Kiwanis Club To Present Gifts, Honor Newspapers

The Sandhills Kiwanis club, at its meeting next Wednesday, will present to the two hospitals of the county the net proceeds of $500 realized from the Mid South Horse Show held in late March, it is announced. The Rev. Peter Denges will accept the gift for St. Joseph's hospital, and Norris L. Hodgkins, Sr., president of Moore County hospital, will receive the money for the hospital which he heads.

At this meeting the Kiwanians will observe National Newspaper Week by entertaining a representative from each of the papers in the county.

Saturday Will Be Big Day For Boys

Boys of Moore county are to have the biggest day in their young lives tomorrow, Saturday, thanks to the U. S. Air Force and the Sandhills Kiwanis club. They'll see something on National Kids' Day that few other boys throughout the country can enjoy.

Featuring a full program will be a mass parachute jump and the dropping of a jeep from a plane flying over their heads. When the vehicle lands it will be manned and loaded and driven right up to the kids gathered for the exhibition at the Fort Bragg drop zone, ten miles from Southern Pines.

And when a tactical air control party jumps from the soaring aircraft led by Capt. Arthur H. "Bunk" Hunter, it will set up its radio to call in fighter planes for a simulated attack on the enemy a thrilling sight for the youngsters.

The Kids' Day program will open at 1 o'clock tomorrow at the Southern Pines High School auditorium with brief remarks by Sandhills President Voit Gilmore and General William M. Gross. Movies of Air Force exploits will follow this after which the boys will be loaded into busses and cars to be transported to the drop zone. Parents wishing to attend the exhibition there may follow the motorcade.

After the spectacular jumps and drops out there refreshments will be served the boys and they will each be presented with a diploma attesting to the fact that they have received a course of Air Force instruction, and each will be given a photograph of a fighter plane.

Pearse Motors, Inc., Buys Business of Cherry Company

Formal announcement is made this week of the purchase by Pearse Motors, Inc., of the Cherry Motor Sales business, located at 795 Soth West Broad street in Southern Pines.

Robert M. Pearse is president of the corporation; his wife, the former Miss Arline Bliss, is vice president, and Herbert F. Seawell, Jr., of Carthage is secretary.

The new company will continue to sell Oldsmobile automobiles, and will put forth a strong effort to make Pearse Motors the "finest service place in the Sandhills."

The staff will be basically the same as that employed by Cherry Motor Sales, Mr. Pearse disclosed. Robert Arrey is remaining as general manager, and Preston Stencil is service manager, in complete charge of the body and service shop.

Mr. Pearse, originally from Cleveland, Ohio, is no stranger to the Sandhills or to the automobile business. Over a period of years he visited Pinehurst occasionally for golf, and for a year and a half in 1939-40 was with the Lincoln and Mercury people. He owned and operated The Manor hotel in Pinehurst in 1946-47, and after selling that engaged in the manufacture of sanding equipment under the trade name of Rolino, Inc., in Cleveland, the name being a combination of his first name and that of his wife.

Mrs. Pearse is a daughter of Leonard Bliss of Greensboro and the late Mrs. Bliss, well known in the Sandhills for many years. The Peares have one child, Robert M. Pearse, Jr., who is in the third grade at Pinehurst, where they reside.

Mutually Helpful

Composing a foursome at Wednesday's regular Pine-dodgers tournament at the Pine Needles were Emily Forrest, Craig White, Nan Jackson and Esta Walper. Nan and Emily had beautiful drives on the first hole. Esta placed her drive on the right, well into the rough. Craig White hit her ball in the same general direction in the rough and it appeared to have hit something and bounced back into the middle of the fairway.

When Craig went to make her second shot, it was discovered that not hers but Esta's ball was in the middle of the fairway. Apparently hers had struck Esta's and knocked it there, remaining in the rough, itself.

On the same hole when chipping to the green, Esta's struck Craig's ball and knocked it several inches closer to the hole. Next Wednesday the Pine-dodgers will meet at Parhavan to discuss future plans and all members are requested to be present, at the usual time.

Southern Pines 51; Rowland 6

By JIM HATCH and ROD WHITING
The Blue and White team continued its winning streak at Rowland Wednesday, playing and winning its third game of the season. The score was 51 to 6. Total scores are: Southern Pines 151; opponents 13.

Southern Pines co-captains, Huntley and Bailey, lost the toss and Rowland elected to receive. Southern Pines' kicking line-up was as follows: Bowers-Warren, Morrison at ends, Huntley at quarterback, Smith at wingback and Woodruff at tailback.

Play began when Bowers' kick was returned to the 40-yard line. Then the Southern Pines passing defense clicked as Woodruff intercepted a long pass and galloped to the Rowland 29. Woodruff shone again as he went over on a pass from Huntley for the first Blue and White touchdown. Ruggles kicked the extra point to make the score 8-0.

Bowers' kick was returned to the Rowland 20. Then Rowland was forced to kick. The ball was

Patch Reports On Northern Trip

After taking part in North Carolina Day of the National Celebrities Open championship in Washington and conferring with General Eisenhower and a campaign committee in New York, Charles S. Patch, Jr., and his wife, who accompanied him on the trip, are back in Southern Pines.

