

County, Towns Get Beer-Wine Tax Refunds

Moore County and towns in this county where beer and wine was sold in the fiscal year ending September 30 have received checks from the State Revenue Department representing refunds on beer and wine taxes collected by the State.

The Moore County refund, as well as those for all towns except Southern Pines and Pinehurst, represents taxes collected only from September 30, 1951, until the middle of November 1951, when beer and wine sales ceased throughout the county following a vote against such sales. Southern Pines and Pinehurst soon restored beer and wine sales in local elections, now receiving, therefore, nearly a full year's return on the tax money.

Amounts sent to Moore county include: Moore county, $2,108; Aberdeen, $154; Carthage, $111; Robbins, $108; Southern Pines $3,673; Vass, $72; Jackson Springs, $23; Pinehurst, $973.

Carthage News

By MRS. ALONZO BLUE
Surprise Party
 The Youth Fellowship, composed of the young people of the Carthage Presbyterian church, gave their adult advisor, Mrs. Myrton Stewart a surprise birthday party last Thursday night, at her home.

Mrs. Stewart received a basket of gifts from the visitors. Birthday cake and punch were served.

Christmas Program
 A Christmas program entitled "What Child Is This?" will be presented by the Youth Fellowship Sunday night, December 14, at 6:30 in the Carthage Presbyterian church.

Attends Church At 95
 Mrs. Evaline McNeill Blue, who will celebrate her 95th birthday in January, is a regular attendant at worship service in the Presbyterian church. Mrs. Blue has partially lost the sight in one eye, but under the care of her daughter, Miss Eula, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. A. McN. Blue, she enjoys getting out occasionally.

Mrs. James E. Frasier is confined to her home with laryngitis.

Mrs. C. E. Thompson of Elizabeth City and Mrs. Laura Chitty of Washington, D. C., visited their sister, Mrs. O. D. Wallace, last weekend. Mrs. Wallace is a patient at Moore County hospital.

Bream Placed In 53 New Ponds On Moore Co. Farms

Fifty-three new farm ponds constructed in Moore county this year were stocked during the fall with a total of 41,150 bream, it was learned this week from W. A. Austin, county work unit soil conservationist at Carthage.

The ponds will be stocked with bass in the spring, said Mr. Austin. The fish are supplied by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service from the McKinney fish hatchery at Hoffman.

Soil Conservation Service technicians assigned to Moore county, a part of the Upper Cape Fear Soil Conservation district, assisted with engineering work in the construction of the ponds.

Aside from acting as recreational areas for farm families, and providing fish for family consumption, these ponds are extremely valuable to the overall water conservation program of the county and district, the conservationist pointed out. They serve to slow up the movement of runoff water toward lakes and streams, thereby reducing the danger of floods and silting-in of streams. They are a useful part of the comprehensive program for erosion control.

GRASS FIRE
 A fire alarm early Tuesday afternoon summoned the volunteer firemen and truck to a grass fire near the athletic field, on the Old Pinehurst road.

The fire threatened several homes near by but it was soon put out, with no damage resulting.

The total output of crops this year will be only 2-2 per cent below the peak reached in 1948.
