

Court Got This Man in Double Trouble

Defendant in One Case, and Prosecuting Witness in Second. Candor Man Pays Fare

A defendant in one case and prosecuting witness in another in Recorder's Court Monday, J. C. Wilkes of Candor was given the works, coming and going.

After arguing his own defense in a charge of trespassing on the premises of W. H. Jones of Jackson Springs and doing damage to crops, Wilkes was found guilty of the charge, given three months on the roads, suspended upon payment of a $50 fine and costs. Upon notice of appeal, his bond was fixed at $500.

In a second case, Wilkes was prosecuting witness, charging that the 74-year-old Jones had plowed up a public street in Jackson Springs and obstructed the way to public worship. Jones was found not guilty, and the Judge reprimanded the prosecution for being frivolous and malicious and charged Wilkes with the costs.

Supper Causes Shooting

Anger over his wife's not having supper ready for him led to a shooting which resulted in a 12-month sentence for Cicero Davis, 26-year-old Aberdeen Negro, and a wound which kept the wife, Lee Davis, in a hospital for about two months, according to evidence brought out in Recorder's Court Monday. The woman testified that she had supper prepared, but had not put it on the table when her husband reached home. Cicero shot her in the side with a gun, inflicting a serious injury to her leg.

W. P. "Son" Britt of route 1, Star Route 1 pleaded guilty of the unlawful possession of 12 pints of illegal whiskey for the purpose of sale and was fined $50 and costs, given a four months suspended sentence, and placed on probation for two years.

Marjorie McMillan, Negro of Southern Pines, was given a 15-day jail sentence for using vile language in a public place.

For failure to comply with the health laws, Joe Harrington, 17-year-old Jackson Hamlet Negro, was given 30 days on the roads with the provision that venereal disease treatments be given him every week during that period. For failure to comply with the judgment of the court in a similar case, James Albert Short, Pinehurst Negro, drew a like sentence.

Jethro Gore was found guilty of failure to comply with the health laws and his 30-day sentence was suspended upon condition of compliance with the requirements.

Frank Goode, Pinehurst Negro, drew a 60-day sentence for drunken, careless and reckless driving, suspended upon payment of a $50 fine and the costs. His license was revoked for 12 months.

J. C. Moore of Hemp was found not guilty of abandonment and failure to support his wife.

Red Cross

These articles, including ladies and girls dresses, hospital shirts, men's socks, sweaters and knit garments, were made up by the 11 branches of the County Red Cross in the county. Mrs. Lyons stated that the making of these garments had cleaned out all stocks of material on hand, and, therefore, the volunteer workers would have no other production work to interfere with the making of surgical dressings.

L. D. Williams, home service chairman, reported a total of 68 cases had been attended to for the five months period ending June 1st.

Mrs. James Boyd, chairman of Nurses Aid Corps, reported that two classes in Nurses Aid had completed training and that 22 members of the classes, from various parts of the county had graduated from the course and that 14 of them are now engaged in completing their 150 hour service quota.

Mrs. Almet Jenks, Motor Corps Chairman, reported that while practical activity was at a standstill because of the gas and rubber shortage, certain cars were being held in readiness for emergency use.

Those attending were Mrs. H. D. Allison, Chairman Surgical Dressings, Pinebluff Branch, Mrs. James Boyd, Moore County Chairman Volunteer Nurses Aid Corps; Mrs. Lee Clark, Chairman Southern Pines Branch; Mrs. Almet Jenks, Moore County Chairman Motor Corps, Mrs. Caruthers Love, Secretary-Treasurer Southern Pines Branch; Mrs. Thos. ## Pilots Trained Here

A few of the others, recalled by Harold Bachman, who first pulled back a stick under his direction are John Sandrock, formerly of Fayetteville, now in the Army at Texas; Robert Currie of near Pinehurst and Leon McKenzie of Eastwood, who is an instructor with the Army at Hopewell, Va. A Lt. Allen from Hemp is stationed in Texas with the Army. He also first flew here.

A number of Army officers who were stationed at Fort Bragg but living in this vicinity took pilot lessons from Bachman in order that they could get into Army flying. Lt. Pitts, Lt. Center, and Lt. Deitzel were among these.