Southern Pines' friendly gesture of recognizing North Carolina greats in golfdom by presenting them certificates of recognition at the Washington tournament caused much favorable comment, Mr. Patch reports, with some golfers from other states remarking that nothing like this had ever been done for them.

Bob Harlow of Pinehurst, publisher of Golf World, made a talk on North Carolina golf and golf courses, and presented Mr. Patch, who awarded the certificates. Mr. Patch, who is a member of the local board of town commissioners, expressed his appreciation to the Washington Post and the Professional Golfers association

Mrs. Ives' Homecoming Is Happy Occasion Marked By Informality

Hundreds Flock To Shaw House To Offer Good Wishes

Pilot Editor Is Present To Hear Gov. Stevenson

Mrs. Boyd Gives Impressions After New York Speech

While North Carolina women were enjoying the experience of hearing the Democratic presidential candidate's sister, Mrs. Ernest Ives, as she spoke to them in Raleigh Tuesday, one, the editor of The Pilot, was hearing the candidate himself. Mrs. James Boyd attended a convention of the American Federation of Labor in company with Ernest L. Ives, to hear Governor Adlai Stevenson deliver one of the most impressive speeches of the campaign. Meeting with Mr. Ives and his son, Timothy, now second lieutenant of the Air Force and a full-fledged jet pilot, the Pilot editor accompanied the official party from the Biltmore hotel to the convention hall in The Commodore. "We were ahead of Governor Stevenson," Mrs. Boyd reported, "and in time to see him come in and hear the great roar of well-wishers." (Continued on page 8)

Newsweek Writer Here To Interview Nominee's Sister

By VALERIE NICHOLSON
Mrs. Ernest L. Ives, in Southern Pines this week for a rest and a reunion with old friends, fulfilled only one commitment during her stay related to the current presidential campaign—an interview with Miss Vera Clay, political reporter attached to the Washington office of Newsweek, who spent the day here between morning and evening trains. Visiting with the sister of Governor Adlai Stevenson, Democratic nominee, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Avery, and going with her for a glimpse at "The Cabin" at Paint Hill Farm, Miss Clay later said, "I don't think many writers have caught Mrs. Ives' spirit and true personality. She is a real person, of many interests and lively mind, capable of meeting any situation. Most newswriters have stereotyped Mrs. Ives so far as a "society personage" and hostess. None has penetrated to her interests in history, folklore, and people—all kinds of people; nor discovered her talents for civic and community service as seen during her dozen years as a winter resident of Southern Pines and Moore county. At the outdoor reception given by the Moore County Historical society at the Shaw House for Mrs. Ives, Miss Clay again expressed surprise. "Why, they treat her just as if she were a member of the family," she exclaimed. "There's nothing like an ovation, or adulation. Just friendliness, affection and mutual pleasure." At the moment Mrs. Ives was leaving one group to greet someone in another, mingling informally with others along the way. Somehow this seemed incomprehensible to the reporter, who has gone all over the United States for her magazine on political interviews. Bemused, she shook her head. "I don't believe folks down here quite realize what has happened in Mrs. Ives' life, and that of her brother, the Governor of Illinois. They've been caught up in a madhouse, shut off from the people, from ordinary friendships and the casual exchange of everyday life. It's an amazing phenomenon which takes place in our country every four years—but apparently it hasn't reached here. I don't see why—but I think it's wonderful!" "With the Eisenhowers, Governor Stevenson and Mrs. Ives are the nation's most important, most (Continued on Page 8)

One Driver Killed, Another Hurt In Wreck At Carthage

One man was killed and another injured as two trucks collided Wednesday morning on the outskirts of Carthage. Oliver A. Schott, 24, of Sanford died 30 minutes after being carried to the Moore County hospital. Schott was driving a 1½ ton truck belonging to the Bison Fast Freight company of Sanford and was headed toward Carthage on Highway 27. The driver of the other truck, Robert Melvin Clapp, 19, was headed toward Sanford. According to eye witnesses, Clapp's truck went off the road onto the shoulder on his righthand side, and then back on the highway to his left side and met Schott's truck. The right front portion of Clapp's truck hit the other vehicle head on. Schott was pinned in the wreckage until a State Highway truck came by and pulled the two vehicles apart enough to get the man out. He was carried to the hospital where he died a few minutes later. Clapp had abrasions on his face, hip, knee, and side. The truck Clapp was driving was a 1½ ton belonging to the Eastwood Trading company. It was refrigerated and loaded with meat products and was a total loss with the cab smashed in and the sides splintered. The cab of the other truck was also smashed, and the under carriage badly damaged. The accident took place within 100 yards of the Carthage town limits on a straight stretch of road. There was a great deal of traffic on the road as it is being used as a detour for US 1 in addition to its usual heavy traffic. Schott died of a fractured skull and internal injuries. He had recently gone to Sanford to live with his sister, Mrs. J. R. Laub-scher. He formerly lived in Baltimore, Md. Highway Patrolman Corporal M. S. Parvis investigated the accident. He was assisted by Patrolman R. N. Harris and Carthage Chief Bernice Cameron. A coroner's inquest will be conducted after Clapp has been released from the Moore County hospital.
