

Democrats And Republicans Will Vote Tuesday

Candidates Listed: Five Amendments Will Be Presented

Voters in this predominantly Democratic state will go to the polls Tuesday from 6 a. m. to 10 p. m. to make their choices among a number of candidates—a lot of Democrats and a few Republicans. They will also be asked to vote on five constitutional amendments, listed and explained on another page of this paper.

In Southern Pines precinct, voting will be at the fire station; in Aberdeen, at the Legion hall.

On the upper levels, Democrats are opposed by Republicans for both senatorial offices and a state supreme court associate justice, also in the Eighth district for the U. S. House of Representatives.

Locally, voters will also have party choices for two state senators, Moore County member of the State House, sheriff, coroner and four places on the county commission.

No actual contest is seen anywhere except in the race for junior U. S. Senator, where feeling from an inter-party battle still exists. Many who supported Frank Porter Graham have expressed themselves freely as seeking some way around marking an "X" opposite the name of Willis Smith, Raleigh attorney who won the second primary in one of the most bitter campaigns of recent years. Some say they will (1) vote for E. L. Gavin, Republican candidate, well-known attorney of Sanford; (2) fail to mark any choice at all; (3) write in the name of Senator Graham.

Senator Graham, however, along with other party leaders, has made his views on the subject plain: the primary is the time for inter-party battles; in the general election, it is party versus party. The former president of the Greater University of North Carolina has given additional evidence of party faith in urging that Democrats vote the straight ticket. Appearing side by side with Smith at recent rallies, in many earnest speeches he has given un-

FOOTBALL BANQUET

The annual Blue and White banquet, honoring the Southern Pines football squad, will be held by the Elks club Saturday evening, December 9, at the Southern Pines school cafeteria. It was announced this week. Col. D. L. Madigan will be chairman.

Guests will be the members of the squad, coaching staff, team managers and cheerleaders. Awards will be presented at this time. An interesting program is to be arranged. Tickets may be purchased by the general public.

Huge Crowd At Halloween Carnival; Kids Win Prizes, Have Merry Time

Southern Pines was no place Tuesday night for dignified personages and "Scrooges" who don't like kids, for the downtown district was turned over to them under the traditional sponsorship of the Rotary club, in their sixth annual Halloween community festival.

Early dusk brought out the witches and goblins, the elves and pixies—some of them so tiny they had to be carried in their mothers' arms. At the other extreme were grown-ups who dressed up, too, pretending they were kids again just for Halloween night.

The parade, which formed at Patch's corner and proceeded in orderly fashion under the supervision of a large committee of Rotarians, included at least 350 costumed kids. The judges on the reviewing stand had their work cut out for them. They had the able assistance of the Rotarians and of Joe Warren who emceed at the mike, in carrying through the eliminations and awarding the prizes.

Women's Groups Meet Here

Home Economists Have Full Program At Highland Pines

The N. C. Home Economists association will hold its 33rd annual meeting at the Highland Pines Inn here Friday and Saturday, with "Mid-Century Frontiers in Home Economics" as the theme. The membership comprises about 700 graduate home economists working in a variety of fields, notably as home economics teachers in high schools and colleges, State College Extension homemaking specialists, home demonstration agents and assistant agents and home service economists with power companies. About 300 are expected to attend the convention.

Highlights of the meeting will be addresses by Frances Urban, of Washington, D. C., field secretary of the American Home Economics association and national president of Phi Upsilon Omicron, national honorary home economist. (Continued on Page 5)

BPW State Council Saturday, Sunday At Hollywood Hotel

Two hundred state officers and local leaders are expected to attend the two-day Mid-Year Council meeting of the N. C. Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, to be held here Saturday and Sunday with headquarters at the Hollywood hotel and business sessions at the school auditorium.

Two of the timely topics reflected in the Saturday program, as announced by Mrs. Henrietta (Pat) Nixon of Sanford, state B. P. W. president, will be a noon luncheon preview of the November election "Miss B. P. W. Goes Political," to be arranged by the Roanoke Rapids club, and an informal banquet at 7 p. m. with Dr. Guion G. Johnson of Chapel Hill speaking on "International Relations," with the Goldsboro club providing decorations and music. An old-fashioned square (Continued on Page 5)

FIRST PLAYOFF

The Southern Pines High School football team, Group 3 champions, will meet the Ellerbe High School team, winners in Group 4, at a neutral field — Pinehurst—at 3 p. m. Wednesday. This will be the first in a series of four upcoming Eastern Conference District playoffs.

The Group 1-Group 2 playoff will also be held next week and the winners of the two playoff games will meet the following week, time and place to be announced.

Winners Listed In Two Window Display Contests

Two window display contests of the past few days had the downtown district looking unusually colorful, with gay and comic scenes on show which drew crowds of spectators in the daytime and evenings.

The Halloween art contest of the school children, sponsored by the Rotary club, and the Homecoming Game window display contest sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce overlapped in some instances, to the detriment of neither. Football and Halloween colors went together excellently, and the scenes of horror depicted in both contests were harmonious as well as timely.

