'CHUB' SEAWELL NOT COMING

Senator Sam Ervin To Speak At High School Tuesday Night At Demo Rally

U. S. Senator Sam J. Ervin, Jr. will be principal speaker at a rally here Tuesday night as Moore County Democrats move into the last week of intensive campaigning before the General elections.

It is doubtful at this writing that H. F. "Chub" Seawell, Jr., of Carthage, one-time Republican candidate for Governor of North Carolina, will be on the program. An invitation had been extended to him by Lloyd T. Clark, Southern Pines precinct chairman, but Seawell begged off, saying he didn't think his appearance would be in the best interest.

"There have been many people with the idea that I'm mad at somebody," he said Monday. "I'm not. Fact of the matter is, I'm a dead Republican, not a live Democrat."

Seawell, not yet registered as a Democrat, said about three weeks ago that he couldn't find a home in the Republican Party and intimated he would vote the Democratic ticket.

Senator Ervin, who has been campaigning throughout the state, is expected to draw a large crowd to the high school, where he will speak following a barbecue dinner at 6:30.

Clark said that elaborate preparations are being taken to assure the success of the rally. "We have a speaker that has demonstrated his capability of pointing up issues and giving telling reasons for his stand on things," he said. "And anything less than a really outstanding rally would not speak well for what might prove to be Stevenson's second home town if he is elected."

Senator Ervin is a graduate of Umstead in 1954 to fill the unexpired term of the late Clyde R. Hoey.

He was elected to the Senate in 1954 for a term expiring January 3, 1957.

Senator Ervin has also represented North Carolina as a Congressman from the Tenth Congressional District.

FIRST PHOTOGRAPH of the new entrance and wings of the Moore County Hospital in Pinehurst, 27-year-old institution which on October 16 admitted its 70,000 patient, was recently made by John Hemmer. The main entrance leads to a lobby and waiting room, with information desk and telephone booths. In the new wing on the right are the offices of the Hospital Administrator, and the Canteen conducted by the Woman's Auxiliary. In the left wing are the Admitting and Discharge offices for patients, Bookkeeping and Insurance departments, the vault and storage closets for records and supplies. The new front is part of the $450,000 expansion and improvement program launched last February following a successful fund drive. The project includes a new boiler house and laundry, a new Pediatric and Emergency wing, all in rear of building—these changes making possible greatly improved and enlarged space for X-ray and other functional departments, and an increase in bed capacity from 120 to 145—a far cry from the 33 beds at the time the institution opened in November, 1929.

Episcopal Home For Elderly May Be Located Here

Southern Pines has been chosen by the Episcopal Church of the state as a desirable location for a home for elderly people.

This was the purport of the news given a group of citizens called together by Mayor Voit Gilmore Wednesday to talk over the idea and, if possible, start plans to implement it.

Present, beside the mayor, were Thomas C. Darst, Jr., senior warden of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, Livingston L. Biddle of Pinehurst, leading Episcopalian and real estate man, John S. Ruggles of Barnum Realty, Mrs. R. E. Rhodes, Mrs. James Boyd, Mrs. K. N. McColl of the town planning board, E. C. Stevens, member of Emmanuel Church vestry, and the Rev. Martin Caldwell, rector of the local church.

The mayor reviewed the letter that had come to the town from Judge Francis O. Clarkson of Charlotte, who heads the church group working on the project. The home desired, said Judge Clarkson, is for elderly people, but not for indigents or for convalescents. There is great need, he wrote, for a place where old people, not necessarily Episcopalian, who must break up their homes and are alone in the world, may retire to pass their remaining years. Lions Sponsoring Annual White Cane Drive Next Week

The annual White Cane drive of the Southern Pines Lions Club will be held all next week, it was announced this morning by Joe Carter, chairman of the Lion committee.

The local drive is a part of state-wide campaign for the North Carolina State Association for the Blind, which is sponsored annually by the combined Lions Clubs of the state.

More than 14,000 members take part. Goal for this year on a state-wide basis is $40,000.

Carter reminded citizens that there were 11,600 people in the state who benefit from the program. Proceeds are used for providing glasses and other visual aids, radios to shut-in blind, eye care, medical services, white cane walking sticks, dental care, hearing aids, and numerous other services.

Blue Knights Lay Perfect Mark On Line Against Maxton Friday Night

In what is expected to be their stiffest game of the year, the Southern Pines Blue Knights lay a perfect record on the line Friday night when they traveled to Maxton, which also is sporting a perfect record for the season.

The Knights have won six; Maxton seven. In the Greensboro Daily News schoolboy ratings, Wednesday of this week, the Blue Knights were given first place preference over Maxton, a fact that gives Coach Irie Leonard reason to believe that Maxton will be gunning for nothing short of a complete rout of the Knights.

"We played one of our worst games of the year last Friday against Pinehurst," he said this morning, "and if we have a repeat performance we'll come out on the short end in Maxton."

Leonard was referring to what started out to be a very tight game with the Rebels but ended up with a smashing fourth quarter and a subsequent 30-6 victory.

