Post Theatre $10,000 Fire

Firemen are shown as they battle a fire of undetermined origin, which on Wednesday of last week damaged the Laurinburg-Maxton Army Air Base theatre to the extent of some $10,000, depriving the air base personnel of their regular motion picture entertainment for the next few weeks. A formal investigation is under way to determine the origin of the fire.

The blaze was discovered in a rest room, by a janitor, at 9:30 in the morning, and was reported at once by a civilian carpenter. So quick was its spread that in the three minutes it took for the first of the base fire department trucks to arrive the flames were coming from the roof and threatening the projection room and its valuable equipment.

Quick work by the civilian firemen, and by volunteers among the onlooking military personnel, saved all of the office and projection equipment, and the fire was under control before it reached the stage and screen. Seats suffered some damage from water, and reconstruction of the entire lobby end of the theatre will require approximately three weeks.

In the meantime, free 16 mm military films are being shown in the recreation hall and in the Enlisted Men's Service Club. It is hoped that 16 mm editions of Hollywood's latest releases will soon be made available for the entertainment of the base, while the repair work is being rushed to completion.

Town's 2nd Brick Building Passes to New Ownership

Grout Building, Erected in 1901, Sold Gougers of Pinehurst

BY CHARLES MACAULEY
New Year's Day of 1902 was spent by the pioneers of the comparatively new town of Southern Pines inspecting their second brick building, just completed. For the second time in its long history the structure passes to a new owner, B. J. Simonds having sold to Mr. and Mrs. Gouger of Pinehurst.

Built by Charles B. Grout and William Saunders in the Fall of 1901, the former opened therein a feed and grain business which he carried on for twenty-five years, in the meanwhile serving as Mayor, Commissioner and Bank President.

Aside from its legitimate business the store and its proprietor became famous for its numerous visitors who wanted to test their weight on the scales to find out if the Sandhill climate agreed with them, and no matter how many times they repeated, were always courteously told to "help yourselves" and to step up to the red hot stove and get warm.

In 1926 the building was purchased by Mr. Simonds, who became noted for his importation of carload lots of New England and Florida produce. In 1940 Miss Allie McIntosh leased the shop for the sale of antiques, and within the past few months the Turb Market, formerly occupying basement, has been using street floor.

Toys From Ark School Bring Joy to Blind Babies

The following touching letter was received Monday by Mrs. Millicent A. Hayes of the Ark school from Helena, Countess of Sefton, Bride House, Sefton Park, Liverpool, 17:

To all my generous Friends in the Ark School who have sent me so many charming toys over the holidays, I write to say how much I enjoyed the new interest your gifts have brought on Christmas morning. I am a very sad little darkened child in a Blind Babies' Home. I sit or mites sit or lie on mats on the floor, where alone the light safe, and when a dolly or animal is put gently into their arms, they feel it wonderfully all over, and cuddle it to their hearts especially pleased if it has a little tinkling bell or squeak! Over here it is almost impossible to get such toys, so you who have made these so beautifully can imagine how I rejoiced when the English Speaking Union responded to my appeal, and I have been able to send off a large box of "safe" toys for the helpless little ones.

Yours gratefully,
(Signed) Helena Sefton.

Three New School Buildings Included in Post War Plans

County Board Adopts Tentative Plans for Negro School Houses

A discussion of plans for the erection of three new buildings for Negro schools featured the regular meeting of the Moore County School Board, which was held last Friday afternoon in the court house with County Superintendent H. Lee Thomas, F. D. Farrell of Aberdeen, J. F. Taylor of Pinehurst, L. B. McKeithen of Cameron and W. S. Evans of Robbins present.

Tentative plans were adopted for buildings at Carthage, Aberdeen and Zion Grove, in the order named, as soon after the war as finances will allow. The buildings are to be of permanent material, perhaps brick backed up with concrete or cinder blocks, and are to have sixteen classrooms, each, with auditorium, library, office and such other rooms as are necessary for a modern school building.

Moore Co. Hospital Is Again Placed on Approved List

The American College of Surgeons, in an announcement issued this week, again lists the Moore County Hospital as a fully approved institution.

The 27th annual survey conducted by the College shows 152 hospitals in the United States and Canada which have met the standards required. To win approval a hospital must have a modern plant, a competent governing board and administration, a well organized medical and surgical staff, efficient personnel, adequate facilities, comprehensive records, and a spirit of humanitarian service.

The North Carolina Hospital at Sanatorium, Lenoir County, is also on the list.

Both October 21, 1859 in Parkersburg, Pa., Dr. Simpson's career was a brilliant one. At the age of nineteen he was elected from LaFayette to the

Carthage Railroad Sold at Auction

Van B. Sharp High Bidder for Railroad; Ross, for Motor Car

Many people gathered at the court house door in Carthage Tuesday noon for the sale at public auction of the Moore Central Railway property by W. B. Davis, receiver, but apparently few of the number aspired to be railroad owners. Van B. Sharpe of the Carthage Weaving Company was high bidder for the property exclusive of a gasoline motor used in pulling the cars, which was bid in by Arthur Ross. The entire holdings sold for $7750, but the sale is to remain open for at least ten days and is subject to the approval of the Court. The railroad extends from Carthage to Cameron.

Although this railroad has been going from bad to worse for a number of years, there was a time when it played an important part in meeting the transportation needs not only of Carthage but of the territory as far as Hallison, ten miles away. In the early days much lumber was hauled over this (Continued on Page 5)

WINS "V" AWARD

However many women there may be who have not realized "that there is a war on," Mrs. Charles S. Patch of Southern Pines is not included in the number. Mother of two children in the service and two still at home, Mrs. Patch has found time since graduating as a Nurse's Aide in May, 1942, to put in two thousand (2,000) hours nursing in addition to running her household. She is now wearing the "V" emblem given in recognition of 2,000 hours' service.

Each week she works at the Camp Mackall Hospital one day, and at the Moore County Hospital two afternoons from 12:30 to 6:00 o'clock. She had earned four stripes before getting her "V".

"I hope to be able to keep it up as long as I am needed," says Mrs. Patch.
