sailles Peace Treaty and as such was subject to all the trading, bickering and inflamed passions of resurgent nationalists with secret treaties and agreements that nullified the league as an effective organization before it officially was an organization.

But this time the machinery has been set in motion, Mr. Dawson said. United Nations leaders have seen the mistakes of the past and moves such as the Food Conference, the Moscow Declaration, Teheran, UNRRA, Bretton Woods, Yalta, and other conferences, have paved the way to international accord.

"We know," Mr. Dawson concluded, "that civilization may well be destroyed by another war. Only through international cooperation in an effective world organization can peace be assured. We must keep informed on these peace developments so that we can intelligently judge and support them. Intelligent and competent leadership is not lacking in this country but it needs and we should provide it with our concerted backing so that this thing will not have to be done over again."

Lyle McDonald, USN, and Cpl. Lawton Hatch were guests. Steven Van Camp was presented to the club by President Humphries as Junior Rotarian.

April, With No Ice, Frost Or Hail, Has Average Temperature of 63.7

Monthly Summary No. 237

By Charles Maccauley

April topped the long-time average of 61.3 degrees by 2.4 degrees, though barely going above the remarkable record of 63.1 degrees registered in March. As in that month, there was no snow, ice, frost or hail, although April is somewhat prone to visitations of the latter. The nearest approach to this high temperature of 63.7 degrees is the record of 63.4 degrees for April, 1925.

The continuing warm temperature, though rainfall was below normal, continued to bring into bloom many blossoms usually appearing much later in the season. Particularly noticeable were those of the magnolia, Chinaberry, lupin, honeysuckle and privet. The brisk wind of the 12th saw the finish of the handsome display of wisteria and dogwood blossoms.

Twelve days registered maximum temperatures ranging from 80 to 88 degrees, the high figure being reached on the 15th. A low of 34 degrees was recorded on the 7th. Sixteen days of the month were all clear, nine days partly cloudy, five days cloudy and eight days or nights with rain, the heaviest precipitation, three quarters of an inch, falling on the 25th. The total fall for the month lacked almost an inch of normal. The deficiency for the year is now 4.05 inches. Raleigh reports 1.69 inches; Charlotte, 2.24 inches.

Easter Sunday, April 1st, was clear; highest temperature, 80 degrees; lowest, 55 degrees; average, 67 degrees.

Long time average	Max.	Min.	Aver.
73.6	88.9	61.3	63.7
1944	73.2	45.2	56.7
1945	75.3	52.2	63.7

WRONG NAME

The Pilot made a bad mistake last week in reporting the interview with Cpl. Lawton Hatch. The name of his mother was incorrectly given. Her name is Mrs. J. M. Hatch.

Any mother with a son like Lawton Hatch wants to be connected up with him, clearly and unmistakably, in people's minds. And we don't doubt that Lawton feels the same way. Family affection in the Hatch household looks like a two-way affair. And so . . . apologies to both mother and son for our mistake.

AT BAPTIST CHURCH

REV. GEORGE SAGE, JR.

The Rev. George Sage, Jr., of Winston-Salem, known as "God's Handyman" by churches and missions the country over, will be with the First Baptist Church in a series of meetings from Sunday, May 13, through Sunday, May 20. Each night the message will be illustrated by motion pictures.

For years Mr. Sage has been doing missionary and evangelistic work throughout the various states with great success. He has been showing motion pictures for over four years in churches, missions, jails, hospitals, and also army camps. He spent two and one half years with the boys in the camps, and was greatly appreciated for his personality and work. Deputy Chief of Chaplains General George Rixey commended him very highly for his work among our boys.

"This is a new approach to evangelism. It is a real test of the visual method in evangelism, and we are anxious that you pass your opinion on it, so a hearty welcome awaits you," says the pastor, the Rev. Sam J. Erwin.

Go To College Advises Film Star

Schooling pays, and no one knows it better than Hollywood's new crop of rising young beauties. Quite a few of them had dreams of becoming screen actresses, but did not let those dreams materialize until after they had finished certain prescribed educational courses.

Joyce Reynolds is such a girl. Now climbing the ladder of cinematic stardom at Warner Bros., she is a former student at the Los Angeles campus of the University of California.

And she plans, when picture-making schedules will permit, to attend the University of Mexico for at least one semester.

"Playing the title role in 'Janie', the Warner Bros. comedy hit showing Sunday and Monday at the Sunrise Theatre, she realizes the importance of schooling.

"If ever I was asked to advise a youthful film aspirant, I'm sure I would say, 'First of all, go to college; then think about entering pictures!'"

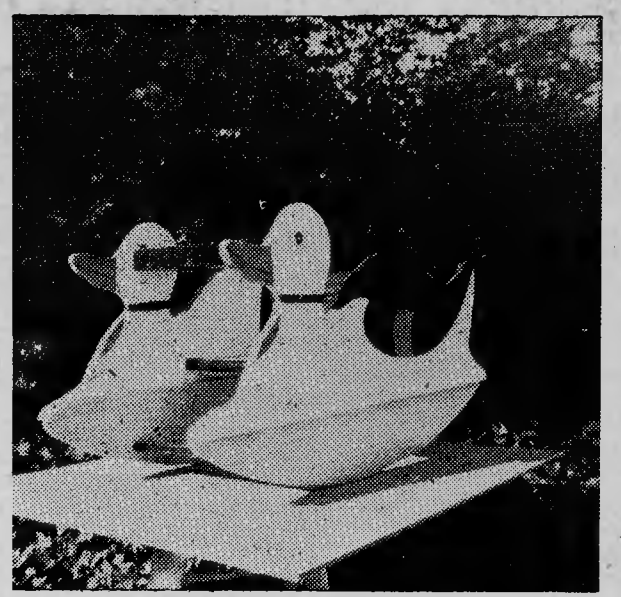

The young actress is a Texan. Tiny is the word for Joyce. She weighs only one hundred pounds, stands only 5' 3 1/2" and has brown hair and dancing brown eyes. But she's a bundle of energy.

To date, she has appeared in six pictures—"Yankee Doodle Dandy," "The Constant Nymph," "George Washington Slept Here," "The Adventures of Mark Twain," "Thank Your Lucky Stars" and "Janie." And she's set to do a starring role in "Junior Miss."
