The romantic team of Tracy and Hepburn in "Woman Of The Year" has turned to comedy again in "Without Love", which will be the best of news to Theatre patrons at the Pinehurst Theatre, Sunday night, May 13, at 8:30. Witty, gay, provocative and delightful, "Without Love" is certain to prove one of the most entertaining films of the season. Based on the play by Philip Barry, whose "Philadelphia Story" also provided ideal stage and screen material for Katherine Hepburn, this picture poses an intriguing situation and handles it cleverly and above all, convincingly.

It is good to see Spencer Tracy divested of his customary, dramatic trappings to essay the role of a sleepwalking, practical-minded scientist who has no time for love, and in this, one of his rare comedy characterizations, he achieves a noteworthy performance.

At the Carolina Theatre, Southern Pines, Alan Ladd, Stanley Clements and Gail Russell, return to the Sandhills Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, May 13-14-15, at 8:15 p. m. (No Matinee) in "Salty O'Rourke," which marks the return of Alan Ladd, complete with gun, to the type of story he is meant for, a melodrama of the race tracks. It is a thoroughbred racing picture from starting gate to finish line, with plenty of suspense, color, action and a whirlwind climax that will furnish entertainment bonus for all who fancy such fare. It also brings back Stanley Clements of "Going My Way." As the Jockey Clements is tough, brash, amusing and touching.

That versatile young man, Donald O'Connor, once again demonstrates he knows the score about working in front of the cameras from top to bottom, with conspicuously pleasing results awaiting patrons in "Patrick The Great", coming to the Carolina Theatre, Southern Pines, Wednesday and Thursday, May 16-17, at 8:15 p. m. with a Thursday matinee.

Able assisted by his side-kick, Peggy Ryan, he sings and dances his way through this thoroughly entertaining picture with ease and poise. The two are surrounded by an excellent cast consisting of Donald Cook as the father, Francis Dee, as beautiful as ever, and Eve Arden whose comedy is again delivered in delightful fashion.

Commencement for Sanatorium Nurses Will Be May 13-14

State Welfare Commissioner Will Make Address to Graduates

The nurses of the graduating class at the North Carolina Sanatorium Training School, who take their third year work at the Moore County Hospital, will hold commencement exercises at the Sanatorium on Monday, May 14, at 8 p. m., to which friends of the two institutions are invited. Dr. Ellen Winston, recently appointed State Commissioner of Public Welfare, and well known as an effective speaker, will make the commencement address.

On Sunday, May 13, at 8 p. m. the graduating class will attend their baccalaureate service at the Village Chapel, Pinehurst, to which the public is also invited. Rev. Thaddeus A. Cheatham, minister of the Chapel, will preach the sermon, and will be assisted in the service by the Rev. R. L. Prince, of the Pinehurst Community Church.

"TOPPER" TOPS

"Topper" Ruggles, seven year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ruggles of Kingsport, Tenn., and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Ruggles and Mr. and Mrs. George Case of Southern Pines, has proven himself an expert with the rod and reel. Recently he went fishing with his father and a friend of his father's and while the day's catch was good, "Topper" came home with the largest fish, a three pound bass.

Morton Gould and his Orchestra, "Delightfully Dangerous", the attraction at the Carolina Theatre, Southern Pines, Friday and Saturday, May 18-19, at 8:15 p. m. with a Saturday matinee, is diverting musical entertainment. Featured are the appealing voices of young Jane Powell and Constance Moore, who hold up the principal roles with Ralph Bellamy. They are ably supported by Morton Gould and his Orchestra, Arthur Treacher, Louise Beavers and Ruth Toby.

Silly Symphonies 1st of Name Bands Coming to Scotties

Karl Andrews has engaged three star bands to provide music at Scottie's on three consecutive Sunday nights, starting this Sunday, May 13, when Al Trace and His Silly Symphonies will entertain.

On May 20, Dean Hudson is scheduled, and on May 27, Jimmy Palmer will complete the series of three name bands booked into the popular dance restaurant on Highway No. 1 just south of Southern Pines.

Al Trace is a Chicagoan where for ten years his band played at the town's top locations—such as Trianon Ballroom, Sherman Hotel, State Lake Theater and the North side's popular Ivanhoe. Trace produces every one of his numbers and his band has won high praise from metropolitan critics. Nick Kenny, in The New York Mirror, wrote: "WOR has a potential bazooka in Al Trace's musical zombies." Recently the band appeared in two Hollywood westerns, "Rustlers of the Badlands" and "Phantom Outlaw." After a two year engagement at the Dixie Hotel in New York, Trace is back on the road.
