

Charles Evans, 70, Killed By Auto Wreck In Michigan

Funeral services were held Saturday at Charlevoix, Mich., for Charles Evans, 70, former resident of Southern Pines, who was killed at Petoskey, Mich., in an automobile accident Tuesday of last week. Burial was in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

A resident of Charlevoix and Lake Worth, Fla., for the past 10 years, Mr. Evans had previously lived in the Sandhills for some 20 years. He was maintenance engineer at the Highland Pines Inn for 18 years and has also been employed at the Pine Needles Hotel which is now St. Joseph of the Pines Hospital.

Mr. Evans is survived by five daughters, one of whom, Mrs. George Little, lives in Southern Pines, and 11 grandchildren. The other daughters are Mrs. Margaret E. Lemmond and Mrs. Peggy E. Lawrence, both of Portsmouth, Va.; Mrs. Ruby E. Kelley of Virginia Beach, Va.; and Mrs. Colleen E. Troughton of Nashville, Tenn.

Mrs. Little, who is the former Muriel Evans, and her sisters, with the exception of Mrs. Troughton, flew to Charlevoix to attend the services.

Home Demonstration Club News

Manly-Southern Pines Home Demonstration Club met Monday in the home of Mrs. Howard Allred, with Mrs. D. E. McDonald as co-hostess. There were 14 members and two visitors, Mrs. William Reiner and Mrs. Florence Perham. One new member, Mrs. Perham, was added to our roll.

The meeting was called to order by president, Mrs. Allred, who also conducted the devotion. At the close of the business session, Miss Flora McDonald, Home Demonstration agent, presided over the discussion of "What To Wear and When." To exemplify the demonstration, several members were dressed in apparel suitable for various occasions such as beach wear and casual: Mrs. J. H. Caulfield and Mrs. D. E. McDonald in shorts with separate skirt; for relaxation, Mrs. Arthur Thomas in lounging pajamas; for church or afternoon tea, Mrs. Bessie Swearingin in beamer dress, hat and gloves; for general house wear, Mrs. Grady Wright in simple print dress and apron; for nursing and caring for the sick, Mrs. G. L. Culler in white uniform; for evening, Mary Scott Newton in floral formal.

Two of the members, Mrs. A. B. Sally of Pinehurst and Mrs. J. R. Chisholm of Manly, attended the Farm and Home Week Arts and Crafts fair in Raleigh, Monday through Wednesday of last week. Mrs. Sally had on display her many beautiful hooked rugs, and Mrs. Chisholm her pine needle baskets. These ladies explained and taught the art of rug and basket making. On Tuesday Mrs. Sally and Mrs. Chisholm appeared on television in connection with their work.

At the close of the meeting, the hostesses served ice cream and homemade cookies.—By Mary Scott Newton, publicity chairman.

Bethlehem Club

The Bethlehem Home Demonstration Club met Tuesday, June 21, with Mrs. Tracy Seawell.

We had a lesson on "Dressed for Different Occasions" by the clothing leader. Members of the club came dressed for different occasions.

During the social hour we all admired Mrs. Seawell's antique clock, which once belonged to her grandfather, Jay Seawell, caretaker of Parkwood.

It was given to him by J. E. Taylor, one of the founders of Parkwood, in about the year 1893. This 8-day clock is different, in that it not only tells the time, but also the month, the day of the month, and the day of the week.

—By Mrs. Earl Dowd, publicity chairman, Bethlehem Club.

Deep River Club

Good rains have fallen recently in the Deep River section and home gardens, lawns and farm fields have changed, almost as if by magic, from dull brown to bright green. And this morning as I drove along the Glendon Road into Carthage, following last night's shower, farmers and housewives were out around their premises, seeming as refreshed themselves as their growing crops.

I kept thinking how attractive some of the homes have been made by flower beds and plantings, and I was especially impressed by a number of neat, new mail boxes that had been set up. One house had a beautiful rose bush in bloom right by the roadside, another tiny little house was almost hidden behind a row of beautiful, tall gladioli. Another had its porch boxes filled with bright red geraniums.

Most of the housewives in these homes belong to the Deep River Home Demonstration Club and, in keeping with the club's policy, are doing a lot about improving their places. It doesn't take too much time or effort to plant a few flower beds or to set up an attractive mail box or even to spread a bit of paint, the best face-lifter in the world. Any improvement made brings a double reward—pleasure and pride to home-owners and delight to those who drive over our highways.—By Alma T. Edwards, publicity chairman Deep River Club.

THEATRES CAROLINA

The cloud of secrecy surrounding the world's most awesome striking force is dramatically lifted by Paramount's tremendously vital film, "Strategic Air Command," in VistaVision, coming to the Carolina the entire week of July 3, with three shows on Sunday at 3, 7 and 9, week nights at 8:15 and a Wednesday and Saturday matinee at 3.

"Strategic Air Command" is not a war story. It is, in fact, the greatest peace story of the past decade. Starring James Stewart and June Allyson, with Frank Lovejoy, Barry Sullivan, Alex Nichols and Bruce Bennett, the closely guarded gates that until recently remained shut to the public have swung open to give the nation its first full-scale look at the incredible planes and men of our top-secret atomic air arm.

Outstanding production values and fine casting, with resultant finished portrayals, give strong appeal to intensely human characters involved in a story with a strong message about a vitally important branch of the country's defense and military might.

There are spectacularly beautiful shots on planes in flight and emotionally appealing portraits of men dedicated to service in the Air Force with consequent sacrifice on the part of their wives.

This picturized updating of the "wild blue yonder" is always interesting, often spectacular and, in some instances, photographically spellbinding. It also establishes VistaVision as a major contender in the big screen derby, and in color by Technicolor, the drama will present never-before-seen aerial sequences that preview audiences have said stagger the imagination.

Board Of Health Sets New Rules For Septic Tanks

A new eight-section ordinance covering the installation and maintenance of septic tanks has been adopted by the Moore County board of health, reports E. Floyd Dunn, county sanitarian.

Under the ordinance: A permit must be obtained from the county health officer for construction of a septic tank and a certificate of approval must be obtained on completion of the installation.

The permit may be issued either to the property owner or to the contractor installing the tank. Applications for permits must be made at least one day before construction begins and applications for approval certificates must be made at least one day before the work is completed.

All septic tanks must conform to State Board of Health specifications and no tank may be connected to more than one house. Specifications (Bulletin 519) may be obtained from the county health department.

Contents of a septic tank may not be pumped out without a permit from the county health officer. No permit for pumping out a tank will be issued until the tank has been inspected by the health officer or his representative and he has satisfied himself that the tank needs pumping and that proper arrangements have been made to dispose of the contents of the tank.

Penalties set by the ordinance for violation of any section of it are up to 30 days in jail or up to $50 fine.

Perhaps the most luscious display of feminine beauty that the screen has revealed in many a day highlights the Howard Hughes presentation of "Son of Sinbad," which the Sunrise Theatre announces as its next attraction, starting Sunday, July 3.

Inspired by some of the famous characters and events of the always-popular Arabian Nights tales, this RKO Arabion production is presented in the new big-screen Superscope process, with color by Technicolor. Dale Robertson plays the dashing title role, with Sally Forrest, Lilli St. Cyr, Vincent Price and Mari Blanchard in costarring assignments.

According to advance reports, this new Sinbad is ten times the man his father ever was. A rogue of rogues, he is the apex of one
