

Dean of Duke University Chapel To Speak At Pinehurst Forum Thursday

A highly intellectual program can be expected by the members of the Pinehurst Forum at the Pinehurst Country Club Thursday, January 17, when Dr. James T. Cleland, a James B. Duke Professor of Preaching in the Divinity School and Dean of the Chapel of Duke University, will deliver an interesting lecture entitled "An Appreciation of the English Bible."

Time for this third presentation in the Forum's current winter series is 8:30 p. m.

Dr. Cleland, the son of the Rev. James and Margaret Curdie Cleland, was born in Glasgow, Scotland and is married to the former Alice Mead. He graduated from the Hillhead High School in Glasgow with further academic training at Glasgow University where he received an M. A. in 1924 and a B. D. with distinction in 1927, and at the Union Theological Seminary in New York City, where he has summa cum laude for his S. T. M. in 1928, and where he obtained his Th. D. degree in 1954.

He was granted an honorary D. D. from Davidson College in 1951, an ODK from Duke University in 1948 and became a James B. Duke professor in September, 1954, and Dean of the Duke University Chapel in March, 1955. The doctor, who has been at Duke University since 1945, has held numerous teaching positions throughout the country including instructor, assistant professor and associate professor of religion at Amherst College in Massachusetts; Visiting Professor of Preaching at Union Theological Seminary; and Visiting Professor of Preaching at the Pacific School of Religion in Berkeley, California the summer of 1951.

Dr. Cleland's sermons have been published in "Best Sermons, 1949-1950"; "The Interpreter's Bible," (Volumes II and VI) 1953-57; and in 1954 in "The True and Lively Word."

He has held the following lectureships since 1953: the Frederic Rogers Kellogg Lectures, Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, Mass.; the Hoyt Lectures of Auburn Seminary, Union Theological Seminary, New York City, 1955; the Peyton Lectures, Southern Methodist University, Texas, 1956; and the Zimmerman Lectures, Lutheran Theological Seminary, Gettysburg, Pa., 1956. Preceding the Forum meeting at 8:30 will be the Country Club's weekly buffet supper which will be served in the club dining room at seven o'clock. As always, advance reservations are required for this popular social get-together.

Approximately 66 per cent of North Carolina's farm income is derived from five basic crops.

Insurance Rates Up Effective Jan. 1, Agent Advises

Changes in extended coverage insurance which became effective January 1 were explained here today by Joseph I. Scott, president of the Moore County Insurance Agents Association.

North Carolina Insurance Commissioner Charles F. Gold last week announced rate revisions and a $50 deductible on windstorm and hail losses. The deductible feature applies in the same manner as the deductible provision in automobile collision coverage; the policyholder pays the first $50 of any such loss while the company is responsible for that portion of a loss exceeding $50.

Rate revisions announced last week are the result of heavy insurance losses during hurricanes of 1954 and 1955, Scott explained. In the past the State has been divided into two zones for insurance rating purposes—the coastal area and the inland territory. Under Commissioner Gold's ruling of last week the State is now divided into seacoast, central and western zones.

Counties in the seacoast zone are Beaufort, Brunswick, Camden, Carteret, Chowan, Craven, Currituck, Dare, Hyde, Jones, New Hanover, Onslow, Pamlico, Pasquotank, Pender, Perquimans, Tyrrell and Washington. Effective January 1, extended coverage rates in these counties increased from 14 to 20 cents per $100 on dwellings and from 27 to 40 cents on farm barns.

In the central zone—consisting of Caswell, Alamance, Chatham, Moore, Scotland and eastern counties not in the seacoast zone—the rate has increased from 8 to 11 cents on dwellings and from 23 to 32 cents on barns.

There is no change in the western zone—consisting of all other counties—where the dwelling rate is 8 cents and the barn rate 23 cents.

Scott emphasized that the new rates do not apply to policies now in force but only on new and renewal policies. He also explained that windstorm damage is now excluded from coverage except upon payment of an additional premium of $5 in the coastal zone, $4 in the central zone and $3 in the western zone.

The Appalachian Mountain region of North Carolina is the culminating region of that mountain system and contains its largest masses and highest summits.

Painting Classes To Begin Jan. 15 At Carolina Hotel

Arrangements have been completed for a series of classes in oil painting and water colors to start on Tuesday, January 15 at the Carolina hotel in Pinehurst.

Conducting the classes will be Edna Palmer Engelhardt, of New York City, well known landscape painter and art teacher.

Local artists and beginners are invited to participate.

A demonstration and talk by Mrs. Engelhardt will launch the classes January 15 with the classes themselves following on successive days.

Mrs. Engelhardt is an artist-member of the Grand Central Art Galleries of New York Central Art Galleries of New York City. She has conducted similar projects at Buck Hill Falls, Sky-top and Pocono Manor in Pennsylvania, and at her own studios in New York City and Upper Montclair, N. J., and in Bronxville, Tuckahoe and White Plains in New York.

She has studied with such National Academicians as Harry Neith-Ross, Cullen Yates, John F. Carlson and Herb Olsen, and has exhibited extensively.

Arrangements for the series were made by Albert Tufts of Pinehurst through Edwin S. Barrie, director of the Grand Central Art Galleries, a frequent Pinehurst visitor.

This sweet, smooth and sassy new Chevy has its own built-in "dollar-saver"—America's favorite six!

Hard to believe it, but this big beauty is a bottom-priced Chevrolet "One-Fifty." It's got Body by Fisher quality written all over it. And it has a peppery, sweet-running "Blue-Flame" six under the hood to make your gas stops few and far between.

Like all new Chevies, it brings you a very special sureness of control. This is a quality that just can't be measured in dollars and cents. Lots of cars that cost lots more just don't have it. Come in and see how much pleasure we're passing out these days at Chevrolet prices!
