BIRD DOG LAW

Bill Aldridge, Moore County's new game protector, this week called attention to a law which forbids allowing bird dogs to run loose from April 1 to September 1, the quail breeding season.
Finding a bird dog running at large at this time constitutes prima facie evidence against the owner, said Mr. Aldridge. This is all the evidence that is needed for a case in court on a misdemeanor charge.
The owner convicted of such misdemeanor may be fined up to $50, and/or jailed for a period up to 30 days.

May security and happiness be your good fortune always... 1952

Speller Theatrical Enterprise Office Is Opened Here

Opening of an office on South Broad street for the Robert Speller Theatrical Enterprises was announced by Mr. Speller this week, which he formed early this year.
The office is in the Dante Montasanti building, and is shared at present with Walter S. Topping, local insurance man.
The Speller business, a new type for the Sandhills, had as its first project a road show with personnel secured mainly from New York City, which toured theatres in the Carolinas and Virginia for several weeks in the winter and spring. Mr. Speller said this week he plans to branch out into the booking agency field, with special emphasis on entertainment for conventions and meetings of all sorts, in the Sandhills and other parts of the state.
Dancers, dance orchestras and specialty acts are to be listed. While these may be secured from New York or, in fact, any part of the country, he said he hopes also to list local talent which meets professional standards.
Costuming for shows is also a Speller specialty. More road shows are also planned. "While this is a new type of business for the Sandhills," Mr. Speller said, "this is a logical location for such an agency, and for the production of shows."
Mr. Speller had considerable experience with show business in New York, both as producer and performer. Mr. and Mrs. Speller and their two sons moved to the Sandhills from New York in 1948. They built and operated a small garment manufacturing business on US Highway 1, north of Mnlly. Recently they sold their property there to R. C. Johnson of Southern Pines, and have purchased Blackjack Cottage in Pinehurst, where they are now living.
The office occupied by the Robert Speller Theatrical Enterprises is that formerly tenanted by Dr. C. S. Caldwell, dentist, who is now practicing near Raleigh.
