Being the identical property described in a deed dated August 1913 and executed by C. T. Patch and wife, Clara S. Patch, to Eloise E. Jackman, the same being duly filed for registration October 24, 1913, and recorded in Deed Book 55, Page 211, of the Public Registry for Moore County, and being the identical lands portrayed on a map made by Paul M. Van Camp, Civil Engineer, of Southern Pines, North Carolina, on April 19, 1934, and attached at Page 3 of the abstract of title of lands of H. A. Jackman, the same being duly filed with the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, being Loan No. 31-B-723.

The purchaser at this sale will be required to make a cash deposit of 5 per cent of the purchase price to show good faith.

This, the 6th day of January, 1941.

T. C. ABERNATHY,
Substituted Trustee.
M. C. Boyette, Attorney J17-F7.

Comings and Goings in Vass

Preaching Services

The Rev. H. G. Bryant of Pine Level has accepted an invitation to preach in the Vass Baptist Church Sunday morning, January 26, at 11:00 o'clock, and the public is cordially invited to hear him. At 7:30 Sunday evening, the Rev. Mr. McMahan of Fayetteville will fill his regular appointment at the Vass Presbyterian Church. All are invited to attend.

Maples-Richardson

Miss Ruby Richardson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Richardson of near Vass, and Gilbert Maples, son of Mr. and Mrs. Coy Maples of Cameron, were united in marriage on Saturday, January 11, at 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon, the vows being spoken before the Rev. M. D. McNeill at his home in Sanford. The bride was graduated from Vass-Lakeview High School with the class of 1937. Mr. and Mrs. Maples are at home in Concord.

Hostesses to Auxiliary

Mrs. Annie Chappell and Mrs. M. M. Chappell were hostesses to the Presbyterian Auxiliary at their home Tuesday evening. "What Price Missions?" was the topic of the program presented under the leadership of Mrs. W. D. McCraney with Mrs. Fairley Cameron, Mrs. N. N. McLean, Mrs. P. A. Wilson and Miss Agnes Smith taking part. Mrs. M. M. Chappell conducted the Bible study. Following the business meeting the hostesses served delicious refreshments.

Enjoying Sunshine Basket

Mrs. C. J. Temple, who is confined to her bed by a broken leg, is getting a daily thrill from a "Sunshine Basket" presented to her last week by fellow members of the Vass Woman's Club. Each day she is allowed to open one package from the basket, and in addition to the pleasure of admiring that day's gift, she can shake the other packages and wonder what the next day's offering will be, as there is no law against anything less than opening them.

Birth Announcements

Mr. and Mrs. George Blue announce the birth of a 9-pound daughter at their home on Sunday, January 19.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lassiter of Sanford have announced the arrival of a daughter on Sunday, January 19. Mr. and Mrs. Lassiter recently moved from Vass to Sanford.

Attend Funeral

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Smith, L. B. Fry, Ruth, Rachel and Billie Fry, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Fry, Mrs. Arch Fry, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Boggs and Mrs. Artemus Fry attended the funeral of Mrs. Mary Martindale at High Falls Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Martindale was a sister of Mrs. John Fry, of Vass.

Vass Personals

Miss Lula Peart Alexander, who is a student at a beauty college in Durham, came home Sunday to spend a few days recovering from an attack of influenza.

Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Jackson and children, Janet and Bruce, visited relatives near Dunn during last weekend. They were accompanied home by Mr. Jackson's mother, Mrs. Bertha Jackson, who will remain for several days.

Mrs. Naude Brooks and son, Bobby Wayne, of Sanford were week-end guests of the former's sister, Mrs. Clyde Cox.

Mrs. Lee Jones and daughter, Miss Naomi Jones, and Miss Carrie Smith, returned to their home in Fayetteville Sunday after spending several days with Mr. and Mrs. John Stutts.

Miss Caro West and Mr. Cameron of the Mount Pleasant section of Hoke county called on Mrs. W. T. Cox and family Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. McMillan visited the former's mother, Mrs. Hattie McMillan, at her home in Selma Saturday night and Sunday.

Judge Burney Orders 4 To Jail for Perjury

Finds Witnesses Not Speaking the Truth in Testimony in Worthy Case

Charged with committing "corrupt and willful perjury" Steve Worthy, Julia Brown, Helen Worthy and Nannie Mae Dowdy, witnesses in the case of State versus Colin Worthy, were Tuesday afternoon at the order of Judge J. J. Burney committed to jail in default of $1,000 bond, each, to await trial at the next term of criminal court. The Judge's action came as a surprise to the principals and created somewhat of a sensation throughout the courtroom in Carthage.

Judge Burney, who was commissioned by Governor Broughton to preside over Moore's term of criminal court after it was learned that Judge Frank M. Armstrong would be unable to be present, had warned his hearers on the opening day of court against making false statements, and that he meant what he said was soon made evident.

From testimony given Tuesday morning in Colin Worthy's case in which he was charged and found guilty of assault with a deadly weapon on another colored man, it appeared that the four witnesses named above were not speaking the truth. Judge Burney sent to Manley for J. R. Cornwell and L. D. Hancock, young men whom the Worthy and Dowdy girls claimed to have been out with on a certain night, and after questioning them the perjury charge was brought. Cornwell and Hancock were held under $500 bond each.

THE Results SPEAK FOR THEMSELVES IN THE NORTH CAROLINA BEER INDUSTRY'S "Clean Up or Close Up" CAMPAIGN

Twenty months ago this Committee launched a program to aid state and local authorities weed out those scattered few beer retailers who, by practices unbecoming good citizens, tended to bring reproach on the great majority of law-abiding retailers. "Clean up or close up" was the ultimatum. The results, we feel, speak for themselves.

To date, 142 retail beer licensees have been eliminated because they used their permits to shield illegal activities. Thus are being removed the bad spots that, left alone, would ignore the high standard of conduct demanded by public sentiment and by the legalized beer industry.

As a new year begins, this Committee renews its pledge to carry forward its program of self-regulation for the beer industry in North Carolina. YOU can help by restricting your patronage to orderly, law-abiding outlets.

Editorial Comment from Over The State

Asheville Citizen: "The beer industry in this state as represented by the Brewers and North Carolina Beer Distributors Committee is making a serious and intelligent effort to keep beer sales on a legal basis and to divorce them completely from the illicit handling of hard liquors."

Harnett County News (Lillington): "... when an industry sweeps its premises clean and seeks to compel its kin and comrades to do the same thing, it at once commands the respect from all who admire cleanliness."

Durham Sun: "As a result... another check will have been applied to bootlegging to the material benefit of the community and the state."

Asheville Times: "The committee representing the brewers and distributors has been in action long enough in the state to prove its sincerity... quite evidently it means business."

Popular Government (Chapel Hill): "The beer industry's 'clean up or close up' campaign has... received wide praise from officers."

Rocky Mount Telegram: "The committee... has done a great job in seeing that beer is handled by firms which are viewed as respectable in their respective communities..."

Whiteville News-Reporter: "That group, headed by Colonel Edgar H. Bain, is responsible for the 'clean up or close up' program for this state, and there is no doubt that they mean just what their slogan implies..."

New Bern Tribune: "The Brewers and North Carolina Beer Distributors Committee has demonstrated quite plainly that its motto 'clean up or close up' was chosen as no idle boast..."
