First Doe Deer Season In History Set For Two Days

For the first time in history there will be an antlerless deer hunting season in this area, though the season is only for two afternoons.

The State Wildlife Resources Commission announced the hunt this morning for an area that covers hundreds of square miles South of Southern Pines. Much of the open hunting area is in the 58,000-acre Sandhills Wildlife Management Area.

Dates for the hunt are December 15 and 16, from noon to sunset.

Checking stations for hunting in the Wildlife Management Area will be set up in Pinebluff and at the Sandhills Management Area. Hunters are required to have a special permit costing $3 to hunt inside the management area and, of course, a regular license for hunting anywhere.

Lyle Morgan, the Wildlife Refuge manager for the Management Area said the hunting area would include parts of Moore, Hoke, Scotland and Richmond Counties, enclosed by the following line:

Beginning at Southern Pines, southeasterly along Connecticut Avenue to the northwest corner of Hoke County and from there along the Hoke county line to Highway 15-501. From that point the line is South with the highway to County Line Road, where it turns West. (Continued on page 8)

Cameron Is Second Community To Get Rural Fire Truck

For the first time in its history the town of Cameron has a fire department, complete with a brand new 500-gallon truck and a new fire house.

Hubert Nickens, mayor of Cameron and the chief of the volunteer fire department, expressed great enthusiasm this week as he told about the new acquisitions.

"This is the first time this town has had any fire protection, even a bucket brigade," he said, "and we're all thrilled, of course. The men have been busy trying to finish the fire house and much credit goes to them as well as others who have worked faithfully and hard to get the job finished. We're especially grateful to those who have contributed their labors and materials to this new facility."

This is the second fire truck purchased by the county for rural fire protection under a program (Continued on page 8)

Japanese Golfer, Here To Inspect Courses, Says Area Has "Best In World;" He Plans To Build Two In Japan

Sandhills golf courses received a veritable avalanche of compliments this week: "best in the world" was one; "tough," "interesting," "beautifully designed" and "the best test of golfing in the world" were others. The compliments were delivered by a young Japanese amateur, Toru Shoriki, who is from Tokyo and is in this country gathering information he plans to use in the eventual construction of two courses. Mr. Shoriki, whose father is publisher of Tokyo's largest daily newspaper and one of the most important men in that country, is a guest at Pine Needles Lodge and Country Club. Interviewed there this week, he said he was planning to build two courses—one private and one public—between Tokyo and Yokohama and had been informed that the Sandhills was one place in the country he must visit. "I wanted to know what a real course looked like," he said, "and I am quite impressed with the fact that Donald Ross designed all seven in this area. In Japan we have more than 100 courses, but none will equal these here." Mr. Shoriki, who is 40 but looks more like 25, is unmarried. "My wife is golf," he said, "and I play every chance I get. I hope to use golf as a means of promoting etiquette, good manners, sportsmanship and skill to my countrymen. Your American baseball caught on years ago in Japan and now golf is doing the same." A player for only a year and a half, Mr. Shoriki now shoots in the high 70's and has a handicap of six in Japan. Mrs. Peggy Kirk Bell, pro at Pine Needles, suggested, however, that his handicap in this country would be four. "I predict he'll be the amateur champion of Japan one of these days," she said, "because he learns so fast."

Already a baseball player and fan, Mr. Shoriki says those days are in his past. "What I want to do now is really bring big time golf to Japan," he said, "and I think with the addition of two good courses, plus other plans we have for attracting international matches, we'll have good golf in a few years." His father is chairman of the (Continued on page 8)

League Of Women Voters Will Hear Talk On Judiciary

Mrs. Carl G. Pickard of Asheville, first vice president of the North Carolina League of Women Voters, will be the principal speaker at the next meeting of the local chapter of the organization Tuesday morning at the home of Mrs. Katherine McColl on Weymouth Road.

The meeting, which is open to the public, is due to begin at 10 o'clock. Mrs. Pickard, who is also the Judicial Study Chairman of the State organization, will discuss the state's present judicial system, probably bringing in the changes that will be recommended to the next General Assembly by the Spencer Bell committee.

Bill Seymour, center on the Blue Knights Eastern Championship football team and a member of the first string All-State "A" team, was awarded the James S. Milliken Memorial Trophy as most valuable player at the annual football banquet last Friday. The banquet, sponsored by the Elks Club, was held at the clubhouse and attracted an unusually large attendance. The Milliken Trophy is awarded by the John Boyd Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Special judges named by VFW make up the selection committee. (Continued on page 8)

Mrs. Pickard attended Washington Seminary, the University of North Carolina Law School, and was admitted to the North Carolina Bar in 1932. She has served as treasurer and president of the Asheville Chapter of the League, as well as chairman of several committees in the chapter. Statewide, she has been chairman of the publications and judiciary committees, a second vice president, and a local league consultant.

Mayor Asks Town To Clean Up, Use Christmas Lights

December 15 to December 20 has been designated by Mayor Walter Blue as "clean-up week" here.

Mayor Blue asked this newspaper Tuesday night during the regular monthly session of the Town Council to publicize the observance, and at the same time he recommended to citizens to string up lights out-of-doors to "brighten up our town during the Christmas season."

"This is the first time in my memory," he said, "that the town has had no lights on the streets at Christmas time."

The town, Manager Louis Scheipers pointed out, has no facilities nor funds for putting up Christmas lighting on the streets, though he said that in years past the town has paid for the electricity that was used in the program.

The Chamber of Commerce, which went out of existence several months ago, formerly put up the lights as one of its prime projects.

The magnolia tree at the intersection of Pennsylvania Avenue and Broad Street has been lighted by members of the Southern Pines Garden Club.

Jaycees To Again Sponsor Christmas Lighting Contest

The Junior Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a residential home lighting contest again this year for the third time.

All residents are eligible. The winner will receive an engraved plaque acknowledging the honor.

Robert Dunn, Jaycee president, reminded those who plan to enter (all homes inside the corporate limits will be judged) that the most expensive decoration will not necessarily be the best.

"We are encouraging originality," he said, "which, of course, should be accompanied by good lighting techniques."

He said a panel of judges would be selected and make rounds of various neighborhoods during the Christmas holidays and the winner would be announced soon thereafter.

Last year's winner was Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Ramsey of 345 Crestview Road.

AT LADIES NIGHT PROGRAM John Ruggles Awarded Builders Cup; Kiwanis Gives $1,000 For Education

John S. Ruggles, Southern Pines real estate and insurance man, was named the 1958 recipient of the Sandhills Kiwanis Club Builders Cup at the club's annual Ladies Night program Friday.

Presented by R. F. Hoke Pollock, incoming Kiwanis president, the cup was awarded for Ruggles' "longtime service to the upbuilding of the Sandhills without thought of personal gain." He was the 32nd person so honored since the first presentation was made in 1927.

A large gathering at the Pinehurst Country Club heard Pollock describe Ruggles' contributions to the community, with particular emphasis on his work with the North Carolina Board of Hospitals Control, on which he has served almost 10 years.

Those attending the event gave Ruggles, a member of the club, a standing ovation.

Prior to the cup presentation the announcement was made that a sum of $1,000 was being given by the Kiwanis Club to the Moore County Educational Foundation, Inc., to be used for the purpose of interest-free college loans for deserving young people.

The foundation, which is operated by Kiwanians, has helped many college bound students with large and small loans from a revolving fund. Though it was not an officially sponsored project of the Kiwanis Club, its Board of Directors were all Kiwanians, and always have been. John Howarth, chairman of the Southern Pines School Board, is chairman of the board and Paul Dana of Pinehurst is secretary-treasurer.
