

11 AND 10 WINNER OVER DURHAM

Chapman Displays Superb Form In Capturing North-South Golf Title

After more than two decades of frustrated attempts to capture the one golf title dearer to his heart, than any other, Richard "Dick" Chapman of Pinehurst finally grabbed it Saturday.

He won the North and South Amateur, defeating Herb Durham of Dallas, Tex., 11 and 10, second worst drubbing a competitor has had in the 58-year history of the tournament.

For Chapman, who lives in Pinehurst and calls No. 2 Course, scene of the tournament, his "own backyard," the victory was especially sweet. Twenty four years ago he was runner-up. Since then he has won virtually every other amateur tournament of any consequence in the country, and in foreign countries as well. Included are the British, French and Canadian titles, and, even larger, the United States amateur.

But he had been ruled out at Pinehurst for some reason he never could understand.

In winning Saturday he shot superlative golf. He was two under par for the morning round and held an impressive seven up lead. And at the end of the 26 rounds it took to defeat Durham, Chapman could look back and find only one real mistake, a bogey on the first hole of the afternoon round.

Durham, who was playing in the North-South for the first time, won only two holes, one on each nine of the morning round, each with a birdie. Chapman didn't three-putt a green. He was long and accurate off the tees, missing only one fairway, and came up with many fine iron shots.

He led from the second hole in the first round, firing 16 pars and two birdies. He finished the morning with a seven up lead.

In the afternoon Chapman came back strong again, sending the lead to eight up on the third hole. After two halved holes he won the next three to close it out.

As Ken Alyta of Charlotte, Associated Press sportswriter put it, Durham wound up his losing effort by "extending his hand to congratulate the man who had finally caught the rainbow after chasing it since the time his opponent had been in grade school."

For Chapman, it was indeed a rainbow, but he didn't stop. Just a few hours after he won the title, he announced he would play in the Carolinas Open Tournament being played in Goldsboro.

P. J. Boatwright, a neighbor in Pinehurst of Chapman, is defending champion. Tomorrow (Friday) a winner should be known. Maybe, as one man at the match last Saturday said, "Pinehurst will win everything in the State this year." Maybe.

Retired General Purchases Porges Estate In Pinehurst

Retired Army generals continue to show partiality to the Sandhills as a place for retirement. This time a general who at one time was commander of forces in Germany during World War 2 has purchased a home on Midland Road.

He is Lt. General George Price Hays who, with his wife, has purchased the George M. Porges estate through Biddle and company of Pinehurst.

Gen. Hays, recently retired, took over the command of American forces in Europe from Gen. Lucius Clay, and he served in that capacity for several months. He and Mrs. Hays plan to make their permanent home in the Sandhills. Mr. Porges retained acreage on the estate and will construct a small cottage for himself.

Biddle and Co., the Pinehurst real estate firm, also announced last week the sale of the "La Casita" cottage, facing the Caro-

Easter Seal Fund Drive In County Nets About $2300

Frank R. Gramelsbach of Pinehurst, president of the Moore County Society for Crippled Children and Adults, announced this week that the total collected to date in the recent Easter Seal campaign was approximately $2,300. An individual accounting broken down by communities will be released at a later date, he said, in order that donors will be informed the extent of participation in their individual communities.

Gramelsbach said that 55 per cent of all campaign reserves will be retained locally to be used in assisting needy crippled children and adults in the county, and also that certain of the funds are also expended from the offices in Chapel Hill in assisting certain other cases in the county.

"I wish to express my sincere appreciation to the people of the county for their generosity as exhibited in the campaign," Gramelsbach said, "and to the many volunteer workers who gave of their time in making the drive successful. I can assure everyone that their donations will be used to assist people who otherwise would have no assistance. Their cause is certainly a most worthy one." North Carolina farmers could greatly increase farm income if they used top quality seed.
