Emergencies do not happen every day, for which we are thankful, but when they do strike, we least expect them — at such times a telephone is priceless. This alone is enough to make every home a Telephone Home. But when you have experienced the satisfaction that accompanies the telephone and you have seen your money returned a hundredfold in greater enjoyment of life, in convenience, and often in the saving of actual dollars and cents you'll wonder why you delayed so long in making yours a Telephone Home.
