Dr. Timmons To Discuss Raleigh Girl's Book Sunday

The second in a series of book interpretations for the Advent Vespers services at the Church of Wide Fellowship will be delivered by Dr. W. C. Timmons, pastor, Sunday at 4:30.

The book to be reviewed and discussed this week will be "Caleb, My Son," by Lucy Daniels of Raleigh. Last week Dr. Timmons discussed a book dealing with faith healing, written by Wade Boggs, a native North Carolinian, to a large audience.

According to Dr. Timmons this Sunday's discussion will deal with the race question in American life. He will undertake to interpret the over-tones of the book, which has been termed one of the most provocative stories of this season, and will seek to answer the pressing question of "How Dark is the Race Problem?"

Mrs. Daniels, daughter of Jonathan Daniels, editor of the Raleigh News and Observer, and a granddaughter of Josephus Daniels, has repeatedly said that she did not write the book to either support or criticize any view of the race problem, but was simply telling the realistic story of how a Negro family was caught in the pathetic crisis of the times.

The book has been hailed by critics as one of the best to come out of the South that deals with the race problem. It is reputed to have something of the same quality as the writings of Anne Morrow Lindbergh and Rachel Carson.

Roger Gibbs, director of music at the church, will sing a Negro spiritual, according to Dr. Timmons, which will be preceded by organ meditations by David Paddock, organist at the church.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Mrs. Bill Bushby Named Supervisor Of GOC Post Here

Mrs. Bill Bushby has been appointed new post supervisor for the local Ground Observer Corps post, succeeding Col. George Garde, according to county GOC chairman Dave Drexel.

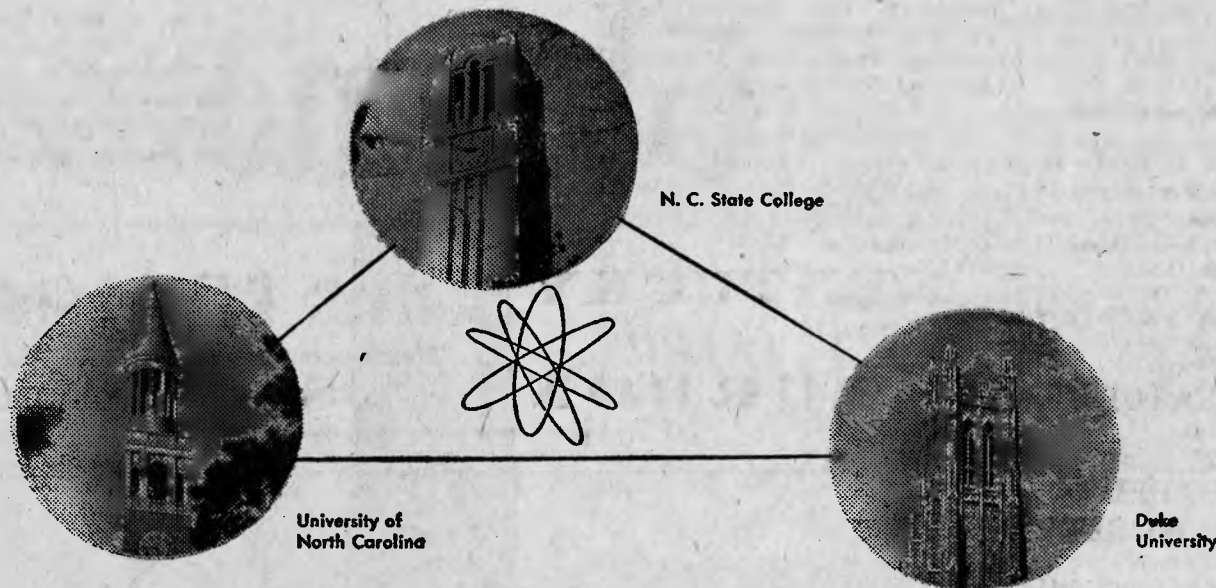

Mrs. Bushby was formerly a day captain for LIMA FOXTROT 31 BLACK, the official name of the local post.

Col. Garde reluctantly gave up the post but said he was forced to do so because of pressure of business.

Drexel and Mrs. Bushby said today that construction of the observer post, located on Weymouth Estate, would be resumed a week from this Saturday. The Junior Chamber of Commerce has volunteered to help with the completion of the structure, a job that was held up because of lack of materials.

Drexel said enough materials had been donated recently to put the post "at least in a workable condition."

This is another in the series of advertisements published by this newspaper, a member of the North Carolina Press Association, as a public service in the interest of the State's industrial development.

The Research Triangle

NEW SCIENTIFIC HEART OF NORTH CAROLINA'S FORWARD MARCH

Dedicated men and women, at work with fantastically complicated instruments and simple test tubes, are shaping a brighter future for every North Carolinian. In the seclusion of great public institutions and in private laboratories on the Great Smokies to the Atlantic Ocean, they are creating the miracles of modern science. They are the brains, the flesh and blood, of the Research Triangle. Their work has already made every book, every article, about North Carolina's economy that was written even a year ago out of date. The Research Triangle is a new and dynamic North Carolina First. Every citizen owes it to himself to know what it is, and what it means to his and his State's future.

Governor Luther H. Hodges, who heads North Carolina's development program, invites you to write for the new RESEARCH TRIANGLE booklet.

The Christmas Seals that fight TB are sold by 3,000 voluntary tuberculosis associations in every state and territory of the United States.

Christmas Seals, sold since 1907 to raise funds to fight tuberculosis, are collected by many philatelists.

No issue has ever been reprinted, and each year the plates are destroyed.

Skeletons of prehistoric man give evidence that tuberculosis found its way into cave homes just as it invades modern ranch houses and apartments.
