Home Demonstration Club News

Jackson Springs Club
The Jackson Springs Home Demonstration Club met at the Community Center with Mrs. Charles McDonald as hostess. The president, Mrs. Claude Thomas, was honored with a surprise birthday party at this meeting. She received many beautiful and useful gifts.

Mrs. Edgar Graham was in charge of the program, "Children and Money" being the topic. Mrs. Graham gave a very interesting and inspiring discussion on this timely subject.

A sink has been purchased for the Community Center. It was announced that the Home Demonstration Club would be hostess to the Ruritan Club in November. —By Mrs. Elrie Thomas, publicity chairman.

Dr. and Mrs. C. C. McLean are looking forward to having their parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. McLean of Eagle Springs, and Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Dew of Lumber Bridge, also Mrs. McLean's twin sister, Miss Pearl Dew of Fayetteville, as Thanksgiving Day guests.

In and Out of Town

Dr. and Mrs. D. W. Mann will take a vacation during the Thanksgiving holidays, visiting relatives in Clearfield, Pa. Dr. Mann will reopen his office Friday, December 5.

Mrs. James Boyd spent last weekend at Chapel Hill as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Swalin. She will spend Thanksgiving with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Noel Sokoloff, in Princeton, N. J.

William Astor Drayton of Southampton, Long Island, N. Y., arrived Wednesday to spend Thanksgiving with Dr. and Mrs. John E. Elmendorf, Jr., of Midland Road.

Jerry Healy, Jr., a student at N. C. State College in Raleigh, and his wife are Thanksgiving holiday guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Healy of North Page Street. Jerry will be at home until Sunday.

Mrs. Walter Edwards, who has been recuperating for several days at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Ruggles, following surgery at Moore Memorial Hospital, is returning to her own home today (Wednesday). Her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Edwards, Jr., of Wilmington, Del., will be her guests Thanksgiving Day and through the weekend.

Miss Katherine Wiley will have as Thanksgiving Day guests her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Schaefer, of Asheboro.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Ray and their five children, of Charlotte, John Ray of the University at Chapel Hill, and Misses Hester and Callie Battle of Pinehurst will be Thanksgiving holiday guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Ray.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest L. Ives arrived at Paint Hill Farm last Friday following a summer's absence. They spent two months in Italy and were at their home in Bloomington, Ill., for a part of the time.

Bradley Johnson, son of Mrs. Lewis Johnson of Pinehurst, is arriving today from Wake Forest College to spend the Thanksgiving holidays.

Harold A. Collins, Jr., of N. C. State College, Raleigh, and James Collins of the University of South Carolina are at home for the Thanksgiving holidays. Miss Ann Allande, also of the University of South Carolina, is a holiday guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Collins.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hastings, their son, Jay, and daughter, Holly, of Philadelphia, are arriving today (Wednesday) to be guests of Dr. and Mrs. Robert C. VanderVoort during the Thanksgiving

Ramseur Man Is Seriously Hurt In Weekend Wreck

Two one-car accidents occurred in the county last weekend, resulting in injuries to two persons one of them serious, and bad damage to two cars, according to a report by the State Highway patrol.

Winfred Brown, 43, of Ramseur, lost control of his car Sunday afternoon, on the Hemp Street extension about a mile northeast of Robbins. His 1955 Dodge coupe hit a tree, damaging the car and causing Brown to suffer a serious head injury. He was taken to Moore Memorial Hospital. Brown was alone in the car.

Willie Lee Shamburger, Negro, 22, suffered head lacerations when his 1954 Ford two-door skidded, ran into a ditch and overturned, on a rural paved road about six miles from Robbins Saturday evening. Shamburger received first aid treatment at a physician's office in Robbins. His car was rated "demolished."

No arrest had been made in either case as the investigation continued early this week.

Photography Exhibit Now On View Getting Good Comment

Exhibiting the work of professionals and amateurs in the confines of a single room generally isn't a good idea (the pros almost always win hands down), but the Library Art Gallery's selection committee defied the unwritten rule over the weekend and tacked up an extremely pleasing show of some 30 photographs, a mixture of about half and half.

Those who have commented on the pictures to date are unanimous on one point: the exhibit is a good one, probably made so because the amateurs' pictures bring a freshness to the exhibit that professionals all too often miss in their desire for technical perfection.

The pictures vary all the way from John Hemmer's famous "Shrimp Boats," made on the Carolina coast several years ago, to a Kodakcolor of an old lady sitting in a cabin holding enough material to fashion one of those old quilts that used to be in every household. It was made by Mrs. Gertrude Page.

There are five other photographers represented though at least two of them would not want to be classified as such: Harvey Horne, Emerson Humphrey, Henry Turner, Daniel Boyd, Vance Derby and Valerie Nicholson.

Mr. Hemmer's "Shrimp Boats" dominates the exhibit and well it should. It represents what can be done with a camera if the photographer is truly a good one. Mr. Hemmer, whose reputation as a New York newspaper photographer preceded him to the Sandhills many years ago (he's now official photographer for Pinehurst, Inc., and has worked with the State Advertising Bureau several years), did well to select the coastal scene for the exhibit.

