Workman Injured
On Tobacco Job
Sues For $5,000

Suit for $5,000 was instituted Tuesday in Moore County superior court by Lenzie Minter, Negro, of Carthage, against D. T. Carter, of Durham, buyer for the American Tobacco company, for a broken neck said to have been sustained by Minter while he was in Carter's employ.

An unusual feature of the suit is the claim that Carter, who had employed some 15 workers to aid in packing and shipping tobacco at Carthage, thus became bound by state law to take out workmen's compensation insurance as an employer, and that he failed to do so; also that he had not been approved by the state industrial commission as a self insurer.

It is claimed also that he failed to provide adequate tools or equipment for the loading of 1,500-pound hogsheads of tobacco on a truck, or sufficient men to take care of such heavy loads. In consequence, it is declared, one of the hogsheads fell as a loose ramp slipped, and crushed Minter beneath it, breaking his neck.

The accident occurred at the packhouse on the Currie lot near McConnell's warehouse September 17, four days after the Carthage markets opened. Minter was taken to a physician, then to the Moore County hospital, where he was placed in a cast from neck to waist.

Weekly payments were made for three weeks, but nothing since that time, Minter alleges in the suit, adding that he has been ordered back to work, or receive nothing at all, despite the fact that he is still in the cast.

Baber Denies Charges Of McKeithen Suit

F. L. Baber, of Sanford, replying this week to the $41,510 breach of contract suit brought by Jere McKeithen of Aberdeen, through papers filed by his lawyers in the superior court clerk's office denied terms of the contract as set forth by McKeithen, as well as other allegations of the complaint.

He denied also that the business of the Brown's Auto Supply stores, of which he is owner, had profited through McKeithen's association with them during 1946 as manager of the stores at Southern Pines and Aberdeen. The Aberdeen store, he said, had actually sustained a loss during this time.

McKeithen, he stated, had "failed and neglected to apply himself, or to give the time and attention necessary to efficiently and completely handle" the business. He objected to a reference to McKeithen's military service, and stated that "at or before the trial" motion would be made to have it stricken out.

Commissioners
Hear Reports On School Buildings

The county commissioners met for a lengthy interval Monday at Carthage with the county board of education, reviewing school building projects and hearing reports on their progress.

H. Lee Thomas, superintendent, reported the Eagle Springs Elementary school completed and ready for occupancy, and the Pinckney High school at Carthage (Negro) ready except for completion of the heating and plumbing installations, which have met with delays. Both schools are to be occupied immediately following the Christmas holidays.

The Vass-Lakeview school is about 30 per cent completed, it was estimated. The hope was expressed that it would be ready for classes by the opening of the next fall term.

At Robbins, work is progressing on an addition containing three classrooms and a cafeteria. This, too, will probably not be ready until next fall, it was said.

During their day's session the commissioners made recommendations for the state's assumption of maintenance of several stretches of county roads, and granted beer licenses to the following: O. R. Conrad, James E. Pugh, Dante Montesanti and Farnk H. Cosgrove, of Southern Pines; M. P. Craver, Robbins, and Mrs. Ruth Loy Davis.
