Inflation Our Number One Problem
Says Our New Chief Justice Vinson

Will Affect Everyone
Distort Every Value

"Inflation is our Number One domestic problem." Said Secretary of the Treasury Fred M. Vinson on the eve of his nomination to Chief Justice of the U. S. Supreme Court.

"The people of America," Mr. Vinson continued, "have developed a tremendous demand for consumer goods, backed up by many billions of dollars in savings. Although we are well on our way into peacetime production, we cannot produce enough tomorrow or the next day to meet this accumulated demand. Here lies the danger of spiralling prices or inflation."

"A bad case of inflation would be a national catastrophe, affecting each and every one of us. It would distort every economic value, private and public. And so I say to you: One of the best ways to combat inflation is to take as few of our dollars as possible to market until production gets a chance to match demand."

"If you desire to help your country and yourself to win the economic phase of World War II, you will not only hold every war bond that you have, but you will continue to buy as many U. S. Savings Bonds as you can. Thus you will help yourself and help to control inflation."

Allison James, state director for the U. S. Savings Bonds Division of the Treasury, points out that in 1946 American consumers will have at least $20 billions of income over and above what they can spend at legitimate prices on all the consumer goods and services available this year.

To get as much as possible of this surplus money out of the market for scarce goods and into savings bonds is the aim of a publicity campaign launched by the U. S. Savings Bonds Division of the Treasury.

YOUR PROBLEM

The millions of homeless and orphaned children thronging throughout Europe and China add up to the world's number one human problem. UNRRA is helping the government of liberated countries provide food, clothing and shelter for them.

Through huge, UNRRA's shipments, however, are able to provide only the barest subsistence to the needy peoples it is trying to aid, officials warn.

Foster Homes Needed In County

by Mrs. Walter B. Cole
Superintendent of Public Welfare
Foster boarding homes for children are greatly needed in Moore County so that children may be given good care in them until arrangements can be made for their permanent care.

Of the many reasons which contribute to the making of homeless children the greatest are: Broken homes, either temporary or permanent; death of one or both parents; emergencies such as illness of the mother, leaving no one who will be responsible for the children; irresponsible and unstable mother; absence of the father from home where there is no mother; and parental neglect.

There are today in the county, children in need of a home outside of their natural home, children who have a right to a normal life. The Moore County Welfare Department has the opportunity knowing the conditions.

Certain standards set up by the State Board of Welfare must be met in order to qualify for a "foster boarding home." After an investigation of the home by the County Welfare Department, it must be approved by the State Board. The amount paid for board varies, according to the child's age, and the payments may be made by relatives or by the placement agency.

A "foster boarding home" is not a rooming or boarding house, but a home in which there are both father and mother is preferable, the parents of the home must be of suitable age and temperament to care for children. Each member of the family must be in good mental and physical health, and the total number of children in the foster home, including the family's own children, must not exceed six. There must be other sources of income into the home, in addition to the income received for the board of the children.

The "foster boarding home" must conform to the county sanitation laws; must provide adequate sleeping quarters, proper diet; a yard in which children can play; and be accessible to church and school facilities.

Persons in the county, who are interested in giving "foster boarding home" care to children, may communicate with Mrs. Walter B. Cole, Superintendent of the Moore County Welfare Department.

Road Improvement

A total of $11,376,902 has been apportioned to North Carolina for Federal-aid highway construction during the fiscal year beginning July 1.

This is the second appointment made to the state under the Federal-aid Highway Act of 1944, which provides authorization for expenditure of $1,500,000,000 of Federal funds, to be matched dollar-for-dollar by the state and local governments in a three-year highway construction program.

Of the total apportioned to North Carolina $5,431,717 is for Federal-aid highway projects, $4,452,710 is for secondary or feeder roads, and $1,492,475 is for highway development in urban areas.

"The huge road-building outlays authorized by the 1944 act", according to T. E. Pickard, Secretary of the Carolina Motor Club "are designed to make up for the lag in construction during the war years and to provide the nation with a 40,000-mile integrated system of high-type highways incorporating advanced engineering design standards."

"The funds under the post-war highway construction program became available last October through special action by Congress. Actual construction has been slow in getting underway, largely because of the high prices in bids submitted. However, this situation is beginning to show improvement, and there was an encouraging increase in the number of contracts let during April for Federal-aid highway projects."

Acoustic training given to hard-of-hearing veterans has in many cases actually increased their ability to hear by teaching them to pick out speech sounds from among other noises.
