THEATRES

Carolina

We are pleased to announce that, after much "travail" and waiting, our new and much enlarged air conditioning unit is now installed and has had a week of successful trial, and we believe that from now on patrons can be assured of cool comfort, no matter what the temperature is outside.

It is high time that Vincent Sherman be recognized as one of Hollywood's foremost directors, for in "The Unfaithful," coming to the Carolina theatre, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, with a Tuesday matinee, he has turned out another fine, gripping, high-voltage drama.

An adult subject, it will appeal to both sexes. High in dramatic content, suspense and pace, it is a picture that will find certain favor with all classes of filmgoers.

The cast is more than adequate with Ann Sheridan and Zachary Scott acting with much sincerity and smoothness and Eve Arden getting one of her best chances to date to demonstrate her acting talent and her flair for comedy. Lew Ayres lends his role a quiet assurance that is effective.

To speak of "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir," the attraction at the Carolina theatre, Wednesday and Thursday, with a Thursday matinee at 3, is to speak in superlatives, for it is that kind of a picture. It is magnificently produced, sensitively directed and acted with superlative skill by Gene Tierney and Rex Harrison in particular and everyone else in the fine cast, in general.

"The Ghost and Mrs. Muir" is a witty, believable and sophisticated offering, almost always avoiding an excess of sentiment and certainly always handling the fantasy with intelligence and sincerity. Blue ribbons once around, please!

Enterprise takes its bow as a producer with a reliable piece of entertainment—a western, "Ramrod," coming to the Carolina theatre next Friday and Saturday, with a Saturday matinee.

Taken from Luke Short's widely read Saturday Evening Post novel of the same title, on cast names alone—Joel McCrea, Veronica Lake, Donald Crisp, Preston Foster, Don DeFore, and Charles Ruggles—it rates as super-western fiction, and as directed, it accounts engrossingly for every minute of running time.

Splendid scenery ably photographed and a powerful music score by Adolph Deutsch are supplementary values adding to a commanding whole.

Sunrise

"Stallion Road," co-starring Ronald Reagan, Alexis Smith and Zachary Scott, is the new Warner film scheduled to play Thursday and Friday at the Sunrise theatre.

The picture, based on Stephen Longstreet's best selling novel of horse breeding in California, tells a heartwarming story of people who love horses, and of a triangle that almost ruined the lives of the three people concerned.

The film presents Ronald Reagan in his return to the screen, as veterinarian Larry Hanrahan, who owns Stallion Road ranch, where he raises thoroughbred jumping horses. When his old friend, Steve Purcell (Zachary Scott) vacations at the ranch, between writing novels, they meet and are attracted to Rory Teller (Alexis Smith), of the Teller ranch. Complications follow, made more complicated by the entry on the scene of a fluffly lady with a roving eye, played by Peggy Knudsen. The denouement is one of sparkling satisfaction.

The film was directed by James V. Kern, produced by Alex Gottlieb with the cooperation of the American Humane Association, and photographed by Arthur Edson, A. S. C.

Veterans' Insurance Deadline August 1

August 1, not August 30 as previously announced, is the deadline for reinstatement of GI insurance without a physical examination, according to announcement by Mrs. Louise Clarke, veterans' service officer at Carthage.

The importance of all GIs having this insurance reinstated is emphasized by Mrs. Clarke. Several veterans of the county have died since discharge and without exception every one of them had let his insurance lapse, she said.

Application should be made at the service office in the courthouse as early as possible in July, and applicants should bring their insurance papers with them if they have them.

Brewers Welcome Home Daughter From Panama

MISS FAYE BREWER
The Stacy Brewer family of Carthage was made happy the other day by the arrival of their daughter, Faye, from the Canal Zone.

Miss Brewer arrived in New York last week aboard the ship, "Panama" but did some sight-seeing there before coming home for her summer vacation.

