Open To All Wishing To Improve Cultural Outlook

A University of North Carolina extension course in philosophy, carrying college credit, will be given for Moore teachers and other interested persons in the library of the new Aberdeen elementary school, starting next Monday, with an afternoon and a night session each week till completed.

Teacher of the course, which is being given through cooperation of all schools, will be Dr. E. M. Adams, assistant professor of philosophy at Carolina. Titled "Making of the Modern Mind," it is listed as Philosophy 41 in the university catalog. It will continue for long enough to allow four semester hours of college or certificate credit, or if the class wishes to go on for six semester hours, will be extended.

For those wishing credit toward college degrees or teaching certificates, the course has been set up at a nominal tuition of $22 per student (to be increased in proportion if extended to six hours). It may, however, be "audited," without credit, at half this rate.

Though arrangements have been made to bring the course primarily for teachers wanting additional credits, enrollment is not limited to school personnel, said Supt. H. Lee Thomas of Carthage. It is open to anyone wishing to improve their general education and cultural outlook, and is especially recommended to church, civic and other community leaders.

Enrollment need not be made in advance. Those wishing to take the course should attend the initial session at Aberdeen at 4:30 p. m. Monday.

Girl Scout Troop Holds "Sleepout"

Eighteen Girl Scouts of Troop 51 and their leader, Mrs. John C. Ostrom, held a hike and "sleepout" last weekend in the woods, off the Old Pinehurst road. Mr. Ostrom accompanied the group.

Scene of the camping party was the old Maples place, used by permission of Mrs. Irene Maples McAllister. Hiking from Southern Pines, a distance of about three miles, the girls carried their bedrolls, cooking utensils, food and other necessary items. They built their fire, cooked supper, played games for a while then spread out their bedrolls and were soon sound asleep.

Sunday morning they held a religious service before a beautiful little altar improvised under the trees.

Work was divided out among the four patrols, one of which was in charge of cooking supper, another of cooking breakfast, another of cleaning up, while the fourth patrol held the prayer service.

World Community Day To Be Observed Here

The first local observance of World Community Day will be in the form of a service at Emmanuel Episcopal church Friday, November 2, at 3 p. m.

World Community Day is sponsored by the United Church Women, who for years have sponsored the World Day of Prayer, held annually on the first Friday of Lent. They are now affiliated with the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the United States of America, and are asking all Christian women to meet and pray together on two other days of the year—May Fellowship Day, the first Friday in May, and World Community Day, the first Friday in November.
