

Gray Lady Course Starts Monday At Fort Bragg

A new course for the ladies of Fort Bragg who wish to become Red Cross Gray Ladies will start Monday, according to Mrs. E. M. Altfather, chairman of the Fort Bragg Red Cross auxiliary.

Mrs. W. R. Wolfenbarger, chairman of the Gray Ladies, has invited all Fort Bragg ladies to attend the course which will be held in the U. S. Army Hospital Red Cross building, TH-58.

The Gray Lady course will run for four consecutive afternoons from 1 to 4 o'clock. Subjects to be taught will give the future Gray Lady a picture of how the Red Cross and the U. S. Army Hospital function, along with a special course on psychology of the sick.

Mrs. Wolfenbarger said that the Gray Ladies are performing many useful jobs in the U. S. Army Hospital, such as teaching crafts to the bed patients, assisting in the library and assisting recreational and social workers.

Those interested should contact Mrs. Wolfenbarger, phone 4-3233, or Miss Moran, assistant Red Cross director at the station hospital, phone 4-2257 or 3-6148.

THEATRES Carolina

Continuing at the Carolina tonight (Friday) and Saturday, September 14 and 15 at 8:15 with a Saturday matinee at 3 is "The Law And The Lady," based on the famous stage success, "The Last of Mrs. Cheney," in which Ethel Barrymore starred. Greer Garson and Michael Wilding head the cast as the debonair adventurers who decide to pool their charm and wit in the interest of amassing an easy fortune. This sophisticated comedy marks a change of pace for Greer Garson, in a role as a confidence woman and jewel thief which she plays to the hilt, endowing the part with charm and delightful good humor. Her co-star and helpmate in crime is Michael Wilding, a master of comic timing and glib delivery. In the supporting cast are Marjorie Main, Fernando Lamas, Hayden Rorke and Rhys Williams.

And now—happy days are here again, starting Sunday and continuing through Wednesday, September 16-17-18-19 with a Tuesday matinee at 3, and a special Sunday matinee at 3, when the long-awaited Crosby picture, "Here Comes The Groom," will be on the screen.

Here are the reasons for those happy days:

Bing Crosby is back in the good-natured-guy groove where he always belonged, free-wheeling instead of pitching.

Jane Wyman has traded in her crying-towel for a glamour-girl's raiment, and she is a dish to behold.

Frank Capra has gone back to the command of comedy he displayed in "It Happened One Night" and "You Can't Take It With You," with rafter-raising results.

Paramount has loosened its purse strings to provide a cast that includes Alexis Smith, Franchot Tone, James Barton, Minna Gombel, Connie Gilchrist, Walter Catlett and Robert Keith, plus three fabulously talented juveniles, Jacques Gancel, Beverly Washburn and Anna Maria Alberghetti; with guest appearances of Dorothy Lamour, Phil Harris, Louis Armstrong and Cass Dailey, playing themselves.

Yes, ladies and gentlemen, here is a picture to do nip-ups about a good-time picture, a good-natured frolic, light as a breeze but faster, and clean as the driven snow. "Here Comes The Groom" is going to make a lot of people happy in these troublous times.

Starting Thursday night, September 20, is the tense and fascinating drama, "Tomorrow Is Another Day," starring Ruth Roman and Steve Cochran. This is superior entertainment with fine acting, a good story and excellent direction. Ruth Roman gives one of her most powerful performances covering a wide range of emotions, and Steve Cochran's delineation adds another orbit to his rapidly growing thespian stature.

Sunrise

Unparalleled jungle battles are promised moviegoers in "Fury of the Congo," newest of Columbia Pictures' popular "Jungle Jim" series, which plays Sunday and Monday at the Sunrise Theatre. Featured in support of the star in what is described as Jungle Jim's strangest adventure are Sherry Moreland, William Henry and Lyle Talbot.

A wild, beautiful and barbaric Amazon queen, played by Miss Moreland, leads her embattled women to aid Johnny in furious struggle not only against lions, leopards and giant spiders, but also against a savage band of smugglers searching for the Amazon tribe's sacred animal, the Okongo, whose glands secrete a powerful narcotic fluid.

Henry, the leader of the smugglers, and his brutal henchman, played by Talbot, force Jungle Jim and the men of the Amazon tribe to track the elusive Okongo herd. Johnny is forced to use all his jungle lore to circumvent the smugglers. The story winds up in a furious stampede of Okongos, with the wild Amazon beauties fighting beasts and bandits to free their captured men.

"Fury of the Congo," based upon the famous King Features Syndicate newspaper feature, "Jungle Jim," was written for the screen by Carroll Young. William Berke directed the thriller for producer Sam Katzman.

Pat Starnes Studio Classes Under Way

The Pat Starnes dancing studio is starting off its first year of existence with about 20 students, ranging from a five-year-old on up to adults.

Mrs. Starnes, a former professional dancer in New York and Florida, took a few selected pupils last year, and this fall, in response to requests, is starting a regular studio, teaching both beginners and advanced students. She holds classes Wednesday and Saturday afternoons at the Fox Hole, and is also giving private lessons.

Mrs. Starnes is the master-mind of "The Rhythmettes," a group of local girls whom she has trained and who, with the addition of other top local talent, stages an hour-long professional variety show for conventions and benefit events. Starting out last spring, the group now has a booking agent, and their bookings for fall and winter will carry them to many widely separated points in the State. Mrs. Dot Choate is co-producer of the show, and Barbara Peterson is the Rhythmettes' captain and training assistant.
