Vest End Seniors Will Present Play

"The Little Shepherd of King-Come," a play based on the beloved novel by John Fox, Jr., will be presented by the senior class of West End High school next Friday evening, November 9, at 8 o'clock in the school auditorium.

The three-act play, written by Charles George, has retained the favor of the story of a homeless boy cared for by a Kentucky mountain couple. Orphaned early in life, the lad drifted from one place to another until an act of courage brought him his chance for life.

Sam Poole has the leading role as Chad, the "little shepherd." The cast in the cast are Dolan Hall, Annette Blake, Ruby Kellis, Leonard Richardson, Pat Farmer, Robert Richardson, Velma Richardson, Carol Lucas, Lois Eifort, Richard Cox, Barbara Blake and Hazel Caviness.

WEEKEND VISITOR

Miss Huldah Smith of Fountain, Ill. will spend this weekend at the home of her cousin, Mrs. Edwin Finch, and Mr. Finch at their home between Southern Pines and Vass.

Storage of soybeans on farms, rather than immediate sale at harvest time, can benefit growers, processors, crushers, and consumers of oilseed products, and help the mobilization effort, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture.