In a brown tint, the picture shows the boats going out in the early morning and it's doubtful if the viewer will fail to get a feeling that he's riding in a boat just behind.

Other of Mr. Hemmer's pictures in the exhibit are aerial views of two Sandhills showplaces, an action shot of the two lead dogs on a hunt—ears and feet flying—and one of his famous trotting pictures that clearly shows a trademark: all four of the trotter's feet are off the ground, a difficult time to catch them.

Emerson Humphrey, whose reputation as a photographer of horse and hunting scenes has been established, has four photographs: one of a horse jumping, another of the Moore County Hounds gathered just before a hunt, a golf scene taken at Pine Needles, and one of the lake at Clarendon Gardens. The golf scene has been widely reproduced, as has the one of the horse going over the hurdle.

Harvey Horne, an employee of Carolina Power & Light, has a memorable picture of four gentlemen in a bull session. Each of the men would make a fine portrait singly, but taking the four together is something an amateur seldom does.

He also has one of a scene in Germany or Switzerland showing a street in a small town with huge mountains in the background (probably the Alps), and a snow scene showing some boys getting ready to throw snowballs.

Henry Turner's three portraits are all good but the middle one, a Southern Pines man, is probably the best. It shows a happy man who has just finished a day of hard work and seemingly standing back saying: "Hey, mister, take my picture!"

The other portraits are of a young girl and one of Clifton Blue, this county's representative in the General Assembly.

Mrs. Page's color photograph is extremely good.

She has one picture, in a small frame and sitting by itself, of a woman picking up shells from the beach. Look hard and you'll see a man in the water behind her, an excellent gimmick to indicate depth. Another of the pictures is of a woman walking along the beach, and three are mountain scenes.

In her picture of the old woman in the cabin the viewer should take a closer look and he'll find a touch of modern in it: sitting on a table behind the old woman is a radio, just the right touch to make it a good photograph.

Daniel Boyd's picture is of Wendy, his daughter, clutching a toy while looking at some geraniums. The colors are very good, particularly of the flowers, and the gray background of the house offers seems to touch the picture off just right.

Mrs. Valerie Nicholson, a correspondent here for a number of daily newspapers, has six photographs in the exhibit, three of them illustrating the technique

CAROLINA, a regular alley cat who belongs to Mr. and Mrs. George K. Foster, sometime residents of Pinehurst, watches his master on the putting green just before taking off for a trip to Arizona and California for the Thanksgiving holidays. Carolina has travelled thousands of miles with the Fosters in the four years he's lived with them, the longest trip, just completed, to Africa and back. (Hemmer photo)

SHE'S MISS "CAROLINA"

Pinehurst Cat Logs 40,000 Miles This Year; Visits Europe, Africa

Most of the winter people in Pinehurst could qualify as "cosmopolitan" because they're widely travelled, have friends in many corners of the globe, and live in what has come to be known as the "high levels of society."

Now comes word that there's a winter resident who has an additional qualification: she's a cat.

"Carolina" is her name and she's the property of Mr. and Mrs. George K. Foster, mostly of Montreal, but also of California, New York and Tanganyika, Africa.

"Carolina" came to the Fosters about four years ago when they were visiting in Pinehurst and has travelled thousands of miles since, 40,000 this year alone!

Of the alley variety, "Carolina" travels with Mr. and Mrs. Foster (he's a consulting mining engineer), wherever they go. They've been back and forth to Pinehurst from Montreal, to California, and recently returned from Tanganyika where Mr. Foster was on a job.

Fry is regularly assigned as a policeman in Company B of the infantry at Fort Gordon, Ga. He entered the Army last January and completed basic training at the fort.

Fry, son of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Fry, Carthage, is a 1955 graduate of Carthage High School and is a former employee of the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company in Carthage.

Army Recruit Clement H. Richardson, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight D. Richardson, West Ed, recently completed eight weeks of basic combat training at Fort Jackson.

Richardson is a 1958 graduate of West End High School.

Army Cpl. William H. Jackson Jr., 19, whose parents live on Route 1, West End, recently was graduated from the Fort George C. Meade (Md) Non-Commissioned Officer Academy.

Corporal Jackson received four-weeks of training in map-reading, tactics, and chemical-biological-radiological warfare.

He is regularly assigned as a policeman with the Military Police Company in Arlington, Va. Jackson was last stationed at Fort Gordon, Ga.

Corporal Jackson attended Pinehurst High School.

Leaving at August's end, Carolina sailed from Dar es Salaam, Tanganyika's capitol and seaport, for Trieste, Italy, a 16-day sea voyage aboard an Italian liner.

Arriving there, they drove 2,100 European miles in the Fosters' car while touring the Riviera—Italian, French and Spanish—and embarked at Barcelona for New York City.

From New York the Fosters went to Montreal and arrived a few days ago in Pinehurst.

Now, "Carolina" is on her way to Phoenix, Arizona, via (and Thanksgiving dinner?) and then on to Palms, California, for a visit.

"Carolina" has however. She came at the Carolina in namesake.
