INS AND OUTS
 R. S. Trudell went to Beckley, W. Va., over the weekend to bring his wife and baby daughter, Susan Ann, home after a visit of 10 days with Mrs. Trudell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Allen, whom she and Susan had accompanied to Beckley after their visit here. Mr. Trudell's mother, Mrs. Garner Williams, of Beckley, and his grandmother, Mrs. George Perkinson of Spencer, came to Southern Pines with them for a visit.
 Mrs. Franklin Canaday, Dr. Vida McLeod's mother, suffered a heart attack Monday and was carried to Moore County hospital, where she is now getting along well. She is reported to be feeling "much better."
 Capt. and Mrs. Glenn R. Grimes recently returned from a 30-day leave during which they enjoyed an extended motor trip with visits to numerous relatives and friends. At Nashville, Tenn., they spent three days with friends, then went to Mrs. Grimes' home in Dallas, Texas, and to the Captain's in Gainesville. They visited in Houston, Texas, and Montgomery, Ala., also. Captain Grimes is adjutant for Headquarters and Headquarters Squadron, 9th Air Force, at Pope Field, and lives in Southern Pines, where Mrs. Grimes is active in the USAFAGOS Officers Wives club.
 Miss Mildred Tice, a registered nurse of Watertown, N. Y., has arrived here and is staying at the Southern Pines Cottages.
 Among the weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Collins were John Prescott of Raleigh, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Goode and daughter Susan and niece Lee Sheppard, all of Lumberton. Harold Collins, Jr., was at home from Duke university Sunday and with him were Lawrence Maddey, Richard and Peter Collins and John Prescott, Jr., students at Duke.

DEUCE YOU SAY!
 Lew Shaw, amateur ployer of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., added a memorable feat to local golf history Thursday morning on the Southern Pines Country club course.
 Playing in a twosome with Mrs. Shaw, he scored a deuce on the 445-yard 12th hole. This is not only a par 4 hole, but the longest par 4 hole the course possesses. If it had been one yard longer, noted Assistant Pro Gene Coghill, it would have been that rarest of the rare, a double eagle. Even one yard short, it hasn't happened before on that particular hole that anyone remembers.

WITH THE ARMED FORCES
 Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Culler had as their weekend guests their sons, SSgt. Grady Lee Culler, Jr., of Shaw Air Force base, South Carolina and his wife and Sgt. Bobby G. Culler of Tyndall AFB, Florida. S/Sergeant Culler will transfer to Langley Field, Va., Saturday.

Pfc. William John Graham, Jr., who was seriously injured in a motor vehicle accident several weeks ago in California, continues to improve at Letterman Army hospital, San Francisco. According to information received this week, he now sits up an hour a day. He wishes his friends back home to know that he appreciates all of the things they have done for him, the cards and remembrances of various kinds. He is of Misses Kate and Eva Graham of Cameron Rt. 1 and a nephew of Misses aKte and Eva Graham of Southern Pines.

SIX DWELLINGS

 on the New York Stock Exchange.
Still Making Furniture
 The Franklin-Daystrom corporation, formed after the sale, remains active in furniture manufacturing. With its Viking Art-line, produced at two plants at Eldred, Pa., it is close to the top in the light upholstered furniture field. It is associated with the Baumritter group, with executive offices at 171 Madison avenue, New York, manufacturing the Ethan Allan and Birchcraft lines of bedroom, dining-room and living-room furniture at plants in New England, California and New York.
 Mr. Dahmen became interested in this section when, as president of the Daystrom corporation, he made business trips to the Daystrom plant near Maxton, in nearby Scotland county. He and his family, residents of Olean, became regular winter visitors to the Sandhills and four years ago he purchased a home here.
 He recently sold this home in order to move into a new one, which he built on Valley road, a fine example of his favored type of design, the modern California ranch-style home. It incorporates the best in today's advances in construction engineering, comfortable and efficient living and colorful beauty.
Desirable Features
 Many of the desirable features embodied in his own home will be seen in the new dwellings being built at the Country club. These will include radiant heat, with units invisible in the marble chip terrazo floors; electric kitchens, fully tiled baths, picture windows and open fireplaces. Each dwelling will be fully air-conditioned.
 The construction crew is composed entirely of local mechanics and craftsmen, with Leroy Long as building supervisor.

PINEHURST LIONS
 Frances Whitesell, Marcia Black and young Donald and Betty Louise McCaskill.
 In the cast from Southern Pines are Joe C. Thomas, Robert Speller, Jr., Jon Speller, Peaches Cameron, Sieger Herr, Jo Ane Harris, Phyllis Faircloth and Janet Hamel; and from Pinebluff, Eloise Adcox.
 Joe C. Thomas, Southern Pines, is general chairman of the Minstrel Revue committee. Frank M. Bost, Pinehurst is chairman of the Ticket Committee. The props committee, headed by D. H. Whitesell, with the assistance of Ernest J. Hartsell, Bob Chriscoe, J. J. Haffler, R. A. Hamor, Wilson J. Herschell and Gordon M. Cameron, has manufactured a number of unusual stage accessories and effects for this production.
 The costumes were again designed by Maxine Speller of Southern Pines; and Violet Caulfield, also of this city, is in charge of make-up. The orchestra has been rehearsing regularly with the cast with Frances Bowen at the piano, Jimmy Lawson at the Hammond organ and David Bailey, Charles Baker, Bob Ferguson, Joe Cameron, Todd Baxter and Buster Doyle completing the group of talented musicians in the pit.

 Robert Speller of Southern Pines, whose Broadway-trained talents were well displayed in last year's production and direction, is on the job again this year and will again conduct the show.
 Maurice R. Dey, noted artist is painting the backdrops.

BEER-WINE
 tice of the peace, referred to a little book which was supposed to give all the laws in connection with dry enforcement. An exhaustive search of its pages failed to reveal any information on those limitations.
 The gallon law for "hard liquor" does not apply to beer and wine.

Four Holdouts
 The "drying up" of Moore follows the 60-day interval allowed by law after the countywide vote of September 11. At that time the vote went decisively against legal control, with only Southern Pines, Pinehurst, Aberdeen and Pinebluff out of the county's 17 precincts holding out for its continuation.
 However, these four were swamped in a tide of "dry" votes from Highfalls, Ritters, Spencer, Bensalem, Robbins, Deep River and other upcounty precincts.
 The election was preceded by an active campaign waged by the Allied Church League, headed by several ministers of the county.
 What might be a body blow to the Sandhills resort industry which has been vital in the county's economy for more than 50 years is expected to be rectified by the Southern Pines and Pinehurst votes.

Loss Of Revenue
 In revenue, Moore county will lose approximately $18,000 which it has been receiving annually as part of the state tax on beer and wine. All Moore towns where beer has been sold have been receiving in addition their proportionate share of this tax, from the state, based on population. If the elections in Southern Pines and Pinehurst restore the sales, they will be the only towns in the county receiving this revenue, which is divided on a statewide basis among units operating under legal control.
 The picking up of the permits this weekend will affect the businesses of more than 80 retailers in the county, putting some of them entirely out of business.
 What procedure will be followed in the case of the wine permits, which are issued by the State, is not known here.
