

Part-Time Jobs As Interviewer Open In Moore

The Employment Security Commission of N. C. is interested in securing the services of part-time workers who will be employed as interviewers during periods of heavy workloads. Workers are needed for Carthage, Robbins, Southern Pines and Pinehurst, reports L. Garland Scott, manager of the Sanford ESC office.

These positions will be particularly interesting to housewives, persons who have retired from full time employment and persons with handicaps who are unable to take a full time job, said Mr. Scott.

Applications must be submitted immediately for examination to be held on October 14. Applicants must be either a college graduate or have at least four years' experience in public contact activities. Salary will be $1.60 per hour.

Any person interested in these job openings is asked to contact the office of the Employment Security Commission of N. C., 234 Carthage Street, Sanford, immediately for application forms. Telephone number is SP-ring 3-8081.

Comprehensive Forest Fire Control Plan Will Go Into Operation Oct. 1

A comprehensive forest fire control plan — in which several State and Federal agencies will cooperate with the Department of Conservation and Development's forestry division, the State's large landowners and forest industries in the detection and suppression of woodland fires—will go into effect with the beginning of the forest fire "season" around October 1.

Announcement of the new plan was made by Director Ben E. Douglas of the Department of Conservation and Development.

Douglas termed the agreement "The most comprehensive plan ever worked out in the State to provide for better protection of our more than 18 million acres of woodlands against their deadliest enemy—fire."

Cooperating with the C&D Department's forestry division are the following agencies: U. S. Forest Service, U. S. Weather Bureau, the Army, Coast Guard, Navy, and Marine Corps, the North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission, the State Prisons Department, the State Highway Patrol, the State Highway and Public Works Commission, the Division of State Parks of the C&D Department, the State Bureau of Investigation, the forest industry, and large landowners.

The plan, Douglas said, is the outgrowth of a conference called by Governor Hodges last July 12 in Raleigh at the request of wood-using industries of the State to see what could be done to strengthen the present forest fire control work now being done by the C&D Department and the forest industry.

"The private and public agencies, which have agreed to aid us in the detection and suppression of forest fires in the State, are to be highly praised for the services they are volunteering in helping us prevent, combat, and control woodland fires," Douglas said.

Special attention will be given to the so-called "forest firebugs," who deliberately set forest fires, Douglas said.

Commenting on the plan, which he and others worked out, State Forester Fred H. Claridge said: "The plan in itself will not extinguish forest fires, nor will it replace the use of common sense, good judgment, and initiative; however, it will be a valuable aid to the forest fire fighting organization in discharging its responsibility under the law."

POISONS KILL CHILDREN

Accidental poisoning is one of the principal causes of home deaths among children under five years old. Three main groups of poisons caused 99 per cent of the deaths: drugs (35 per cent), petroleum products, of which kerosene is the most important (26 per cent), and products for external use (38 per cent). Lead is the No. 1 killer among the external use products, and arsenic is second. Caustics, such as lye, cresol and ammonia, rat poisons and fly sprays also rank high. Other dangerous products include shampoos, rubbing solutions, bleaches, moth balls and furniture polish.
