Cyrus O. Butler Is Named to Committee

A 22-man advisory committee on engineering school expansion at North Carolina State College was appointed Monday by Governor Broughton...

The trustees approved plans for the early construction of a new and adequate engineering building at the college and otherwise developing and improving the staff and facilities.

Included in those named to the committee was Cyrus O. Butler of Kingsport, Tenn. Mr. Butler, son of Mrs. Bion H. Butler of Southern Pines, is a graduate of Southern Pines High School.

THE Public Speaking

Editor, The Pilot:

Post war planning is being given consideration on every hand and this is good, but in Southern Pines we have a situation which should be remedied before the end of the war, if possible. I speak of the bus station. Today, when people—servicemen, their families, and others—in such large numbers are traveling in and out of our town by bus, we certainly need better accommodations for them than the small station now in use affords.

I'd like to know what others are thinking along this line and am willing to pay a cash prize of $5.00 to the person submitting the best letter to The Pilot between now and March 17th on the subject, "Why I Think a New Bus Station Is Needed in Southern Pines." Please get your readers to start the letters rolling.

Yours very truly, A. MONTESANTI Southern Pines, N. C.

NOT ASHAMED

Should I be ashamed of the tears in my eyes,

At the sound of the drum and the marching of feet—

For the gleeful shouts of a happy throng?

Our children were marching and taking our street.

After the band came the flags unfurled,

The boys who held them so brave to the world.

Then neat little girls with their happy shouts,

And clean little boys with their shirt tails out.

Then they grew bigger, and teachers wise

Watched monkey shines with warning eyes.

Seniors, embarrassed, yet proudly they raised

Their banners high as forward they gazed.

Dollars and dimes they all saved and bought

Bonds for the future this war shall have wrought.

Doctors and bankers and merchants and me

Rushed to our door steps and windows to see what all this commotion could possibly be.

"This is America," someone said, As the Bond parade was hid by the hedge,

"And they can't take it from us", I looked to see a kind young old lady speaking to me.

A kind young old lady speaking to me.

And Southern Pines also I'll have you all know

That's what they're buying these War Bonds for.

No, I'm not ashamed of my tear-dimmed eyes

As I look up into the clouded skies. God, how can I stop this horrible strife

That our children may stay in this free, happy life.

Then a voice from the endless distance fled,

"Faith without works my son is dead, buy Bonds, buy Bonds, more Bonds!" it said.

THE MEANING OF DEMOCRACY by James Boyd. جيمس بويد... (Arabic text discussing democracy and its meaning in the context of the war and the future of the nation.)

We hope that you, dear readers, after digesting the above editorial, agree with the opinions contained therein. You thought it was a Chinese puzzle? Oh, no indeed! It is a part of an editorial which appeared in the June 25, 1943 issue of The Pilot.

There are many junior-age boys in Southern Pines who have much spare time on their hands. The Cub Scout program would provide interests suited to the needs of these eager, enthusiastic lads, and the companionship of a sympathetic, understanding leader would help to compensate for the changes brought about by war.

WILL YOU HELP?

Forest Farmers and Landowners! Just as surely as you cut pulpwood from your woodland last year you helped launch the U. S. S. Missouri last month, battleship that is called the "world's mightiest."

Yes sir, it took fifteen tons of blueprint paper, made of pulpwood, to plan that powerful ship. There are more ships to launch, and hundreds of other war uses for pulpwood. Cut your pulpwood and send it to war.

If you want advice on the best way to cut and market your trees on a conservative basis, consult your local Pulpwood Committee or County Agent.

THANKS, NEIGHBOR

Our Lee County neighbor, The Sanford Herald, of February 21 carried the following editorial which Moore County citizens will read with interest and appreciation:

Moore county last Wednesday went way over its overall quota in the 4th War Loan drive, and at the same time became the first county in Region 7 to reach its quota in E bonds. With an E quota of $360,000, Moore county sold $419,000. Its over all sales last Wednesday were over $800,000.

Lee is in the same region as Moore, and although Moore beat us out in the E campaign, we extend sincere congratulations to Chairman E. C. Stevens and his county.

While we are sure the final figures will show Lee ahead of Moore in total sales, it is apparent we will not reach Moore on the E volume.

However, if Moore could sell its E quota, Lee can.

Let's get those few remaining necessary thousand dollars in E bonds so we can join Moore in the list of counties that have successfully completed their 4th War Loan job.

CUB SCOUT TROOP NEEDED

"I wish you'd write something about the need of a Cub Scout organization," said the mother of a Cub-age boy the other day. This thoughtful mother realizes that her young son has reached the age when children like to engage in group activities and that he needs the wholesome training and opportunity for development along constructive lines that Scouting affords.

Modern war has a way of touching everyone, and even the junior boy does not escape. His home life is changed. His big brothers are in the armed forces, or in some instances, his father; his mother is patriotically endeavoring to give as much time as possible to the various volunteer services on the home front if not actually engaged in defense work. So the young son is left more or less by his own devices after school hours.
