Given Foundation Makes $20,000 Bequest At Moore Memorial Hospital

A donation of $20,000 to the Moore Memorial Hospital was announced this week by the John La Porte Given and Irene Heinz Given Foundation of New York, to be used for the purchase of both a new X-ray table and a new portable X-ray machine.

Both items have long been on the waiting list at the hospital, according to Administrator Thomas Howerton, to increase the efficiency of the X-ray department.

The gift, coming at this time, will provide the hospital with three diagnostic machines in the X-ray department as well as a modern bedside X-ray machine for patients who cannot be moved, Howerton said. It will make the X-ray department at the hospital one of the best equipped institutions of its size in the state. Certain reconstruction of some of the rooms adjoining the department will be required and it is planned to start work on the project immediately. The order for the new equipment has already been placed with the General Electric Company and should be delivered in about sixty to ninety days.

"It seems quite appropriate that this particular type of gift has been received from the Given Foundation, as the first X-ray equipment, at the time the hospital was completed in 1929, was donated by Mrs. Irene Heinz Given," Howerton said. "During the succeeding years Mr. and Mrs. Given continued to make generous gifts to the hospital, much of which was used for special surgical equipment, stents, dry furnishings for the nurses' home and recreational facilities for the nursing personnel, as well as other special requirements approved by Mr. and Mrs. Given."

Negotiations For Mozur Lace Plant Are Still Pending

"Still pending" was the official word today on the proposed construction of a lace manufacturing plant near here.

"It seems as though we're supposed to know something every Friday," one member of the Southern Pines Development Corporation, the agency which is attempting to bring the plant here, said. "All we know, however, is that Charles Mozur, president of the firm that will operate the plant, is continuing conferences with contractors and bankers. They keep us informed of their progress, when there is progress made, but it now appears that we'll just have to keep our fingers crossed."

Holding up the deal is the inability of one contractor, J. P. Rogers of Smithfield, to secure an adequate construction loan. It is understood that Mr. Mozur is now holding talks with another contractor in Sanford in an attempt to work out a satisfactory method of financing the construction.

Funds subscribed privately here by almost 200 people and business firms, which amounted to $180,000, and the $175,000 loan promised by the North Carolina Business Development Corporation, cannot be used until the plant is completed.

A considerable amount of equipment purchased by the Mozur firm is now in storage here, it has been learned, which is a sound indication that the company is doing everything possible to carry through with the project.

Dr. Ray Dougherty Will Establish His Office Here

Dr. Ray Dougherty, who has practiced in Vass for the past four years, will open an office in Southern Pines at 180 East Connecticut Avenue Monday for the practice of family medicine.

His offices in Vass will remain open, he said, and office hours of 9 to 1 will remain unchanged. In Southern Pines his office hours will be from 2 to 5 by appointment.

A graduate of the University of Oklahoma Medical School, Dr. Dougherty served one year internship and one year as medical and pediatric resident at St. Anthony's Hospital, Oklahoma City, before practicing three years there.

He came to Southern Pines in 1952 but entered the Army after three months and served a four year tour of duty with the rank of captain at Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville, Ala.

Returning to Southern Pines he took over offices in Vass which had been occupied by the late Dr. R. G. Rosser. He also became associated with St. Joseph's of the Pines Hospital.

He and Mrs. Dougherty and their five children live in Knollwood on the first fairway of Pine Needles Country Club.

The telephone number of his offices here is OX 2-6021.

Tennis Courts Get Overhaul; Summer Schedule Given

Extensive repairs to the municipal tennis courts in preparation for a busy summer season were underway this week under the supervision of Malcolm Clark, who will direct that phase of the town's recreation program.

A complete scraping of loose sand and removal of several sand deposits was followed by a general dicing of the four courts and packing.

When completed, the courts should be in their best condition in years, Clark said.

He released the following schedule for instruction and play: Boys and girls, ages eight to 10, mornings from 9 until 10 o'clock. Girls 11 to 13, mornings from 10 until 11 o'clock. Boys 11 to 13, 11 to 12 o'clock. Boys 13 and up, afternoons from two to three o'clock. Girls, 13 and up, three to four o'clock.

Extra instruction will be given from four to five, Clark said.

