

Dr. Langner Buys Home Here, Moves From McCain

Dr. Fred W. Langner will become associated as of Saturday, March 15, with Dr. Malcolm Kemp at Pinebluff Sanatorium, and this week moved his family from McCain to Southern Pines.

The Langners have purchased the Ralph Chandler home at 145 East Massachusetts avenue.

Dr. Langner has been associated with the N. C. Sanatorium at McCain for the past year. His specialty is internal medicine.

He is a native of Philadelphia, and won his B. A. and M. A. degrees from the University of Pennsylvania, graduating later from the medical school of that university. His internship and first residency were served at the Philadelphia General hospital, and he held further residencies at the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, from which he came to North Carolina in March 1951.

Dr. and Mrs. Langner have two sons, Michael and Eric (Ricky), aged nine and seven, who entered school here Thursday, and a daughter, Jerry, aged five.

They have during the past few months made a number of friends in Southern Pines. Mrs. Langner is a member of the Madrigal Singers.

Corn farmers will need hybrids that produce from six to 10 bushels more per acre than those now grown, if present-day hybrid corn is to meet the demands of tomorrow's population, a corn breeder of the U. S. Department of Agriculture said recently. Since the amount of land available for corn production is limited, increased production must come from larger yields made possible by better hybrids and the use of better practices.

REVIVAL AT ABERDEEN

Revival meeting will be held at the Bible Church of God, Aberdeen, for two weeks starting Sunday, with services at 7:30 p. m. Johnny Brown will be the evangelist.

High Wind Does Little Damage Here; Two Grass Fires Are Quickly Quelled

March winds got rough this week, reaching almost tornadoic proportions in some parts of the state and causing widespread damage, though little harm was reported here.

A circle of rural telephone poles were blown over but "they are ones which were due to come down soon anyway," and there was no interruption to service, said George M. Thompson of the Central Carolina Telephone company.

At the Carolina Power and Light company, it was learned that there was slight trouble when some wires got crossed up in the Youngs Road area, but they were quickly fixed.

Having no connection with the high winds was a power interruption of about a half hour Monday morning when a truck in the alleyway behind Holliday's Coffee Shop hit a guy wire. The subsequent tangle blew a transformer fuse with a wild display of fireworks, which, however, did not hurt anybody, though it frightened several out of their wits.

Two grass fires occurred almost simultaneously east of the Seaboard track, south of town, Wednesday afternoon. The wind sent the smoke from the first fire rolling over town so that it looked much larger than it was. Quick work by the Forest Service crew and the Southern Pines volunteer firemen kept the fire from spreading, though it started off at a race behind Pinecrest Manor and bode fair for a short time to reach disastrous proportions.

While the volunteer firemen were busy there, they received word that another fire had started up nearby, between the track and the No. 1 fairway. They had to take the truck by a roundabout way to reach the scene but fortunately the fire had sprung up in a low place, still wet from rains the night before and was quickly extinguished.

Both fires were thought to have originated from sparks from a passing train, stirred to flame by the wind.

ALL-DAY HOURS

A full workin gday—8:30 to 5:15—will be observed Saturday at the office of the Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue, in order to give aid to as many as possible in filling out their income tax returns. All-day working hours were observed last Saturday also.

The deadline for filing has been extended from the customary date of March 15 through Monday, March 17. Both deputy collectors are on the job daily, and will be through Monday, at their office in the basement of the Post Office building.

They will answer questions, help where needed, and provide extra forms for every one who comes by.

County Issues

$36,000 In Bonds For Schools

A bond order authorizing issuance of $36,000 in Moore county school bonds was adopted by the county commissioners last week. The money obtained from sale of the bonds will go into the county's capital outlay school fund for construction of buildings or additions, and major repairs to existing buildings.

In the 1951-52 school budget the $36,000 is earmarked as follows: $23,608.80 to the county schools; $7,963.20 to the Pinehurst city school unit, and $4,428 for the Southern Pines city school unit. School officials said they could not state exactly which projects would be financed by the $36,000, as it is combined with other available funds.

By law, the county is permitted to issue without a vote of the people only bonds to the value of two-thirds of the amount of bonds retired the previous year. The full amount permissible for this year was issued, as bonds amounting to $48,000 were retired last year.
