Lions, Ladies Have Joint Meeting

An evening of fun and frolic, deepening toward seriousness at the last, was that of the second annual banquet and Ladies Night of the nine Lions Clubs of Moore county, held Friday night at the Southern Pines Country Club.

Honored guest and speaker was International Director Chester P. Webb of Lawrenceburg, Tenn., who provided the serious note as he told what it meant to be a Lion, a member of the largest service organization in the world.

Beneath the exuberance and good fellowship which is in itself a part of Lionism, the good Lion is marked by seven traits, said International Director Webb: he has a deep and abiding faith in the objects and purposes of Lionism; he works hard but with patience, knowing it takes time to build well; he welcomes good advice but is immune to unjust criticism; he has an urge to serve; he is a leader of men; he is a good follower also; he is a builder.

The banquet hall presented a longtime civic leader in his hometown and a veteran of World War 2, was presented by past District Governor H. Clifton Blue of Aberdeen as one who had worked his way up through the ranks of Lionism to a position of international importance.

E. P. Hinson of West End, District Deputy Governor of Region 3, District 31-D, presided over the banquet and David Gamble, president of the host Southern Pines Club, acted as toastmaster.

The banquet hall presented a gala appearance. An arrangement of huge yellow chrysanthemums was massed on the speakers' table, which had the big blue and gold Lions banner behind it and flags at either end. As each guest arrived, a bright-colored lei was thrown about his or her neck. Paper party hats in gay colors found at each place, were quickly donned, and toy noisemakers put into action.

Stars of the pre-program formalities were Tail Twister Walter F. Harper of Southern Pines and T. Clyde Auman of West End, who kept up a running fire of banter as they capered from table to table inflicting indignities upon the guests. Their attentions, which were restricted to the Lions, with only compliments for their wives, ranged from a fine of 10 cents to the administration of a candy pill or dose from a nauseous-looking bottle. If the victim's nose had to be held for the dose, the Tail Twisters were equal to it.

Their antics and several songs, with Mrs. Lamar Smith accompanying, kept things lively before and during the steak dinner.

A note of charm was provided by Mrs. Martha Aden as guest entertainer. Mrs. Aden, who has dance studios in Southern Pines and Rockingham, wearing scarlet sequins, and with top hat and cane, did two vivacious tap solos, as Mrs. Smith played.

Harold Payson, president of the Pinebluff Club, led the pledge of allegiance to the flag, and Lion H. L. Yancey, Jr., offered an invocation. Toastmaster Gamble gave a welcome, and Cabinet Secretary-Treasurer Ben A. Horne brought greetings from the District Governor.

The nine Moore clubs lie in two zones, one of which is in Region 2, the other in Region 3 of District 31-D. Presented as a special guest was District Deputy Governor Tucker of Wadesboro of Region 3.

Pilot Life leads the way with a new type of insurance protection—protection for the parents who might have the misfortune of a new baby born a victim of a disability or malformation at birth—a child who will require a lot of medical attention and care that could possibly ruin these parents financially.

Now for one single payment of $35 the prospective parent may insure against this possibility. This guarantees up to $10,000 for the finest in medical care for the tragically stricken child. Bills designated by the doctor according to the specified covered charges will be paid by The Pilot up to $10,000 after the first $250 is paid by the parents (Normally covered by standard hospitalization insurance).

Pilot Life will pay up to $10,000 for a period up to the 10th birthday of the child, if necessary, for things that go wrong at birth—or for specified conditions (outlined at the left) that occur during the child's first year.*

THE PILOT PAYS ALL THIS: Hospital room, board; institution room and board; doctors' and surgeons' bills; drugs, dressings, casts, splints, braces, crutches, artificial limbs; supplies of blood; anaesthetics, oxygen; laboratory and X-ray services; all services of hospitals and institutions, registered nurses, and physiotherapists. No standard hospitalization or medical insurance has made such protection possible!

Prospective parents or grandparents may buy it. It will apply to the first live child born within five years after the date of the policy. You may buy additional policies for other children.

The medical profession is full of praise for this type of insurance. Doctors, hospitals, parents, and institutions know that more stricken children are born than anyone cares to believe. We urge you to investigate this unusual protection today.
