Sandhills Gets 'Shot' In Economic Arm By Playing Host To C&D Board

If this section needed a shot in the arm—and there will be few to deny that need—it was administered a good strong one by the visit of the State Board of Conservation and Development which met here Monday and Tuesday of last week.

Those who were able to squeeze into the Mid Pines Club where the sessions were held came out again stepping high, while folks on the street and in the countryside were visibly encouraged by the sight of so many energetic, intelligent, obviously public-spirited leaders of industry, science and government, with the accompanying state team, taking in the sights of the Sandhills.

As Mayor Blue of this host town put it: "We hope you will bask in our sunshine and clear air, enjoy our golf, and have a good time," and it was evident that they did all three and a lot more besides.

With Governor Luther Hodges as their alert, friendly and efficient executive, sessions ran smoothly, but this was thanks also to those who made the reports. Both chairmen of committees of the board and the state officials were exceptionally concise in their remarks, keeping right to the point. The few questions were answered with a minimum of verbiage. Independent Telephone Group Names Cline V-P

Investments over the previous year; (2) the two surveys now being made of towns and counties for information on industrial potential and desires; (3), the new research center to be located in the triangle of Raleigh-Durham-Chapel Hill, under the leadership of Karl Robbins, formerly head of Robbins Mills; and (4) surveys of in-and-out-of state markets.

Moore County industry and activities were well advertised at the session at the Mid Pines. In the lobby were installed exhibits featuring the products of Pyrax, the "falc mine", located near Robbins, textiles from Amerotron, whose administrative office is located on the Aberdeen-Pinehurst road, Karaghurian, makers of "Gullistan" velvet carpets, located close by in the former Robbins Mills building, and the newly opened chair plant in Robbins of which Garland McPherson is the head. The Carolina Orchid Growers' highly decorative exhibit drew all eyes.

Other attractive exhibits were provided by the Aberdeen Coca Cola Bottling Company, and a forestry exhibit including a new power wagon for cutting brush and fire lanes which was set up by James A. Pippin, district fire warden.