Back into Service

However, since the Army Air Force Technical Training Command took over Knollwood Field, the local flying instruction in these parts has ended temporarily.

When the new Skyline Field is completed, instruction will be started again. Under Army regulations, however, the planes will have to stay within a three mile radius of the field. As a "designated" field, civilian planes can be landed and stored at the hangars. Bachmann and Brown will have their two Aerona training planes and the Waco passenger plane at the field, as well as some other privately owned planes.

There are more civilian pilots in this section, trained by Bachman, than most people would likely imagine. Most of these folks are members of the Civilian Air Patrol, which has not been active around here but is considered a valuable civilian defense organization.

Some of the local pilots are Carl Bradshaw, George Wallace, and Mrs. Walter Hyatt of Pinehurst; Lem Lucks of Carthage, Mrs. Edna Paulson, Jack Taylor, Harris Fletcher, and Gordon Keith of Aberdeen; Vic

Invasion Likely?

"CAN THE AXIS POWERS ATTACK THE UNITED STATES BY AIR IF THEY WANT TO?"

"Let us look at all the light the records give, in answer to this question."

"England knows the answer. The English island, 'set in the silver sea, which serves it in the office of a wall or as a moat defensive to a house,' has now found out that twenty-two miles of water from Dover to Calais will not protect her from the 'envy of less happier lands.' In the winter of 1939 German bomber bases were 300 miles and more from English soil, in the spring of 1940 they were in Holland a hundred miles away; then in Belgium, less than forty miles away; then in France, at Calais, 22 miles away; in August, 1940, there were bombers over London. England knows at last that she can be attacked by land, by sea, and by air."

"Australia knows. A year ago Japanese home bases were three thousands miles by air and around 6,000 miles by water from Australia. From Japan they moved 1,800 miles to Hongkong, 1,600 miles further to Singapore, 600 miles further to Java, 2,200 miles further to New Guinea, hardly a hundred miles from Australian shores. Day before yesterday Australia knew she could not be invaded. Yesterday she found that she might be attacked by air. Today she knows she can be attacked by land, by sea, and by air."

"India knows. Two years ago India was more than 5,000 miles from Japanese home bases. In the fall of 1940 the Japanese moved into Indo-China, and celebrated their shotgun wedding with Thailand. Step by step they moved; to Hongkong, 3,500 miles from Ceylon; to Singapore, 1,800 miles from Ceylon; until yesterday Japanese planes were dropping bombs in Ceylon and Japanese warships went unchallenged in the Indian Ocean. India knows at last that she can be attacked by land, by sea, and by air."

(Editor's Note: We regret that space limitations prevent carrying the entire quotation which Mr. Jenks refers to in this issue. The remainder of Mr. Coates' discussion will be carried in next week's issue of THE PILOT. We suggest that readers keep this part of the article to put with the remainder of the article next week. THE PILOT intends to carry, from time to time, articles which will better explain the need and duties of Civilian Defense organizations.)

Keith of Vass, Dr. Malcolm Kemp, Luke Tyner and W. C. Pickler of Pinebluff; Henry Chatfield, Gordon Brown, Howard Fox, and William Schultz of Southern Pines; James Allred and William Fitts of Sanford; and Edward Hinson of West End.

Sid Taylor of Aberdeen, now a Captain and instructor with the Army in Alabama, didn't learn from Bachman but did much of his first flying at the Knollwood post, as did Preston Matthews of Southern Pines, who has since earned his pilot's certificate, under the C. A. A. at Chapel Hill.

"Yes," said Bachman as he adjusted his goggles and prepared to climb back onto the grader "I guess folks realize now that a flying field is more than a playground and that this business of flying is more important than just a whim or hobby."

The United States Department of Commerce Says:

"A coating of a quarter of an inch of soot in a furnace reduces its efficiency by one half and if the soot is only one eighth of an inch thick the furnace is one fourth less efficient."

With some form of fuel rationing in prospect for the coming winter, you can not afford to have your furnace wasting fuel. Let us eliminate this needless waste by cleaning your furnace and chimneys by the New SUPER SUCTION method. A clean heating plant not only burns less fuel but gives quicker, cleaner heat. We will also make any necessary repairs to the furnace at the same time.
