening day last year the enrollment was 425, a figure that was considerably swelled within the succeeding few weeks by the arrival of families from the north who winter here. This year it is estimated that the first day enrollment will be ahead of a year ago, due to the early arrival of a number of winter residents and to the fact that several of the Army officers now residing in town have children they plan to enter.

Notre Dame Academy also opens next week, on Tuesday. This comparatively new Southern Pines institution has been making rapid progress since its inception, and looks for a splendid enrollment

"If you call right
after seven, Daddy

I'll still be up and can talk to you too..."

The practical little miss might have added that out-of-town calls cost little, especially after seven. However, she is more interested in hearing the voice of her daddy—the sound of his warm, familiar voice, that would help tide things over until he returns. Nothing conquers miles so completely as a heart-to-heart telephone call. Try it the next time you're out of town—you'll find the pleasure goes both ways, and you'll be glad you called.