Runoff For Two Posts Assured; Scheduled June 28

Wendell Kelly of Carthage, second man in the primary race for Democratic nomination for sheriff of the county, and W. Sidney Taylor of Aberdeen, who ran second to T. Clyde Auman of West End in the race for county commissioner from District 5, have both asked for a second primary.

It will be held June 28, as prescribed by state law, according to Sam C. Riddle.

Kelly will face Charles Wimberly of Aberdeen.

Wimberly led Kelly by 56 votes in the primary almost two weeks ago. He polled 1,338 votes, Kelly had 1,282.

In the commissioner's race, Auman was tops in the three man field, polling 2,387 to Taylor's 2,031. The third man, E. B. Hinson, got 408 votes, enough to cause Auman to miss a majority by just 27 votes.

Interest has slackened off in the past few days but is expected to pick up again next week. Most observers think that no more than 3,500 people will vote in the runoff, as opposed to slightly more than 5,000 when the primary was held.

LICENSE BUREAU
A new schedule for operation of the automobile license bureau, maintained here in the Chamber of Commerce office on N. E. Broad Street, was announced this morning by Mrs. S. D. Fobes, manager.

The office will be open Mondays through Fridays from 9 a. m. to noon only. The Chamber of Commerce office will continue on its regular schedule, however.

Mrs. Fobes urged patrons of the license bureau to observe the new hours.

Local Guardsman Is Injured
A demolition charge left in an area which was supposedly cleared exploded early Tuesday morning, inflicting second degree burns on the legs of a Southern Pines National Guardsman.

Pfc. Huey C. Fry, member of Company D 130th Tank Battalion, was hurt when the explosion occurred early Monday morning on a tank range. His injuries were not serious, according to medical officers, and he was expected to return to duty in a few days.

The local tank company is at Fort Bragg as part of the regular training program.

The unit left Sunday morning and will be away 15 days.

This is the fourth encampment at Fort Bragg for the Division since it was reorganized as the all North Carolina unit in 1954. And it became the local unit's

DISTRICT OFFICIALS ELECTED

Lions Convention Here Is Termed Successful; About 1500 Registered

Lions, an estimated 1,500 of them, roared into Southern Pines Sunday, held one of the best, three day conventions in member ever held in Southern Pines and perhaps one of the most successful. Local officials, unwinding this morning after more than three months of steady work in making preparations, said they were extremely pleased with the way the convention came off. "A little hectic at times, a little agonizing at other times," one said, "but tremendously self-satisfying. We feel that Southern Pines has further proved itself as a good convention town."

The Lions, representing some 300 clubs, chased back and forth among the three focal points of interest in the convention: the Hollywood Hotel which was convention headquarters, Weaver Auditorium, which served as meeting place for traditional ceremonies and business sessions, and the National Guard Armory, which was used for meals and entertainment.

Several top offices in the State Lions organization were at stake: district governorships and international director nominee.

Waging one of the most colorful battles for the governorship of District 31—F was Stacy Budd of Sanford, who defeated E. R. Graham of Aberdeen. Budd, who came equipped with a trailer, much campaign talk to delegates and when it got hot, ice cream to anyone who asked for it.

Other governorships were won by F. E. Shull of Canton, 31—A; Robert E. Lee, Lenoir, 31—B; Manly Clard, Lawndale, 31—C; Dr. John R. Bender, Winston-Salem, 31—D; Wayne C. Simpson, China Grove, 31—F; Daniel E. Bland, Raleigh, 31—G; Ben Parrott, Kinston, 31—H; and Phil

Red Cross Swim Classes To Begin Here Next Month
Swimming classes under the sponsorship of the American Red Cross county chapter will begin in July, it was announced today by Dr. J. C. Grier, Jr., and D. A. Blue, chairman of the safety service program of the chapter.

"In view of the fact that Bible classes in so many of our churches continue throughout June," Dr. Grier said, "it was decided to hold the classes in July. Meanwhile, those who wish to enroll in beginner, intermediate and life saving classes may contact Red Cross headquarters in Southern Pines."

He said that an unusually large number of people had applied for the program.

One-Hour Parking Law Voted Out By Council

INSECT SPRAYING

Insect spraying here will begin as soon as materials are available, Town Manager Louis Scheipers, Jr., said today.

