Adolphus Ruggles, One of Town's Early Settlers, Died This Morning

Adolphus Stephen Ruggles, 88, pioneer resident of Southern Pines, died about 7 o'clock this morning at his home on North Bennett Street following an illness of several weeks.

Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow (Friday) at 4 o'clock at the Church of Wide Fellowship by the Rev. Carl Wallace, pastor, assisted by the Rev. Maynard Mangum of the First Baptist Church. Burial will be in Mount Hope Cemetery.

All downtown stores will be closed tomorrow (Friday) from 3:45 to 4:45 during the funeral services as a mark of respect for Mr. Ruggles.

Changes designed to alleviate a growing parking problem in Southern Pines were proposed at the regular meeting of the Town Council Tuesday night.

Under the proposals two hour parking in any area would be eliminated, and diagonal parking would give way to parallel park-ing in certain areas. However, diagonal parking would be kept on some streets and would replace parallel parking in one street.

The proposals were an out-Chandler, Jr., the committee made extensive investigation of the being held in the vicinity, memted a number of changes.
