Ground Observer Corps Takes Part In Big Exercise

Members of the Ground Observer Corps in Moore County went on duty at 8 a.m. Tuesday to posts 24 hours per day through 5 p.m. Friday in a five-state test exercise for the aircraft warning service. David Drexler heads the Corps' activities in Moore, with posts at Southern Pines, Aberdeen, Pinehurst, Carthage and Eagle Springs.

Under the direction of Harry Chatfield, local Corps head, volunteers are keeping constant watch of the skies at the N. C. Forest Service fire tower off Morganton Road, during the period of the exercise. More than a dozen volunteers from the John Boyd Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, have greatly aided the work here, he said this week. Both men and women are serving with the group and more are needed to assure efficient operation of the post.

Air Activity Reported

The exercise is conducted by the 35th Air Division, with headquarters at Marietta, Ga., to test the effectiveness of the Ground Observer Corps in the Southeastern United States. This exercise, nicknamed "Operation Early Spring," will be a preparation for "Operation Skywatch" which is to go into effect in the near future.

During the exercise, aircraft of the Air National Guard, Civil Air Patrol and the United States Air Force fly designated "Flight Missions" over the Southeastern area.
