PROMINENT FAMILIES ARE UNITED IN BIDDLE - WALKER MARRIAGE MONDAY

The marriage of Mrs. Edith Rogers Walker of Pinehurst and Amesbury, Mass., to William Eugene Biddle of Amesbury and Boston, was solemnized at 11 a.m. Monday, September 17, by the Right Rev. John T. Dallas, retired Episcopal bishop of New Hampshire, and an old family friend, at the altar in the chapel in his home at Lee, N. H.

The bride, the former Miss Edith Rogers of Vergennes, Vt., is the widow of the Hon. James Hume Walker, former Massachusetts State Senator and president of the Walker Body company of Amesbury. She is a member of the Mayflower Society of Massachusetts, tracing her descent through both sides of her family to Mary Chilton. With her late husband she presented the city of Amesbury the marble memorial carved by the famous sculptor, Leonard Kraske of Boston, to the Captain's Well, a landmark there immortalized by John Greenleaf Whittier in his poem of that name. While she has maintained her summer home in Amesbury, for the past 16 years she has spent her winters at her Pinehurst home,

"Thenewold," where she has been very active in all the social and civic events of this noted winter resort. During the recent war she was a leader in Red Cross and other community activities and kept "open house" for the benefit of young men stationed at nearby Fort Bragg and entertained hundreds of them in her home.

Mr. Biddle and his bride have been family friends for years and their marriage unites two of the prominent families of Amesbury. He was president of Biddle and Smart company of Amesbury, in the same field of industry as the late Mr. Walker, building automobile bodies for the leading car manufacturers. On the dissolution of his company, he became associated with the stock exchange firm of H. C. Wainwright and company, Boston, where he has been affiliated for the past 11 years. Mr. Biddle is an alumnus of Phillips Exeter academy and attended Harvard university.

Mr. and Mrs. Biddle will make their home in the Biddle residence in Amesbury, and will visit in Pinehurst, where Mrs. Biddle has her winter home.