The Rotary contest operated on the admirable principle that "if they want to mark up windows at Halloween, let's encourage 'em to do it!" Don Moore, art instructor (Continued on Page 5)

Hundreds of Kids Troop In For First Meal; Cost—20c

Wednesday was a historic day in the development of the Southern Pines schools. It saw the opening of the new school cafeteria, serving kitchen-prepared mid-day meals, after generations of schoolchildren had had to take their lunches in boxes and bags.

With the new ranges still delayed in shipment, the opening of the cafeteria was made possible by loans arranged by the Carolina Power and Light company. An electric range was loaned by Steinberg, Inc., of Raleigh, from whom the new models are being purchased; and a sizeable electric grill was loaned by O. A. Conrad of Jacks Grill.

The cafeteria, occupying the spacious, well-lighted basement of the auditorium building, was a busy scene at the noon hour Wednesday. Mrs. L. T. Hall, manager, and her corps of assistants—several regularly employed, others drafted for the occasion—had to move at double-quick time. A check had been made of children who planned to eat their lunch there that day; more than 100 others changed their minds at the last minute and came streaming in for lunch. More and more food was prepared, more and more plates were served; and the boys and girls, carrying their trays to the long tables, smiled their pleasure at the appetizing meal before them.

Girl Scouts, Band Will Parade Here Monday At 11 a.m.

A lively parade will be given by Southern Pines Girl Scouts downtown Monday at 11 a. m.—the first combined public event of all the local troops, since their organization last spring.

Two troops of Girl Scouts and two troops of Brownies will take part. They will have "special liberty" from school for the parade, an observance of National Girl Scout week.

So also will the band members, who will be seen and heard marching for the first time. They have been practicing marching for several weeks.

The Girl Scout city committee and troop committees will ride in cars in the parade, which will start at New York and Ashe streets, proceed to the post office corner, up West Broad to Connecticut, across the railroad and down East Broad to Pennsylvania avenue. There it will disband, and the marchers will return to school.

The Girl Scouts' next public event will be the first county-wide court of honor, which will be held Tuesday evening, November 14.

Chamber Will Open Membership Drive With Breakfast

Teams Will Have Good Commodity For Sale, Says Coleman

Directors of the Southern Pines Chamber of Commerce will attend a dutch breakfast at the Hollywood hotel Wednesday at 8 a. m., preliminary to starting off on their campaign for new memberships and membership renewals for 1950-51.

Each will invite a non-director member of the Chamber to be his (dutch) guest at breakfast, and his teammate on the whirlwind solicitation which will begin immediately afterward—or as soon as it can be fitted into busy business schedules.

"We hope to complete the campaign over the weekend," said Arch F. Coleman, president. "There is no reason to drag it out. Everybody knows the commodity we are 'selling' and its value to the town, and to everyone who has a stake in the town. We have plenty of accomplishments to point to, considerable work under way right now and valuable plans for the future. We are out to make Southern Pines a better place to live—and a better place to make a living. We are the only local organization with this as its exclusive aim." 100 Per Cent Is Goal

Each drive team will be given a list of members or prospects to see during the four campaign days. No money quota has been set. A membership quota has been set, however: 100 per cent participation of all business people.

This may not be possible, President Coleman admitted—but said it is "a good aim," as it is only with 100 per cent cooperation that a Chamber of Commerce can do its most effective work. Everyone, at any rate, benefits, whether everyone pays or not—for what helps one helps all, in the network of community interests.

HARVEST SALE, SUPPER

The annual Harvest sale of Cul-dee Presbyterian church will be held Saturday, November 11, at the church, beginning at 2 p. m. Following the sale a chicken supper will be served from 5 to 9 o'clock.

JOINT MASTER

W. J. Brewster has accepted the joint mastership of the Moore County Hounds, according to an announcement made this week by W. O. Moss, MFH for the past several years.

Mr. Brewster, who is from Hackensack, N. J., with a winter home in Pinehurst and has long been interested in the Hunt and as a member has done much to promote its development and that of the Sandhills hunting country.

His modern stables, completed last spring, house some of the finest hunters of the section.

Mrs. W. O. Moss is secretary of the Hunt.

New Wing Of Moore Hospital Now Completed, Ready For Use; Open House For Public Tuesday

Speakers At Democratic Rally

REP. DEANE

W. B. UMSTEAD

"Now Is Time For All Good Men—" Party Rally Saturday Night, Carthage

Democratic Groups Sponsor Program Preceding Election

Moore County Democrats will meet with some of the party's top politicians at a rally to be held tomorrow (Saturday) at 8 p. m. at the courthouse in Carthage. "Party harmony" is expected to be the theme.

Eighth District Rep. C. B. Deane and Former U. S. Senator William B. Umstead will be the principal speakers at the pre-election rally, staged jointly by the Moore County Democratic Executive committee and the Moore YDC.

Also featured on the program will be Senator-nominee Willis Smith, who will be making his first public appearance in Moore county; Lieut. Gov. W. P. (Pat) Taylor, Commissioner of Agriculture L. Y. (Stag) Ballentine and other party notables from the state capital.