Miss Brewer, who has been teaching in the U. S. government schools in the Canal Zone for the past year, stated that she found the work most interesting. She said that the schools were well supervised and some were the equal of the best anywhere. It was evident that the year had made a great impression on her and that she looked forward to her return in September, when she will be stationed at Margarita.

At a recent meeting of the Carthage Junior Woman's Club, Miss Brewer described her experiences to an enthusiastic audience. Miss Grace Blue is president of the club which numbers among its members several former teachers who were much interested in the speaker's remarks.

The Brewers have three children stationed in foreign soil in the service of the government. Besides their daughter, Faye, Lieutenant Angus "Mack" Brewer is with the army at Frankfurt, Germany, and Corporal Bion Brewer is serving in Nagoya, Japan.

Old Fence Is Given To Society By Mrs. Caddell

People who have noticed the lovely old picket fence enclosing the front yard of the Old Shaw House will be interested to know that it was formerly the fence surrounding the old McLeod place.

The McLeod place was a large property overlooking Drowning Creek, where it crosses the road that leaves Route 1 at Adzor and goes to Jackson Springs. The original tract ran for miles along the creek and back into the countryside, and the old picket fence was the enclosure around the house yard and garden.

The place is now owned by Mrs. G. C. Caddell, widow of the late respected Dr. Caddell of Hoffman, and the fence was presented by her to the Moore County Historical Association. It was welcomed, it is stated, as being typical of the fences of the period when the old house was built, and, according to all reports, similar to the one which used to surround it.

It is hoped that more fencing may be discovered and the entire property enclosed.

JOHNSON RESIGNS
M. S. Johnson, Negro field executive for the Occaneechee council, has resigned to accept responsibilities in a new field, it was announced this week by Roy M. Liles, council executive.

Johnson has been in the Occaneechee council since January 1, living in Durham and serving Durham, Orange, Chatham, Lee Moore and Cranville counties.

WELFARE CONFERENCE

Responsibilities of welfare boards, and the continuing need for progress in the county welfare program were discussed at a conference of welfare department and county representatives at Greensboro June 24, with Moore county represented by E. Carl Brady of Robbins, a member of the county welfare board; Mrs. Walter B. Cole, county welfare superintendent; Miss Martha McLeod of Aberdeen and Miss Sarah McInnis of West End, case workers in her department.

County commissioners received a special invitation but none from Moore county was able to attend. The conference had representation from 36 counties.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. Dan C. Short and family wish to thank their friends and relatives for the many acts of kindness and sympathy shown them during the recent sadness in their home, over the death of their son and brother, T/Sgt. Daniel C. Short, Jr.

RESOLUTIONS

On the death of
MRS. JANE SMITH MCGILL

Whereas, God in His infinite wisdom called Mrs. Jane Smith McGill home to Him on May 19, 1947, be it resolved:

First, that the Woman's Auxiliary of the Vass Presbyterian church goes on record as expressing the individual sorrow of each member in this personal loss that has come to us in giving up one of our most faithful and consecrated members.

Second, that we extend our love and continued sympathy to her family and commend them to God, our Father, in His infinite love and tender mercy.

Third, that we ask our Heavenly Father that He help us to emulate Mrs. McGill's example of loyalty and devotion to her home, to her community, and to her church. She was a model home maker and mother; truly, 'Her price was far above rubies. She looked well to the ways of her household and ate not the bread of idleness. Her children arise up and call her blessed.'

Rivaling her devotion to her home was her unflinching affection for her church and her pastor. She was a charter member of this church and a life member of the Woman's Auxiliary. Her every talent and energy were dedicated to her Master's service whether the task was great or small. Her thoughtfulness of others extended beyond the confines of her home and church and touched countless numbers of friends and acquaintances.

Fourth, that a copy of these Resolutions be incorporated in the minutes of the Woman's auxiliary, and that copies be sent to the local papers, to the Christian Observer, and to the members of her family.

Respectfully submitted,
Mrs. N. N. McLean
Mrs. D. P. Stewart
Mrs. W. E. Gladstone
