Theatre

In Pinehurst

Laughs of the loud, long variety that come close together are packed into the story of "Tall, Dark and Handsome," the attraction at the Pinehurst Theatre Sunday night, January 26th, and Monday, January 27th, at 3:00 and 8:30 p. m. Excitement that crackles, romance with people who believe in living that way and some grand new music too. The cast includes Caesar Romero, who needs no introduction to Sandhill audiences; Virginia Gilmore, who made an instantaneous hit in "Jennie," and such leading comedy stars as Charlotte Greenwood, Milton Berle, Stanley Clements, Barnett Parker, Frank Jenks and Paul Hurst.

All as your heart has pictured them, in the drama for all the world to cherish, to live with, to thrill to . . . magically streamlined to the screen from the famous novel by the author of "Little Women," comes "Little Men," to the Pinehurst Theatre Wednesday, January 29th, at 3:00 and 8:30 p. m., with Kay Francis, Jack Oakie, George Bancroft and Ann Gillis, together with "Elsie," the famous cow you've been reading about—the "personality" who traveled all the way from New York to Hollywood for her role as "Buttercup." "Little Men" is described by one critic as a masterpiece of heart warming homespun comedy which has the label of important box office written all over it.

Coming back with a bang to high-speed mirth-making after their recent dramatic successes, Carole Lombard and Robert Montgomery are co-starred in "Mr. and Mrs. Smith," which is hailed as the outstanding comedy offering of the season and which teams the two favorites for the first time. "Mr. and Mrs. Smith," which comes to Pinehurst Friday, January 30th, at 3:00 and 8:30 p. m. is particularly adapted to the fun-making talents of the two stars and brings them back in the type of roles that first made them screen favorites. It presents Montgomery as David Smith, a prosperous New York City attorney, and Miss Lombard as his wife of three years' stormy standing. Miss Lombard carried her assignment expressly well, while