The Governor and his entire Council of State have been invited to attend, according to announcement made by W. A. Leland McKeithen, chairman of the Moore County Democratic committee. Solicitor McKeithen will share presiding honors with Hubert McCaskill, appointed by YDC President Luther McPherson to officiate in his stead, as business duties will prevent him from attending.

County officials and Democratic nominees subject to the election of Tuesday, November 7, have been invited to attend. They will also be present at a dinner to be held at the Carthage hotel preceding the rally, at which the visiting notables will be honored.

PARKING SIGNS

You'd better believe in signs, starting this week.

Limited-parking areas in the downtown district are all now clearly marked by signs. Parking regulations are being strictly enforced as of November 1, Chief C. E. Newson said.

One-hour parking will be in effect from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. on the 100 block of West Pennsylvania (newly marked); West Broad (both sides) from Connecticut avenue south to New York, and East Broad (both sides) from Connecticut south to Pennsylvania.

One-hour and half-hour parking places are marked with signs on the 100 block of East New Hampshire. Fifteen minute parking will continue at the post office at all times. Unlimited parking is available on the streets paralleling Broad street above Connecticut and below New York, and in unmarked sections on the side streets, the Chief reminded.

Local Horses Win In Opening Events Of National Show

A number of horses from Southern Pines stables, and riders well known here, are taking part in the 62nd National Horse show at Madison Square Garden in New York City, where the best in the nation, and of several other nations, are now competing.

The show had its formal opening Tuesday night before an audience described by the New York Times as the most brilliant ever to attend such an event. Leaders in the social, political and sporting worlds filled the boxes surrounding the huge arena, where a show of eye-filling ceremony went forward.

In the first two days, three horses of Mrs. Audrey K. Kennedy's Seven Stars stables here gathered in two firsts, two seconds, two thirds and a fourth, in the green hunter classes. The horses were Dula, Kay's Blend and Twentieth Wave. Bright Light will compete in later classes. Riders are Mickey Walsh, of Stony Brook stables here, and his daughters Kathleen and Joan.

All four horses have been consistent top winners in shows on the eastern circuit since last spring.

Riding For Burkes

The Walsh girls are also riding for Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Burke, of Elmira, N. Y., who bought from Mrs. Kennedy her two fine hunters Glider and Grey Jacket. As usual, they are winners in almost every class they enter. (Continued on Page 8)

Negro Annex Ready, Too; Total, 120 Beds

Space Rearranged For Improvement Of All Services

Moore County hospital will proudly present its new $400,000 memorial wing at an open house to be held Tuesday from 2:30 to 5 p. m.

Also on display will be the new Negro annex. Both additions have just been completed and are ready for use. Finishing touches are being put on this week, and all the equipment may not be in place by Tuesday, said E. T. McKeithen, administrator. However, an invitation is being extended everyone in Moore county to come and see the greatly expanded building before patients are placed in the new beds.

Members of the Moore County Hospital auxiliary and the hospital staff will act as guides at the open house. Visitors will see one of the most modern hospitals in the state, with facilities embodying the newest in hospital architecture and design. They will also see one of the largest in the central part of North Carolina, with the exception of nearby government facilities.

Increased Capacity

Patient capacity has been raised from 80 to 120 beds. Actually, said Mr. McKeithen, 45 new beds have been added. However, in the general rearrangement to give more space to sorely crowded hospital. (Continued on Page 5)

Chamber Music Program Set For Friday, Nov. 10

The program of chamber music to be presented here next Friday evening by the Duke University Ensemble will comprise two trios and three quartets, according to announcement made this week by the sponsoring Sandhills Music association.

The numbers will be Haydn's Trio in E Minor, violin, cello and piano; Hindemith's Quartet 1938, violin, cello, clarinet, piano; and Beethoven's Trio in B Flat Major, Opus 11, cello, piano, clarinet. Each is in three movements, and all in different mood, giving wide opportunity for this well-known group to shine in all its virtuosity.

Members of the ensemble are all musicians of rich background and experience, pupils of noted teachers and winners of high musical honors. All are members of the Duke music faculty. They are Julia Mueller, violin; William Klenz, cello; Allan Bone, clarinet, and Loren Withers, piano.

Each is a concert artist in his own right. As a group they have won their way to the top ranks in the musical field, being acclaimed as little short of perfection.

The sale of season tickets for the five concerts of the series—with the N. C. Symphony orchestra in April as climax—has become quite lively during the past week, according to Mrs. W. F. Hollister, co-chairman of ticket sales with Dr. Hollister, her husband. Season tickets for both reserved seats and general admission are in excellent demand.

Opportunity will be given next week for hotel guests and others who will not be here all winter to buy single seats for the concert, Mrs. Hollister said. These may be secured by telephoning or writing her. The tickets will be sent by mail. A saving is effected through buying the season ticket.

Season and single tickets may also be purchased at the Barnum Realty Company office here, where a seating diagram is on view.

All concerts will be held at the Southern Pines school auditorium, starting at 8:30 o'clock.