He was authorized Tuesday night by the Council to continue the program.

A number of residents, he reported, had telephoned the town offices or made visits and requested the spraying program be started as soon as possible.

This year, he reported, a new type spray, recommended by the State Health Department, will be used.

Wagram Woman Is Killed Near Eagle Springs On Sunday

Mrs. Ersie Moore Spinks, 49, of Wagram, was killed about 6:15 Sunday when the car she was driving was rammed head-on by another car near Eagle Springs.

The fatality was Moore County's third this year.

State Highway Patrolman R. R. Samuels, who investigated the accident, said he was informed by medical authorities at Moore Memorial Hospital that Mrs. Spinks died of a crushed chest.

The driver of the other car was John Henry Hinson of West End. Patrolman Samuels said Hinson informed him he had run into highway 211 from the Jackson Springs road when his brakes locked as he attempted to apply them at the intersection.

No charges have been preferred pending a more complete investigation.

Hinson suffered a fractured and dislocated hip, compound fractures of his right arm, and a deep wound to his scalp. He was alone in his car.

Riding with Mrs. Spinks were her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Moore, both of whom received cuts about the face, her son, Hugh Spinks, Jr., 9, who had several teeth loosened, and her sister, Selma Gibson, who had severe lacerations, a crushed elbow, and deep cuts on her leg.

Mrs. Gibson, Samuels said, was riding in the front seat with Mrs. Spinks and was thrown into the windshield of the car.

The wreck, which occurred near Howard Harrison's peach packing shed, attracted a large crowd who were parked along (Continued on page 8)

INSTEAD, PURCHASES FOR $8,000

Town Rejects Proposal To Re-Zone Milliken Property In Business Area

A 40-foot strip of property on S. E. Broad Street was purchased by the Town Council for $8,031.30 Tuesday night after its owner, Dr. J. S. Milliken, had tried in vain to have it zoned for business purposes in order to sell it to the Southern Pines Building and Loan Association.

In making the purchase, which would make the land worth about $200 a front foot, the Council went on record as being in favor of future purchase of the rest of Dr. Milliken's tract and thus acquire the entire block for park and municipal building purposes.

One member, J. B. Tollison, voted against the town acquisition; he was in favor, he said, of zoning the strip for business purposes.

There is about 120 more front feet on the street owned by Dr. Milliken. He told the Council he had tried three times to sell all the property to the town but had been unsuccessful. Now, he said, he felt it should be zoned for business so the Building and Loan could erect its headquarters there.

Harry Fullenwider, who is attorney for the Building and Loan, told the Council construction of a building now would "show our confidence in the town's future while everyone else is talking recession."

It was inconceivable, he added, that the property should be kept in a residential zoning area when

Two Hour Limit Is Reinstated Immediately

Its official now.

The one hour parking ordinance in the business section of town has been abandoned in favor of a return to the two hour limit.

Merchants all over town hailed the decision, made by Town Council at its regular monthly meeting Tuesday night, as "excellent." One remarked that the decision would take some of the sting from out-of-town customers' bitter remarks about the town "but it will take a while for our good relations to resume and we'll have to suffer in the meantime."

Along with the official change back to two hour parking, several merchants present at the meeting reaffirmed their pledge to keep their and their employees' cars off the streets during business hours.

Joe Scott, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said he felt sure that merchants would cooperate. "We are going to urge 'self-policing' on our members and hope in that way to alleviate what parking problem there might be," he said.

Council zipped through several changes, taking them one at a time, in order to reverse the ordinance which was adopted about a month ago. As it now stands, there is two hour parking everywhere there had been one hour parking, with the exception of East Broad Street between Pennsylvania Avenue and New York Avenue. That street, which passes Dr. Milliken's office and the new town hall, both in residential zoning areas, will be unlimited parking.

It is the one place, most merchants feel, that will serve merchants who must have their cars in a handy location.

Mrs. Graham Culbreth, who headed an advisory committee of merchants which had as its single function making recommendations to help the parking situation (after Council had passed the one hour ordinance and received much harsh criticism), said that "there has been little change with our customers since they first found the one hour limit in effect. They're still bitter and the feeling is running high. I think we've lost business because of it and I think the Council was wise to make the changes recommend-