The Blue Knights had led by a narrow 12-6 score until the final quarter, when fleet Don Walter broke the game wide open with a series of fake passes and runs.

Last year the Blue Knights defeated Maxton 48-12. This year, if comparative scores can serve as any forecast, they will be the underdogs. Maxton defeated the Red Devils 14-12, and that only because a miscue on a pass from center kept the Devils from a possible tied-up game.

So, being the underdog, at least as far as Leonard is concerned, might be just the thing to snap the Blue Knights out of (Continued on Page 4)

Carousel Tourney Entries Pass 100 As Deadline Nears

Entries in the third annual Golf Carousel passed the 100 mark this morning as the sponsoring Junior Chamber of Commerce firmed up plans for a concerted effort during the remaining two weeks to push the final total over 200.

"The total entry so far is ahead of last year's," Joe Carter and Johnnie Hall, co-chairmen said, "and it looks as though early estimates of 200 players will be accurate. We are more than pleased with the response to date."

Julius Boros, who recently won the Carolinas Professional Golf Association championship, has indicated he would play in the pro-am division of the tournament, scheduled for opening day, November 8. A number of other well-known professionals throughout the state have indicated similar plans and the Jaycees pairing committee is busy matching handicaps.

The tournament will be played November 8-11 over the three courses in Southern Pines—Pine Needles, Mid Pines and the Country Club. Entries from local players should be in as soon as possible, tourney officials pointed out, so that proper plans can be made.

To date, out-of-town entries outnumber local ones by about 10 to one.

Entry blanks may be secured from either Jim Baird at Barnum Realty Company, Charlie Clapp at radio station WEEB, Bob Dunn, or from The Pilot office.

Registration Heavy As Election Nears

Passes 3,000 Mark Here For All-Time High

Registration in the Southern Pines precinct went over the 3,000 mark for the first time in history Saturday, according to Mrs. Frank Kaylor, registrar.

With some 175 new voters getting their names on the books in the past two weeks, Mrs. Kaylor said the registration was the heaviest in recent memory.

She said that registration of new voters would continue until Saturday at 6 p. m. And Sam C. Riddle, of Carthage, chairman of the Moore County Board of Elections, said that registration in the other county precincts would also be held through Saturday.

New voters who desire to register before Saturday may visit the home of the registrar. In Southern Pines Mrs. Kaylor keeps the books at the fire station on East New Hampshire Avenue.

Challenge day has been established by the State Board of Elections as November 3, the Saturday before the elections, which will be held Tuesday, November 6.

No new registration is required of persons who were registered for the last general election or the last primary. However, those who have not previously registered or have recently qualified through age or residence must register now if they are to be eligible for the November 6 elections.

The new Howard Johnson's Restaurant on U. S. Highway No. 1 between Southern Pines and Aberdeen was opened Tuesday night and is now operating daily from 7 a. m. to 11 p. m.

Formal opening ceremonies will not be held until late November at which time a large ceremony featuring numerous celebrities will mark the start of full operations of the adjoining Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge, the Midway Esso servicenter and the Restaurant, all of which are being operated by one management.

Richard Caldwell, manager of the Howard Johnson's Restaurant, stated that 35 employees are on the restaurant payroll. He said, "Opening business has been extremely gratifying even though all we have done to advertise so far is just turn on our electric time should vote in the precinct where they are registered.

In an effort to get out a big vote this year several groups have put on strenuous campaigns, including the leaders of the Democratic Party in the precinct, the Citizens for Eisenhower, the Boy Scouts of America, the League of Women Voters, and others.

All reminded citizens this week that a misconception about eligibility could cost them their right to vote. They pointed out that anyone who is not sure of his voting eligibility should check with his precinct registrar.

One thing that constantly confuses Southern Pines voters, and others too, for that matter, is the matter of registration in town elections. In the past many peo-

ABERDEEN PRECINCT

Residents of the Aberdeen precinct who live on the edge of Southern Pines may register to vote in the general elections at a special registration period being held tonight (Thursday) at the home of J. W. Causey on Ridge Street Extension, according to Mrs. Margaret Dunn, registrar at Aberdeen.

Mrs. Dunn said that many people in that area, which includes Golfcrest, Pinedene, Weymouth Heights, Country Club Heights, Sunnyside and other communities, have not registered.

She will have the registration book available from 7 to 8:30 at Mr. Causey's home.

To be eligible to register, and subsequently to vote, a person must be over 21, must never have been convicted of a felony crime, must have lived in the precinct at least 30 days, and must have been a resident of the state at least one year.

Both the registration and polling places for Southern Pines are located at the town fire department on East New Hampshire Ave.

Business Development Group Meets Again, To Begin Processing Data

The question of what types of draw up a list of the various industry are best suitable for Moore County was the central topic of discussion at the recent organized Moore County Industrial Development Committee held its second meeting Monday.

Light or heavy industry, the "science" type, or other kinds, some less desirable, were discussed. Chairman John Ostrom pointed out to the members that not all industry would be compatible with the natural resources of the county, nor, perhaps, of the labor resources.

He appointed a special committee of Harry K. Smyth, John L. Ponzer, James Steed and E. H. Mills to look into the matter,
