Four Sentenced For Larceny of Hog; Rogers Bound Over In Arson Attempt

Larceny of a hog brought five Negroes of the Robbins community into Moore County recorders court at Carthage Monday, and earned stiff sentences for the four men, while the woman was acquitted.

Testimony showed that the five were riding around on a recent evening when one of them, Harrison Myatt, spoke up, "Let's go get that hog." Myatt, Garland Ghent and Bernie Simmons went and got the hog, which happened to belong to one Alfred Poole. Clyde Simmons obligingly held open the trunk of the car while the others crammed in the hog. Thelma Ritter in the meantime remained unprotesting in the car.

Later Myatt, Ghent and Clyde Simmons sold the hog and divided the $30 proceeds among them.

For this Judge J. Vance Rowe gave Myatt a straight six months on the roads. Ghent and Clyde Simmons also drew six-month sentences, suspended on payment of fines of $50 each plus costs, and were placed on state probation for three years. Bernie Simmons got off lighter—a three months' sentence, suspended on payment of $50 and costs, as his part was purely one of accommodation and he did not share in the proceeds of the sale.

Thelma protested that she did not know the men had no business getting that hog. She should have known, said the judge, but since her part in the action was purely passive he found her not guilty.

The trial was unduly prolonged by quibblings of judge and lawyers over the meaning of the word "intent" as regards a misdemeanor, and legal tomes were searched at length while the prosecuting witness, Poole, and defendants sat in stolid calm.

Arson Case

Livelier action was seen earlier in the day when George Rogers, Negro, of Southern Pines said he wasn't the one who set Ed Dowd's house afire in six places, while Ed Dowd insisted he had caught George in the act. Southern Pines police testified to Dowd's complaint, and the fact of the fire, also to their arrest of Rogers in bed at his home.

Dowd said Rogers had jumped up and run away when caught, exclaiming, "You caught me, didn't you?" Probable cause was found against Rogers and he was jailed in default of $1,000 bond, to face grand jury action on a charge of attempted arson.

Rest of Docket

Other cases on the docket: Howard Winn, Robbins, public drunkenness, nol proi; Charlie E. Maness, careless and reckless driving, judgment continued, $25 and costs, ordered to pay repairs on the other car; Leonard Lee Williams, Salisbury, speeding 65 mph, $15 and costs; James Fulton McBryde, Red Springs, speeding 70 mph, $25 and costs; Joseph Donnell Richardson, Randleman, careless and reckless driving causing accident and damage, judgment continued on payment of costs and $25 fine, plus damage to truck of Kenlaw Cleaners, Robbins.

Biggest Draft Call Is Received For January Induction

Summons For 65 Moore Men Will Take All Eligibles

Moore county has received its biggest draft call to date, for 65 men, to be inducted in January, it was learned from Mrs. Harry W. Davis, selective service clerk, at Carthage.

Previous high was 40 men inducted in January 1952. Monthly calls since then have been fairly small and there was no anticipation of, or explanation given for, the big jump upward next month.

The call is expected to clean out the reserves of all who have had preinduction exams and are classified as 1-A, just about using up the available crop of 20-year-olds. If the large calls for preinduction and induction continue, the 19-year-olds will soon be reached.

Two preinduction calls for December also add up to a large total. Thirty will go for preinduction exams today Friday, and 30 more December 18. These will be composed of men who were born from August to December 1932.

The December induction call is for 10 men, to be inducted Monday. Only nine will go as two others designated for this group were deferred as students, Mrs. Davis said. Leaving for the Army will be Richard Comer, Cameron Rt. 1; James Furr, Vass Rt. 2; Ernest Ransdell, Pinehurst; Eugene Black, West End Rt. 1; Claude Smith, Aberdeen Rt. 1; Benjamin Smith, Carthage Rt. 2; Joseph bond set at $250; R. C. Bass, Vass, bad check, two counts, one for $5, other for $37.88, 30 days on first count, 40 on second, to run concurrently, suspended on payment of the checks and costs; Frances Juanita Love, assault with deadly weapon, on payment of costs of capias and costs involved in getting prosecuting witness to court, she may be released, court orders warrant against defendant to be reinstated.

Kelly, Aberdeen Rt. 2; Floyd Ritter, Robbins Rt. 1, and Robert Byrd, Cameron Rt. 1. The last four are Negroes.

N. C. Elks Select Southern Pines As Convention Site

The North Carolina Elks association, holding their winter meeting at Charlotte last weekend, voted unanimously to come to Southern Pines for their annual convention in the spring.

This was a spontaneous action on the convention's part, and was made subject to the approval of the Southern Pines Elks Lodge at its next regular meeting, to be held December 18.

The local lodge was host to the convention in June 1950, at what was said to be one of the most successful and enjoyable events the state organization has ever held. Since that time the local lodge has moved its headquarters to the Southern Pines Country club, which will be the site of convention sessions and banquet if the meeting is held here.

Delegates to the Charlotte meeting were Exalted Ruler Dr. David W. Whitehead and Don Madigan. Before the question of a site was put to a vote, they were asked if the convention could come here.

Without authorization from their home lodge to extend an invitation, they could make only tentative affirmation.

Between 150 and 200 Elks, with their wives, usually attend the state conventions.
