Wm. I. (Shorty) Barbour Owner Betty Baldwin Manager

Tate Beauty Shop Now Open Under New Ownership

Tate's Beauty shop in The Manor on East New Hampshire avenue, has been reopened after being closed for two months, and is again in the beauty business under new ownership and management, and with a complete new redecoration job.

The name, however, is remaining the same. The shop was purchased by W. L. (Shorty) Barbour, assistant manager of the Southland hotel, from Mrs. Iris Tate Shockley. It had been closed since December when Miss Mary Alice Tate, who was running it for her sister, was married and went to Snaford to live.

Mr. Barbour has employed Miss Betty Baldwin, an experienced operator, to take charge of his new shop. Miss Baldwin is from Rockingham, and was formerly employed in South Carolina and in the Sandhill Beauty shop here. She is skilled in all the wanted beauty arts and is currently offering the latest in hairdos—the "poodle cut."

For redecoration a new soft shade called "stratosphere blue" was chosen, with rose-toned ivory for contrasting trim. Equipment is of the most modern for permanents and other aids to glamor and good grooming.

Juniors Sponsor Special Program On United Nations

The responsibility of each citizen in making the United Nations a success was graphically outlined before students of the Southern Pines High school at a special assembly, sponsored by the junior class, held at Weaver auditorium last Friday morning.

Guest speaker was Miss Mary E. Davidson of Tomkins Cove, N. Y., a representative of the American Association for the United Nations.

She was presented by Billy Huntley, junior class president, following a devotion by Elaine Johnson, and the singing of several patriotic songs.

She found in the high school students a responsive and closely attentive audience, as she traced our democratic system back to the ancient Roman code, by which the responsibilities of good citizenship were first defined.

Through placing restraints upon ourselves in the form of law, we have gained a precious heritage of freedom, she said, which can be safeguarded only through continued good citizenship and informed public opinion. Now that our problems have become international ones, this responsibility of a good citizen has become greatly increased. "To save and to share our freedom, we must learn to give some of it up—to respect the rights and the well-being of others. In this way only can the United Nations become effective for the good of all."

ON HONOR ROLL

Cadet Malcolm Clark, son of Mrs. Bessie Chandler Clark of South Bennett street, made the honor roll at Oak Ridge Military Institute for the semester which ended last week. This means he made an average grade of B or above, with no grade below C. It also means he is authorized to wear a special ribbon signifying his scholastic achievement.

Children under 12 (in cars) Free

Carolina

Continuing through tonight (Friday) and Saturday, February 22-23, at 8:15 with a matinee Saturday at 3 at the Carolina theatre, Southern Pines, is that fine drama "Invitation," tastefully produced by Lawrence Weingarten and brilliantly acted by Van Johnson and Dorothy McGuire.

"Invitation" holds the attention with its high degree of artistry, the warmth of its story, and the logic with which its situation is brought to conclusion.

Ruth Roman, in support, is slick and smooth as the other woman, and Louis Calhern is the very picture of the extravagant father.

Physically, the production is one of the best Metro has put forward in a long time. The interiors have that old lush quality, and there's an air of refinement about the drama that catches the fancy.

Sunday through Wednesday February 24-27, at 8:15 p. m. with matinees Sunday and Tuesday at 3, will be red-letter days bringing Fred Astaire, Vera-Ellen and Keenan Wynn in that dancing-on-air picture, "The Belle Of New York." This happy-go-lucky Technicolor musical show contains the most startling trick dance since the dancing-on-the-ceiling number from "Royal Wedding." Novelty, visual beauty, expert dancing, great songs, romance and robust humor abound.

Marjorie Main, Alice Pearce, Clinton Sunberg and Gale Robbins are seen in supporting roles.

Starting Thursday, February 28, with a matinee at 3 and a night show at 8:15 is that tough dramatic production "This Woman Is Dangerous" starring Joan Crawford, David Brian and Dennis Morgan.

Pearse And Burwell Silver Foils Winners

The annual flag tournament of the Silver Foils, played yesterday at the Pinehurst Country club, resulted in Mrs. Robert M. Pearse, with three shots left on the 19th hole, winning the first prize in Class A.

Mrs. L. C. Burwell Jr., playing in her first tournament as a club member, won in Class B, also having three strokes on the 19th hole.

In second place in Class A was Mrs. Edward Stevens, two inches from the cup on the 18th. In Class B, second place went to Mrs. E. G. B. Riley with a drive on the 19th. The prizes for low putts went to Mrs. William White, with 27 in Class A, and to Mrs. H. A. Power with the same number in Class B.

Southern Pines Gets "Good" Rating In "Look" Survey of Vice Conditions

Southern Pines came off with a clean bill of health in an article in "Look" for February 26, surveying vice conditions in various towns near military installations.

The story explored the incidence of prostitution—"a whole new crop since World War 2"—and police protection of vices of various sorts in a long roster of towns and cities frequented by military personnel. Though the general tenor of the article was that "We're losing the battle against sin," more than twice as many towns were listed in the "Fair" and "Poor." North Carolina towns rated as "good" included Southern Pines, also Raeford, Hamlet, Lillington, Jacksonville, Sanford, Goldsboro, High Point, Raleigh and Kinston.

Rated as "fair" were Fayetteville, Charlotte and Wilmington. The city council of Greensboro, bracketed along with Dunn, as "poor," registered a vigorous protest and sought to have the magazine banned from local newsstands, which, however, it failed to do. The issue is reported to have enjoyed a wide sale there.

Ratings in the article, authored by Albert Q. Maisel, were based on research of the American Social Hygiene association. The Greensboro council secured the information from the ASHA that the data employed were more than a year old—several months old, and regarded as out of date, at the time the article was written. Conditions in Greensboro have greatly improved in the past year, the ASHA said. "Look," however, stuck by its guns and would not consent to make the retraction the council asked, responding that "Maisel is one of our best writers and we have complete confidence in him."

Angola, a new blueberry recently released by the North Carolina Experiment Station, ripens earlier than any commercial variety now grown.
