Mister Sparks, owned by Mrs. Jane Dane of Boston and ridden by Joan Walsh of Stoneybrook Stables, was judged Reserve Champion.

Gala Pennant, in addition to walking off with the top trophy, placed first in the non-thoroughbred hunters class. Mister Sparks was second in the first season hunters, and second in the non-thoroughbred hunter class.

Steve Dunn of Stamford, Conn., a member of the company for the past three years and also a principal in the "Winnie the Pooh" production, will appear in the production also.

Warren E. Murray, guest director for the initial offering, is a New York motion picture director. He has just returned from Ohio and Texas where he has been on location with his latest assignment. In the past year and a half, directing duties have taken him to Europe, the Holy Land, and Mexico.

PHONE SYSTEM

(Continued from Page 1) service, together with rate increase to offset the cost of the service. Originally, the "handover" date was hoped for by the company as November 17, 1956 for the extended area service and August 17, 1957 for the inter-toll dialing system. The manufacturers advised, when bids were out, that the company's hoped-for dates "are beyond our power with the huge volume of orders we are now carrying and which continue to be received from telephone companies." Prior to this week's announcement, the company had been advised that the "handover" date would be January 31, 1957, for the extended area service, and March, 1957, for the inter-toll dialing.

When the system is installed, subscribers in Southern Pines will be able to dial either Aberdeen or Pinehurst without toll charge; Aberdeen subscribers and Pinehurst subscribers may also dial Southern Pines without a toll charge, but tolls will remain in effect on direct calls between Aberdeen and Pinehurst.

Cables have been erected by the company already between Southern Pines and Pinehurst, and the cable has been strung to meet Aberdeen's.

CONSTRUCTION

(Continued from page 1) g-ther with other stockholders in a corporation formed especially for the purpose, are presently seeing finishing touches put on the new facilities. Consisting of eight luxury type units, the new building should be ready for occupancy before the end of the month.

It was designed by Thomas T. Hayes, local architectural firm, and employs several new methods of construction and finishing. Wood and concrete exteriors were designed to blend with the wooded landscape. Terraces on each unit overlook Mid Pines lake. Inside, the units have walnut panelling and exposed beams. One whole side of the structure is of glass. Each unit has a combination bedroom-living room, dressing room, closets and bath.

Separate facilities are being built to house the heating equipment and provide storage. The caretaker will also live in the separate unit in an apartment provided.

An addition to the Southern Pines high school building is also under way and will provide for enlarged quarters for a bandroom, showers, and other needed space.

Bids for the cafeteria at West Southern Pines school have also been advertised for and will be opened shortly.

Not in Southern Pines, but still part of the "boomlet," is a house being constructed on Midland Road for Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Safford, nationally known in trotting horse circles. The home was designed by Mrs. Safford and is, she says, "a dream house we've always wanted."

Concrete blocks, more than 20,000 of them, have already been laid and form, for the most part, the outside shell and several room partitions. The house, with a floor space of more than 8,000 square feet, has four bedrooms, each with bath, a large foyer, living room, den, utility room, kitchen, servants quarters, and other features.

Typhoon heat pumps will be used for both heat and air conditioning. The pumps, a rarity in this area, use well water, which is about 60 degrees, and separate the heat from the water to make a comfortable inside temperature in the summer months. In winter, the system works in reverse and separates the coldness from the water.

There has, as most anyone would know who takes a Sunday drive, been a terrific amount of building and developing out Young's Road by the "horse people." The Pilot will have a story on that next week.

In The General Assembly

By CLIFF BLUE

Down To Work. . . The General Assembly has now settled down to work with all standing committees having been completed last Friday.

Poole . . . J. Hawley Poole, former State Senator and a member of the State Board of Agriculture, was in Raleigh Monday attending a meeting of the Board of Agriculture and visited at the House and Senate Monday night.

Bess McCaskill . . . Miss Bess McCaskill of Carthage has been named Secretary to the House Committee on Penal Institutions, and is staying with her sister, Miss Myrtle McCaskill, who is a secretary in the Revenue Department.

Uzzell Resolution . . . On Tuesday Rep. George Uzzell of Rowan county introduced a resolution "directing" the Appropriations committee to raise the teachers salaries 15 per cent. While your representative favors an increase in teachers salaries over and above the 9.1 per cent recommended by the Advisory Budget Commission, we did not feel his resolution proper and for this reason voted to table it as did several others who will vote for more adequate pay for the teachers at the proper time. Many who voted against tabling the resolution did not feel it the proper approach to the matter.

Taxation . . . On Tuesday afternoon Brandon Hodges, chairman of the State Tax Study Commission, spoke to members of the House and Senate Finance and Appropriations committee, explaining the commission's recommendations in a two-hour speech.

Breakfasts . . . At each session of the General Assembly the Governor and his wife have all the members of the House and Senate for breakfast, having about 25 each morning until they get around. Since your representative's name starts with "B" we were in the first group invited which was Tuesday morning. Breakfast consisted of sausage, bacon, eggs, grits, biscuits, toast, jam and coffee.

FURTHER DATA

(Continued from Page 1) adds: "In the largest cities, where politics has had considerable control, the appointive practice has been more prevalent. In school boards in cities below 100,000 the percentage of elected boards has been much higher."

FAVORING AN APPOINTED BOARD

(1) It is often possible to secure a better type of member by the appointive method.

(2) It is claimed that appointed members can be held responsible through the authority of the board that appointed them.

(3) Appointment to long terms and overlapping terms, which is most advisable in a school board, can be better secured this way. Elections might tend towards frequent changes.

(4) The appointive members may not be as completely subject to the will of people who, on a particular issue, might elect a person to accomplish a certain end.

Mr. Phillips concludes that either plan can give excellent results. Boards now operating on both systems are functioning well, he states. It all depends on the calibre of the board elected or appointed. He is doubtful of a combination of the two methods, though he agrees that the Asheboro board is an excellent one. But, he says, "If we are willing to trust the people, then we should trust them the entire distance."
