CUSTOMERS DEMAND IT

Use Of Plastic Bags To Continue In Area By Cleaning Establishments

Plastic bags will continue to be used in this area "because our customers demand them," two operators of dry cleaning establishments said this week.

Al Cruce, owner of Crucedale Cleaners in Aberdeen, and William T. Shore, owner of Parkway Cleaners here, said they had received only two complaints between them in recent weeks and hundreds of people had urged continued use of the bags, now under fire in some quarters of the country because of the more than 60 deaths attributed to them so far this year.

According to Shore more than 100 people have volunteered their opinions on the matter, and, with a single exception, people are in favor of their continued use.

Cruce said he had asked a couple of hundred customers whether they would favor his quitting the bags in favor of paper ones. "Only two said they would," he said, "and I respect their opinions. But people must realize that matches, electrical appliances, knives and other useful items are dangerous too when they get into the hands of a child."

"But education seems to be the answer. We can't get rid of everything that has a potential danger. The answer, as announced this week by the Plastics Industry, Inc., which represents many makers of plastic materials, lies in education."

Both men said they could save money if they used paper bags but added that their customers demanded the plastic.

Shore complained that the dry cleaners had been bearing the brunt of the criticism that followed the reported deaths of infants because of plastic bags. One such death occurred here several months ago and there have been 61 reported in the country so far this year.

"Grocery stores have quite a few of their products wrapped or bagged in plastic," he said, "and furniture manufacturers are using more and more of it for their products. Actually, dry cleaners use an extremely small amount of the total output of plastic."

Most of the deaths attributed to plastic bags have come when the bags were used as crib and pillow covering for infants. They get the thin plastic against their mouth and nostrils and cannot remove it. "We hope people will take the same care in keeping plastic bags away from their children as they do with matches, knives and other things," Cruce said.

Drunk Cases Fill Major Portion Of Local Court List

The "public drunks" went to town in recorder's court this week, accounting for nine of the 16 cases that came before Judge W. Harry Fullenwider and Solicitor John D. McConnell.

Only three cases involved cars and traffic violations. Convicted of public drunkenness were the following:

Willard Lockey, Manly, 1 month suspended sentence, fined $15 and costs; Henry Dowdy, Carthage; $5 and costs; Edward Seward, Niagara, $10 and costs; Grady Cochran, Southern Pines, $5 and costs; James J. Harrington, Southern Pines, 1 month suspended sentence, $10 and costs; Winfred Hartsell, Aberdeen, $5 and costs; Judson M. Key, Vass, $10 and costs; O. D. White, 1 month suspended sentence, $10 and costs; James Lewis, Southern Pines, 1 month sentence suspended for 6 months, $20 and costs.

Convicted for traffic violations were: Odell Small, Cameron; operating without a license: 1 month suspended for 6 months, and the pledge not to drive again until a license is secured: $25 and costs.

Marjorie I. Morton, Aberdeen, speeding: $15 and costs; Edward McRae, Adair, violating a stop sign: $5 and costs.

Fred Small, Southern Pines, was convicted of indecent exposure and fined $50, inclusive of court costs. Grady L. Curtis of Southern Pines was fined $25 and costs following a suspended sentence for assault on a female.

Frank Goode, of Southern Pines, was also convicted for assault on a female, however in consideration that his wife testified for him that he had never had any trouble before and were now living happily together, Judge Fullenwider placed the sentence at 3 months, suspended for 12 months, with a fine of $5 and costs.

The remaining case on the docket was that of Willis Troutman of Southern Pines, convicted of assault on a female and given a suspended sentence of three months on condition he "stay out of the company of the prosecuting witness for at least 12 months." He was fined $25 and costs.
